"ABOU" JEFF, DAVIS.

Lately Jeff. Davis, (may his tribe die out !) Tessing and restless with a troubled doubt, Awolic one night from a thrice-repeated dream, That paled his check with visions dimly seen, And saw within the shadows of his room A Specific writing in the Book of Doom.
Executing crime, ambition, greed of gold and tuet of power, had made Jeff. Davis bold... the the grup Presence; with a furtive look, the said: "What, write you in the combre book?" The vision taised its head and gravely bowed!:" The names of the Bleet," it said aloud. . . And is mine one?" said Jeff., by fear inspired. Who are you?" stern and short, the fiend inquired.

Poor Jeff replied—he dure not speak untrue—,
The Specter's eyes transfixed bim through and

"Write mc with those who fill the prison pen—Buy, sell, betray, and hate their fellow men!"
The Demon wrote and vanished. And ere long It came again, in sulphuruits vapor, strong, And showed the names it Master loved the best: And lo ! Jeff Dueje's sume fed all the rest!

THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN.

SPEECH BY GOV. CURTIN.

There was a soldiers' pic-nic at York, Pa., on the 9th of August, at which full ten thousand Republican soldiers were present. Gov. Curtin and Gen. Geary made speches: We condense the Gov.

"It is true that at Reading the other day Montgomery Blair said that the war was not over that there was a political contest brewing, the violence of which might be brought to your yery doors and hearthstones. I do not like Montgomery Blair. I never did like these Blairs. [Cheers.] I trembled when the lamented Lincoln called Blair when the lamented Lincoln called Blair to his Cabinet, and I was glad when he removed him. [Cheers.] Aye, that good man one day, while Blair was yet in the Cabinet at Washington, took out his watch and said, "Mr. Blair, your time has come; walk!" and he descended from that, chamber to the kitchen of the White House, where he has been ever since making mischief; but he has got back again in a certain sense. I do not like such counsel around our President, nor do I like such men to come into Pennsylvania and threaten us with war; but if he will come into Pennsylvania and threaten us with cut-throats and civil violence, I tell you there are two who can play at that game. We want no menace. [Thunders of applause,] Congress has presented to us for our action certain amendments to the national Constitution. During Linches in St. Petersburg, was filled by Passell's in St. Petersburg inendments excluding to rever the black stain of siayery, and thank God for that if Cheers. J. It was a curse and a blight of the nation, now happily, removed and why should we not sanction the next of the provisions tair? If it be the pleasure of visions tair? If it be the pleasure of visions the people in the South to adopt universal suffrage, they can have it. If not, they need not have it. But we want an equitable basis of representation North and South. [Cheers.] Demogration North and South. [Cheers.] Demogratically and who had succeeded in establishing frage, negroes voting for white men fact, and they are, endeavoring to manel inself so well that he earned an ample stutton of the negro again in Pennsylvapia. In our State the Constitution can only be amended at the succeeded of the preadure of the preadure of the substantial girt.

Pennsylvapia. In our State the Contact the contact the stitution can only be amended, as you and outrageous ill-treatment, without the slightest provocation or retort on her part—all of which she had until now patiently endured.

The pastor expressed his regret that indisposition prevented him from leaving the house.

"Bring your husband to me," said he. they are agonized about it. They are in great distress because we are everywhere going to allow the negro to vote. [Cheers.] I say if the South wants him to vote, then come on with your wool, there is no possible objection to it. [Cheers.] These constitutional amendments provide that the Government of ments provide that the Government of the United States shall maintain its the United States shall maintain its the United States shall maintain its the united states and maintain its the united states and maintain its the united states shall maintain its the united states and in point of its destined to be one of the best and richest counties in this State. Its resources are more varied, and in point of fertility of soil, especially in the beautiful valley on Cowanesque river, and on many of its uplands, it compares father than the will not fail to wait on your vorably with any other part of the State; while on account of the abundant supply of sweet and fresh water, the United States shall maintain its faith to all its creditors for the public debt incurred during the war, and that not one cent of the rebel debt shall be paid." [Cheers.] Put that side by side with the nigger cry. They provide that no man who held office, civil or military, in the rebel service, shall take part in the Government of the U. States.—But they put in a clause by which the Southern States may come in. These men took part in this rebellion, whose hands are red with the blood of loval hands are red with the blood of loyal him, saying:
men—God forbid that such men should "Alia! the silver!" be allowed to take part in the Government. We must take men precisely as they are. Let men read and reflect, they are. They ments proposed by Congress to the Constitution of the United States. The people of Pennsylvania will reserve their action for a gallant charge on the second Tuesday in October. [Cheers.] That is the day on which we express our sentiments openly and without reserve. No onpression, no dictation, no ished, and several times attempted to be allowed to take part in the Governserve. No oppression, no dictation, no change can take away this American mode of expressing our opinion. That opinion will be expressed in October in terms not to be mistaken. I told you in 1860 I would be elected; so in 1863; tober, General Geary will be elected.—

