A CAMPAIGN SONG.

Respectfully Dedicated to the Peansylvania "Boys in Blue."

ALR-RED. WRITE. AND BLUE. We come from the hill and the mountain. To stand by the flag of the free,

As rivers that roll from the fountain
And swell on their way to the sea;
From forges where hammers are ringing
The rows of the brave and the true; For Grany, we all gather, singing,
Three cheers for the brave Boys in Blue.

CHORUS. Three cheers for the brave Boys in Blue! Three cheers for the brave Boys in Blue! For Geary we all gather, singing, Three cheers for the brave Boys in Blue!

We come from the plain and the 'valley,'
From furnace, and foundry, and mine,
And round our bold leader, we rally,
While "fighting it out on the line;"
Our banner we will hat surrender,

But here our devotion renew, For GEARY, the Union defender, The choice of the brave Boys in Blue. CHORUS-The choice of the brave, etc.

On treason we've all put a stopper,
And back to "the last ditch' it rolls; The Iron Boys don't carry "copper,"
When forward they march to the polls; They stand by the Union forever, And GEARY, the bold and the true;

No foeman the Union can sever. When kept by the brave lioys in Blue! CHORUS-When kept by the brave, etc. WM. OLAND BOURNE

AN UNWELCOME PASSENGER.

A PEDDLER'S STORY.

A cold winter's night, several years since, found a stage load of passengers gathered together around a warm fire of tavern bar room in a New England village. Shortly atter we arrived, a peddler drove up and ordered that his horse should be stabled for the night. of his profession were generally full of adventures and anecdotes. He was a short, thick set man, somewhere about forty years of age, and gave evidence of great physical strength. He gave his name as Lemuel Vinney, and his home wasin Dover, New Hampshire.

"Well, gentlemen," he commenced, knocking the ashes from his pipe, and putting it in his pocket, "suppose I tell you the last thing of any consequence that happened me. You see, I am now right from the West, and on my way home for winter quarters. It was during the early part of last spring, one pleasant evening, that I pulled up at the door of a small village tavern in Hancock county, Indiana. I went in and called for supper, and had my horse ta-ken care of. After I had eaten I sat down in the bar room. It began to rain about eight o'clock, and it was very dark out of doors. Now I wanted to be about midingin, as I wished to be on about two. He expressed some surprise at this, and asked me why I did not stay for breakfast. I told him that I had sold my last load about out, and that with my whip stock, and she peeled it faster than ever.

"There was a number of persons sitting around while I told this, but I took little notice of them; only one arrested my attention. I had seen that week a notice for the detection of a notorious robber. The bills gave a description of his person, and the man before me answered very well to it. He was a tall, well formed man, rather slight in frame.

"There was a number of persons sitting anything there, for the top of the top. But I had no more fear of his doing anything there, for the top of the top of the cart is framed with dove tails, and each his person, and the man before me antewered very well to it. He was a tall, well formed man, rather slight in frame.

To break the door open, and at this failed him he made several attempts on the top. But I had no more fear of his doing anything there, for the top of the top of the cart is framed with dove tails, and each little armies which passed through these countries had left us any. whip stock, carefully slipped down into the mud, and examined the hasp. The outer door of the cart lets down, and is fastened by a hasp which slips over the staple, and is then secured by a padlock. The padlock was gone, and the hasp was secured in its own place by a bit of age. I did not believe an ordinary man could break out. I got on my cart as noiselessly as I got off, and then urged my horse on, still keeping my pistol handy. I knew that at the distance of a half a mile further I should come to hard road. a half a mile further I should come to a hard road, and so I allowed my horse to pick his own way through the mud.

About ten minutes after this I heard a motion in the cart, followed by a grinding noise, as though some heavy force was being applied to the door. I said nothing, but the idea struck me that the villain might judge where I sat, and shoot up through the cart at me so I sat down on the front board.

