A Cunning Sleeper.

The following very adroit trick was recently played in one of the public SPRING STOCK.

inns in England; A gentleman genteelly dressed walked in and professed to be tired. Having taken refreshments, he said he would like a nap for an hour. To sleep he went, and in a very business-like way, in a chair, and a long nap he appeared to enjoy. Before it expired the usual smoke-pipe company began to drop in, and among the rest two strangers made their appearance. One of the company remarked that it was unpleasant to have a man sleeping in a public room with valuable property about him such as the sleeper, who had a fine-looking gold bargain with every one that we have sold to and still continue to do so. Order your guard-chain displayed on his waistcoat, and apparently connected with a watch in one of his pockets. To this remark one of the strangers replied:
"Pooh! that's no gentleman, I'm sure; he's one ov them ere swell mob as is always a takin' of people in. I dare say he has no watch at all; but I'll of us, and if it dees not suit we cannot texpect Suiting the action to the word, the a sale. stranger softly drew from the sleeping man's pocket a piece of wood round and about the size of a watch.

"I thought so," said he; "there's a pretty watch for you," holding it up so that the company might see it, and then returned it to the owner's pocket. By-aud-by the sleeper awoke, and called briskly for a glass of brandy and water. He assumed quite a patronizing air to the farmers, which soon raised desire to put him down. Accordingly, one of the seniors required to be informed the time of day.

"Why," said the gentleman, "the fact is, I had a drop too much last night, and forgot to wind up my watch." and forgot to wind up my watch."
"Just so!" ejaculated the senior, "you forgot to wind it up? You'd be puzzled to do that, I should say, wouldn't you,

"Well, sir, you seem to take more no-tice of such a trifle than there is any call for; but the truth is, I have not a watch-key about me, and mine is rather a peculiar watch." Here a burst of laughter ensued, and SHEETINGS, SHIRTINGS, STRIPES, a number of jokes were passed about the peculiar style of the watch. At last one of the company loudly told him that he had no watch at all about him; whereupon the amazed individual hastily clapped his hand to his waistcoat pocket, having previously declared that, unless the watch had been stolen since he had been in the room. he had, one. Satisfled apparently, by the external application to his pocket, he said: "It is all right-my watch is here. I thought you had been playing a trick I'll bet you £5 you have no watch,' bawled out one of, his tormentors; an other offered to bet him £10; and one of the strangers said he hadn't five, but there were two sovereigns which he would like to double by betting in the same way.

The awakened sleeper looked at them in astonishment, asked if they were se-

They all stuck to it that he had no watch; and then he took out his purse and produced five and ten pound notes to the amount of the bets offered him. The stakes were posted; and then the thoroughly awakened sleeper coolly pulled out the piece of wood, at which a horse-laugh arose against. The laughter was soon on the other side. When toaching the spring in the bit of wood it flew open and disclosed a very hand-some gold watch snugly encased with-

The gentleman gave a very plausible reason for preferring so odd-looking a case for his watch, with which his dupes might either feel satisfied or not. He had received their money to the extent of £40, and they had bought their knowledge "of the time of day."

POWER OF AN Ax.—The other day I was holding a man by the hand—a hand as firm in its outer texture as leather, dingly. We resacctfully invite attention to our and his sun-burnt face was as inflexible stock of as parchment—he was pouring forth a tirade of contempt on those who complain that they get nothing to do, as an excuse for becoming idle loafers.

Said I, "Jeff, what do you work at?"
"Why," said he, "I bought me an ax three years ago, that cost me two dollars. That was all the money I had. I went to chopping wood by the cord have done nothing else, and have earned more than $600, drank no grog, paid no doctor, and have bought me a little farm in the Hoosier State, and shall be married next week to a girl who has earned $200 since she was eighteen.— My old ax I shall keep in the drawer, and buy me a new one to cut wood

After I left him I thought to myself: "That ax and no grog." These are the things that make a man in the world.— How small a capital that ax-how sure of success with the mottor "No grog." And then a farm and a wife, the best of

A clergyman who was in the habit of preaching in different parts of the country, was not long since in an inn, when wy, was not tong since in an inn, when he observed a horse jockey trying to take a in a simple countryman, by imposing upon him a broken-winded horse for a sound one. The parson knew the bad character of the jockey, and taking the man aside, told him to be cautious of the man he was dealing with. The man finally declined to purchase, and the jockey, quite nettled, observed:
"Parson, I had much rather hear you preach than see you privately interfere in bargains between man and man, in this way."

"Well," replied the parson, "If you had been where you ought to have been last Sunday you might have heard me "Where was that? inquired the jock ey."

"In the state prison!" retorted the olergyman.

A short time since, while several persons were awaiting their turn in a bar-HAND MADE BOOTS AND SHOES, ber's shop, a man rushed in, and with a face expressive of great commisseration, said, addressing the barber,— "That was a terrible thing which happened on the railroad this morning." And many other things which we will be pleased 'What was that?" asked several. "Why," exclaimed the man, "the entire train passed over four men and a young lady."

"They were instantly killed, of course!" exclaimed several voices. "No," said the narrator, very coolly, "miraculous as it may seem, not one of them was injured."

"Why, how was that?"
"Well, they were under the arch when the train passed over it."

AN eminent statistician says "of the SMALL PROFITS, OUICK SALES, & twenty-nine thousand four hundred and eight young ladies who fainted last year, only seventeen had the misfortune to fall on the floor."

A CHAP who was told by the colport-eur to "remember Lot's wife," replied that he had trouble enough with his own wife, without remembering other men's wives.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND J. W. BRADLEY'S CELEBRATED PATENT DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE SPRING) SKIRT:

THE wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt, will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pows, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to loccupy a small place as easily and conveniently as s silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crincilne, not found to have single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, Misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shepe when but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only dou-ble springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, them from yearing out when dragging down scoops, stairs, &c.

TheD uplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies, and is universally recommended by the fashion magatines, as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz; superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, ficxibility, durability, comfort and economy, inquire for J. W. Bradiey's Duplex Ellip; tic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article. STOVE AND TIN WARE BUSINESS, and intend to keep a full assortment of everything tic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

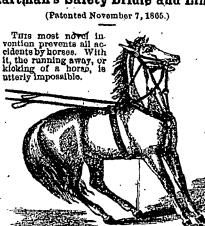

OAUTION.—To guard against imposition, be particular to potice that skirts offered as "duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Bprings," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the center, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their fiexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other skirt.

For saic in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent,
