Can recognize the bust? The Minister's Salary.

And to your beauty thus unjust, How do you think your friends

A worthy miller—so Dr. Chaplain tells the story in Dr. Dunbar's memoir was once pained by hearing that the minister was going away; for want of support, the church having decided that they could no longer raise his salary.— He called a meeting and addressed his brethren very modestly, for he was one of the poorest among these comfortable farmers. He asked if want of money was the only reason for this change, and if they were all united in desiring the services of the pastor, they could still keep him. The pastor was useful and beloved; but the flock was so poor!
"Well," said the miller, "I have a plan by which I can raise his salary without asking you for a dollar, if you will allow me to take my own way to do it. I will assume the responsibility for one year. Have I your consent? Of course they could not refuse this, although they expressed surprise, knowing the miller to be but a poor man.

The year drew to a close. The minister had been blessed in his labors, and no one had been called on for money.— When they came together, the miller asked the pastor if his wants had been supplied, and his salary promptly met? He replied in the affirmative. When the brethren was asked if they were any the brethren was asked if they were any poorer than at the beginning of the year, each replied, "No," asking how they tould be when their church privileges had been so mysteriously paid for. He asked again, "Is any man poorer for keeping the Minister?" and the reply was the same as before. "Then," he said, "brethren, I have only to tell you that you have naid the salary the same that you have paid the salary the same as you always did, only more of it? with greater promptness. You remember you told me to take my own way in this matter, and I have done so. As each of you brought his grist to mill, I took out as much grain as I thought your proportion, and laid it away for the salary.

When harvest was over I sold it, and have paid the minister regularrly from the proceeds. You confess that you are the proceeds. You confess that you are the proceeds. no poorer; so you have never missed it and therefore made no sacrifice. Now suppose we stop talking about letting our minister go, and add enough to his Salary to make us feel that we are doing Always glad to see our friends, because we something." Dr. Dunbar used to say, "Oh, for a miller in every church."

PLANTING TOO MANY VARIETIES.+ One very curious mistake which fruit growers are liable to make—especially young and enthusiastic ones—is that of planting too great a variety. With the majority the chief object is to make money, not to test comparatively unknown sorts of fruit, or to introduce new ones. These should remember that the reliable, and, therefore, really profitable, varieties of any one fruit are limited to few in number; that it requires considerable time to test a variety sufficiently to determine correctly whether it is a desirable one or not. It should be remembered, too, that but few varieties of furit are extensively known in the market, and the demand for those unknown must be created; hence it is difficult to realize a remunerative price for the latter, be they never so fine.

But an enthusiastic fruit grower not satisfied with a few sorts; he may make money with them, but not pro-ress in Horticulture. But the safe way is to devote a small portion of the grounds exclusively to these experi-mental operations. An acre or two will afford space for many varieties, and being in small compass they may be watched with more satisfaction, and without the fear of great loss in case of complete failure. One, advantage of having such grounds for testing fruit would be the contrast and varied supply gained for family use. No part of the year would come without an abundant supply of appropriate fruit being at hand.—Rural New Yorker.

How to BUY A Horse.—I offer the following suggestions, the result of my close observation and long experience. If the color be light-sorrel or chestnut, his feet, legs and face white-these are marks of kindness. If he is broad and full between the eyes, he may be depended on as a horse of good sense, and capable of being trained to anything; as respects such horses, the more kindly you treat them the hotter way. you treat them the better you will be treated in return. Nor will a horse of this description stand a whip if well red. If you want a safe horse, avoid one that is dish-faced. He may be so far gentle as not to scare, but he will have too much go ahead in him to be safe with everybody. If you want a fool, but a horse of great bottom, get a deep bay with not a white hair about him. If his face is a little dished so much the worse. Let no man ride such a horse. that is not an expert rider; they are always tricky and unsafe. If you want one that will never give out, never buy a large over-grown one. A black horse cannot stand heat, nor a white one cold. If you want a gentle horse, get one with more or less white about the head, the more the better. Selections thus made are of great decility and gentleness.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

How CARROTS AFFECT Horses -The carrot'is' the most esteemed of all roots for its feeding qualites. When analyzed it gives but little more solid matter than any other root, 85 per cent being waste; but its influence in the stomach upon the other articles of food is most favorable conducing the most perfect digestion and assimilation. This result, long known to practical men, is explained by chemists as resulting from a substance called pectine which operates to coagulate or gelatinate vegetable solutions, and thus favors digestion in all cattle. Horses are especially benefitted by the use of carrots. They should be fed to them frequently with their other food.