[Cheers.] I can class those in Pennsylvania who oppose the recent amendments. They are those who were indifferent and criminal during the war—
those who are to take part in the Convention to be held in Philadelphia next wention to be held in Phila ered with the blood of the innocent, are to come to the city of Brotherly Love to teach Northern men their duty. [Groans.] Alexander H. Stephens, it is said, joined the Confederate cause under protest. He gives us an excuse that he expected to control the rebellion .-

and when he allowed him to come back. I trust, nay, I sincerely hope, they may may be allowed to assemble in their meet, where public sentiment was in their favor. [Applause.] But on the other hand, read the history of the former. Had the latter been brought into litigation, whose would have been the loss? Fortunately the good pastor had no thought of such an alternative.

New Orleans. That old man Hunt—Hufelt compassion for the poor man. new Orleans. That old man Hunt—his name was a household word in the United States—there was no doubt of his loyalty, and yet he was dragged rich enough to bear the injury, he bore United States—there was no doubt of his loyalty, and yet he was dragged through the streets of New Orleans, assaulted, trampled upon, and finally locked up in a prison where they confine their murderers and convicts. My friends, the spirit from hell which induced these proceedings is still alive. I am for increasing the army. [Loud and prolonged cheers.] If these men will not be obedient, they should be compelled. [Cheers.] That is the way our boys drove them from their forts and their knees in 1865, when the war closed. Now they are arrogant. They murder peaceable citizens, and earry the flag of the rebellion, and send delegates to the great State of Pennsylvania to consult on the future of America. It is the bounden duty of us in the loyal States who suppressed the rebellion and freed the negro, to profect him from violence to make the negro, to profect him from violence to make the negro. The same, as they seem to me of intertest; giving you full privilege to publish of the same as much or as little as you may deem proper, or of sufficient interest to your readers.

It costs a good deal to be wise, but it don't cost anything to be happy.

Necessity begot invention, invention begot convenience begot the yeomanry of Tioga county, often observed and remarked upon by me before, appeared to me in a much more far the revolution of man and is about all the negro, to protect him from violence and persecution. It is our duty to say he shall not be murdered by his former master. Our highest duty resting upon us from the throne of a merciful God, is to protect these men. [Cheers.] The Governor passed a high eulogy upon General Geary. He would have made Kansas free had it not been that we had a man in the chair at Washington utterly incapacitated to exercise its duties. The soldiers, made up of 15,000 in Philadelphia, 350 in Harrisburg, and in due proportion elsewhere, have resolved that Gen. Geary shall be Governor. [Cheers.] Gen. Geary shall be Governor. [Cheers.] Pennsylvania must not go back on the lessons of the war. O, how beautiful that scène in Philadelphia—366,000 men went to the war; 60,000 were slain, and this great State has gathered to her arms this great state has gathered to her arms the orphans of those brave men, and she this day nurtures them. [Cheers.] Each one of those little ones represents a soldier who gave up his life in favor of the Government. Let us say that however others may do, we will stand by the Government—by those who fought for it—and by their orphan children. My thanks to you for your kindness. [Cries of foo now go on?] And ness. [Cries of 'go on,' go on.'] And now, fellow citizens, wishing you all prosperity and happiness, and the success of your gallant standard bearer, I bid you farewell."

LIBERTY, Aug, 15, 1866.

Editor of the Agitator:—Having returned home after a pleasant tour thro' the greater part of Tioga county, so many reminiscences of pleasant observation crowd on my memory, that I think it proper to give you a brief outline of the same, as they seem to me of interest: giving you full privilege to publish bounden duty of us in the loyal States observed and remarked upon by me because the rebellion and freed the negro, to protect him from violence the negro, and struck me more forcible can brag on.

This can duty to say the negro of the negro of the negro of the negro. The negro of the nearly of the negro of the negro of the negro of the negro of the n houses, mostly constructed in a neat and substantial manner, as they appeared to substantial manner, as they appeared to my view passing through the county.—

I was glad to perceive that, as the farmers prospered by their industry, perseverance and thrift, and were able to substitute neat and comfortable, and in many instances very tasty dwelling houses, in the place of the forsaken log houses, relics and mementos of their endurance and self denial, they in their durance and self denial, they in their prosperity had also a due regard for the comfort of the rising generation, in erecting comfortable and neat school houses; and I could with pleasure, as from time to time they appeared in my sight, look on them as a sure index and waymark of the thrifty intelligence of the neighborhood.

As the time when I passed through the different sections of the county was water on the top of the ice,) but I notis a very busy season for the farmer, in cut- other folks can. in the introduction of machinery to lighten the laborious task of the farmer, was very forcibly illustrated by facts surrounding me on all sides. Wherever i passed, on the hillside and in the values the light of the marrier free light wash basin, I have always said, and I ing machines would take the bread out of the poor man's mouth, has long since exploded, and experience has plainly shown that every improvement and pro-gress in mechanics and agriculture, has added to the comfort of all, and diminished the earnings of none.