Of course I knew that my unexpected passenger was a villain, for he must have been awake ever since I started and nothing in the world but absolute villainy would have caused him to re-

Just at that moment my horse's feet struck the hard road, and I knew that the rest of the route to Jackson would be good going; the distance, 12 miles.—I sipped back to the front board and took the whip. In fifteen minutes we cleared the woods, and away we went at a keen jump. The chap inside kept yelling to be let out.

Finally he stopped, and in a few minutes came the report of a pistol—one—

The South comes back demandin office, of which the fatted calf and rings and pur-ple robes is typical, and considerable more share in the Government than it had before it kicked over the traces and went out like the lost tribes of Israel. "Sposin the bible Prodigal had stopped his parent and remarked to him thus: 'I am willin to cum back on condishuns. You must pay my debts—you must give me an equal share of the farm with the other boys—you must treat me in all respects just as if I hadn't gone out, and—this is essential—you must take with me all the sharpers who ruined me, all the gamblers and thieves with whom I fell in while I was away, and make them head men on the place; and above all, I hev with me the two harlots which was the prime cause of my ruin, and they must have eleven of the best rooms in the house, and must be treated as your daughters. To avoid displeasin the others, I'll dress em in different clothes, but there they must stay. Otherwise I'll go out again.'

"Probably the old gentleman wood hev become indignant, and wood have remarked to him to go and never let him see his audacious face agin, or rather he would hev strangled the harlots, scattered the black legs, and choked the young sprout into submission. Them's me. I am anxious to kill that fatted calf, and am also anxious to put on you robes and shoes. FALSE CALVES, BOSOMS, AND PLUMP-ERS.—The false calves now so much in vogue are rendered necessary by the new style of tilting hoops, which go very far towards exposing what was be-fore only dreamed of, or existed only in imagination. In the language of an exchange:

"Their calves are not a fleeting show, For man's illusion given;
They're filled with bran or stuffed with tow,

And swell about a foot or so,
And look first-rate, by heaven."

A STORY OF THE TIMES .- In the midst of the late excitement, and at the movuen every banks were going to the dogs together, Jones rushed into the bank of which he was a stockholder, and thrusting the certificate into the face of the transfer clerk, he said, in great haste: "Here, please transfer half that to Jas. P. Smith!"

The clerk looked at it, and asked, "Which half, Mr. Jones?"

"I don't care which half," replied Jones, puzzled at the inquiry.
"You had better go the courts; I can't make the transfer without a legal decision. If you really wish to transfer the transfer without a legal decision.

July 6, 1866. I preached last Sabbath, or rather tried to, from the parable of the Prodigal Son. We had a splendid congregasium. I notice a revival of the work in this part of the Dimocratic vineyard which reely cheers me. The demon-strashun our friends made in Memphis, was secured in its own place by a bit or pine, so that a slight force from within would break it. My wheel wrench stood in a leathern bucket on the side of the cart, and I quickly took it out and slipped it into the staple, the iron handle into the Dimocracy and encourage them to renewed effort. It is bringforth fruit. Only last week five harlots, Slavery and State Rights, and that a new lot of goods was waiting for me at Jackson, and I wanted to get there before the express agent left in the reply he made some tremendous efforts to break the door open, and as this failed currency, and the grocery keepers mourn well formed man, rather slight in frame, to the horse, and kept it up until he beand had the appearance of agentleman, came hoarse. All this time I kept per-very much uninterrupted.

"The prodigal son," says he, "was "Look here, we're to a safe stopping place, and mind you that my pistol is ready for you the moment you show yourself. Now lay quiet."

Look here, we're to a safe stopping went out decently. He didn't as soon as he withdrawed from the house, turn round and make war onto the old gentleman: he didn't have his here. By this time the two hostlers had barns, tear up his garden, burn his fencome to see what was the matter, and I ces, and knock down the balance of the explained the case. After this I got one children. Not any.
