The second secon

low it to be published. The whole responsibility of the massacre is placed upon the civil authorities of New Orleans, and through them upon the President, who sustained their course. The Radical Convention is exonerated from the charge of inciting the negroes to violence, and it is proved that the negroes who paraded were generally unarmed, and could have had no hostile intention. When the Convention was attacked, it is established "beyond a shadow of doubt that, except the two or three pistols in the hands of the pro-cession of negroes, the besieged party were totally unarmed."

On the other hand, the Commission found that the Mayor expected an organized attack would be made on the morning of the massacre, and he with-them, and held them to await orders.

The city was left to the mercy of the rioters. The first attack was made by ex-rebel soldiers upon the negroes, and this was followed by the advance of the attack. The alarm bell gave the well known signal which during the rebell-ion summoned the rebel soldiers to the defence of the city against a federal attack. Sweeping through the streets, in answer to the tolling bell, came Hay's procession of negroes, who, carrying the flag of the United States, blindly trusted to its protection, and "pursued A correspondent the work of massacre with a cowardly ferocity unsurpassed in the annals of

It was not the duty of the Commission to describe the scenes that ensued, but the report gives startling evidence of the fiendish spirit of the police and mob, and state, as a firm conviction, that "but for the presence of the troops, fire and bloodshed would have raged throughout the night in all negro quarters of the city, and that the lives and property of Unionists and Northern men would have been at the mercy of the mob." They also declare that Mayor Monroe knew what the action of the police would be, and "intended the inevitable consequences of his own acts." Yet this is the man, and these the men, that Andrew Johnson defend ed as the friends of order.
In his speech at St. Louis, three days after the date of this report, when the substance of it had in all probability reached him, and when at least the main facts were known to the whole country, Mr. Johnson declared "every man in the Convention to be a traitor, and the Congress of the United States to be the cause and origin of every drop of blood that was shed. As in the first place, he gave full power to the civil sed to take any steps for its protection, so he has since been the consistent de fender of Mayor Monroe and his police, and the traducer of the loyal men they killed. He has denounced Congress. and the Commission, by the same im-plication, has indicated his own policy as the cause of this massacre. Between the two the people will not find it hard to choose. There is Sheridan, Baird, and a Commission of American soldiers, on the one side, and on the other Andrew Johnson violently appealing at a Copperhead banquet to a mob of applauding Copperheads.—Tribune.

MALARIA.—The decayed and decaying vegetation of newly settled lands when damp, exhale a miasmatic poisor which, absorbed through the lungs into the blood, causes the intermittent fevers and kindred diseases, which prevail in our Western States and Territories .-But this great scourge of our rich allu vial bottoms in the West, is now robbed of its sting. Dr. Ayer has discovered an antidote which effectually neutral-

THE "DOG BEHIND THE DOOR,"

All have heard of the man who had a skeleton in his closet. All have sympathized with the hungry man who found a fly in his coffee, a roach in his biscuit, and a hair in his butter; and who does not remember the fall of his or her bread-and-butter, butter side down?

We ask such of our lady readers as have unsteady nerves not to take our remarks as too literal. Yet we say to every man, woman, and child:

"Beware of the dog behind the door!" Not that some ill-natured cur crouches behind every door in your respective dwellings, awaiting your passage only to grip you by the heels. We do not mean that, of course. But the avenues of life are doorways, and they who cross their thresholds are menaced there by a danger akin to what you would recognize were a surly dog to lie in wait behind your doors. It so happens that men and women tread most of the avenues of life ere they count forty years. To them the tinsel glitter of temptation has become a dull tarhish; the false and the true are separated, and the mirage which dazzled and confounded inexperience is resolved into its poverty-stricken ele-

But young men and young women have all this to experience. They have many doors to pass through, and every one of these doors has its Cerberus waiting for his sop.

To the young man who finds more attractions in idle talk among dissolute companions than in books and newspapers; who imagines that he has inherited a quantity of wild oats which it becomes him to sow broadcast; to him we say—"Beware of the dog behind the door."

To the young woman who derives great pleasure from gossip and tittletattle; who dresses and departs to make morning calls while her mother washes the dishes and prepares the family dinner; who remembers the fashion-plates and forgets all about the map of the U. States; to her we say-" Beware of the dog behind the door." .To the young man who drinks beer or whisky, not because he likes it, but because it is companionable; who garnishes the puffs of his cigar with oaths; who carries more gold on his fingers and shirt-bosom than he does in his soul; who looks upon men of principle as slow coaches; to him we say-"Beware of the dog behind the door." To the young woman who regards labor as something to be avoided; who despises the kitchen-maid because she washes, irons, and cooks for a weekly stipend; who patronizes the dancingmaster more than she does the schoolmaster; who regards her heels as susceptible of greater culture than her side; who mistakes insolence for independence, impudence for wit, and brass for wisdom, who so idles away his time that men ask-"How does that fellow live?"-to him we say-Beware of a

Therefore, young men and young women; for the destiny of the country is wrapt up in you.

The Republicans of New York are making a noble fight, and we regard Fenton's re-election as Governor, certain. The city may give Hoffman 35,-000 majority, but we guess not. If it gives him 40,000, the balance of the State will go 20,000 better. But the Fenian vote may not go for Hoffman, in which case his majority in the city cannot reach 30,000.

New Jersey will go Republican we guess. If so, then every Northern State to close up the campaign.

taining 100 acres, 40 acres of which are under good improvement. Good frame house thereon, one and a half story high; also a new frame barn, 30 by 45 feet. A thrifty young orchard, of apple, pear, and cherry trees, mostly grafted, 100 in all. Well watered by never failing springs—Said farm is situated in Delmar township, on the road leading from Stony Fork to Pine creek. For terms apply to the subscriber, on the place, or to A. L. Ensworth, at the Bingham office, Wellsboro. ALVAN N. WERSTER. Delmar, August 22, 1866.-tf For Business, Professional and Laboring Men

To the Farmers of Tioga County. AM now building at my manufactory, in Lawrence-ville, a superior

FANNING MILL, which possesses the following advantages over all other mills:

1. It separates outs, rat litter, and foul seeds, and chess and cockle, from wheat.

2. It cleans flax seed, takes out yellow seed, and all other seeds, perfectly.

3. It cleans timothy seed.

4. It does all other separating required of a mill.

This mill is built of the best and most dirable timber, in good style, and is sold cheap for cash, or pro-Juce.

I will fit a patent sleve, for separating onts from wheat, to other mills, on reasonable terms.