As Tioga county, in a general view, appeared to me during my late tour, it dant supply of sweet and fresh water, and its hills covered with a natural sweet grass, it is destined to become one of the finest dairy counties. When we add to these advantages the riches of the forest and the treasure in the bowels of its everlasting hills and mountains, we may form some faint idea of the bright prospects of Tioga county; and a proper realization of all these natural advantages, should fill our hearts with All licenses to sell intoxicating liquors gratitude to our Creator for the blessings specified that the holder was a man "of which we enjoy, and forever drive all good moral character;" and when he discontent, the enemy of happiness, from was urged to look upon his business as our minds.

Not a Bad Description.

Some years ago, in a fracas which occurred not a thousand miles from Vincennes, Indiana, a man accidentally present was severely cut with a knife by one of the belligerents. Much alarm was excited, and doctors were hastily sent for, an Esculapian came, "armed was excited, and doctors were hastily it amongst your choicest jewels; guard it as the apple of your cye; and when and equipped," as he thought was exactly right; at any rate he went to work moon the case as if he were constituted in the case as if he were con work upon the case as if he was going placed within your cold clammy fingtober, General Geary will be elected.—

"I hands in front of the neperfic ductus is lacerated to the interior spinus of the attachment of the fifth gang—" It was too much for a particular friend of the sufferer. He gave up, and hastened out into the fresh air to revive his fainting faculties. While walking up and down, painfully and despairingly wringing his hands, in front of the saloon where the mischief had been done, an acquaintance came hurriedly up and said to him, "How is Sam?" He replied, "there waiting in the next room."

The pastor began to look uneasy.

"She must be a mad woman," said he.

"Or a thief!" said the goldsmith.

They went hastily into the next room—but it was empty! The woman had disappeared with the chest of silver, and all the efforts of the police to recovular. more swine under your care," innocently replied the boy.

There seems to be four styles of mind: 1st, them who know it is so! them who know it aint so! 3d, them who split the difference, and 4th, them who don't care a darn which There is but few men who hev character enuff to lead a life of idleness.

True love is spelt just the same in Choctaw as it is in English. Those who retire from the world on account of its sine and peskiness, must not forgit that they have got to keep company with a person who wants just as much watching as anybody else. A puppy plays with every pup he meets, but old dogs have but few assohe fust begins to take good care on it.-This is good judgment—this is!

Most people decline to learn only by their own experience. And I guess they are more than ½ right, for I do not spose a man can get a perfect idee on molasses candy by lettin another feller taste it for him.

Success in life is very apt to make us forgit the time when we wasn't much. It is just so with the frog on the jump; he can't remember when he was a tadpole-but other folks can.

An individual, to be a fine gentleman, has either got to be born so, or be brought up so from infancy; he can't larn it sudden any more than he can larn how to talk Injeun correctly by practising on a tomahawk. I wonder if there ever was an old maid who ever heard on a match that she thought was suitable. If a man wants to git at his actual dimensions let him visit a graveyard.

the passengers, the captain is usually the confidant of one or both parties. A very fascinating young lady had been placed under Morgan's care, and three young gentlemen fell desperately in love with her. They were equally agreeable, and the young lady was puzzled which to encourage. She asked the captain's advice.

"Come on deck," he said, "the first day it is perfectly calm. The gentlemen will, of course, be near you. I shall have the boat lowered down, and you jump overboard, and see which of the gentlemen will jump after you." A calm day soon came, the captain's suggestions were followed, and two of the lovers jumped after the lady in an instant. But between these two the lady could not decide, so exactly alike had been their devotion. She again consulted the captain. "Take the man that didn't jump; he is the most sensible fellow, and will make you the best husband."

"OF GOOD MORAL CHARACTER."sinful and harmful to the community, he would with great self-complacency produce his "license." How this excuse will serve him at a future occasion, is thus pithily hinted at by Rev. John Pierpont in one of his addresses: "Yes, you have a license-and that is your plea. Well, my friend if this is your plea, I adjure you to keep it; lock lectmen.'

A late English invention of colored starch is one of the greatest novelties in the London fashionable world. Several colors are already produced, and the invention is being extended to others. Any article starched with this preparation is completely colored by it; but as the dye readily washes out, the garment that was pink to-day may be made green to-morrow, and so on. This starch is or great use for those bright but treacherously colored muslins that are very costly, but as their colors wash out, contin-ually perplex their owners. If the pat-tern has been green, starch of that color is used, and the green remains, and the same is true of any other color. To have the means always at hand, not only of keeping colors tast, but also of varying them day by day, must be invaluable to ladies.

The fellows are rather importunate out West. Witness the following newspaper announcement: "Engaged—Miss Anna Gould to John Candal, City Marshal, both of Leavenworth, Kansas. From this time heogoforth and forever -until Miss Anna Goald becomes a widow-all young men are requested to withdraw their particular attention."
