My days are almost numbered Old age hangs o'er my brow! Dear ones long have slumbered Yet I'm still living now.

Disease has been around me And taken one by one, While I've been blest with age to ree .. Them buried in the tomb. This blessing I'll appreciate,

And strive to live for God, Knowing that He who does create Withholds from me the rod. My wife and I are now alone

My children all have fled. The little cot we call our home Is blessed with heary heads.

Biddy Maloney's Cat.

Mathew Malouey, better known by the boys at the mill as "Father Mat, on returning from work one evening, was met at the gate by Biddy, his better half, in a high state of excitement .-"Mat," says she," there's a strange cat in the cabin." "Cast her out, thin, and don't be botherm" me about the baste!"

"Faix an' I've been sthrivin' to do that same for the mather of tin minits past, but she's just beyont my rache, behind the big rid chist in the corner.— Will yez he aither helpin' me to dhrive her out, Mat?"

her out, Mat?"

"To be sure I will, bad luck to the consate she has for my house; show her to me, Biddy, till I tache her the rispict that's due a man in his own house—to be takin' pessession without as much as by yer lave, the thate of the world!" Now Mat had a special antipathly for cats, and never let pass an opportunity to kill one. This he resolved to do in the present case, and instantly formed a plan for the purpose, perceiving but one mode of eggess for the animal, he cays to Bidly. says to Biddy—

"Have yez iver a male bag in the hoose, me darlint?"

"Divil a one is there, Mat. Yez tuk it to the mill wid yez to bring chips wid this mornin'. "
"Faix an' I did, and there it is yit, thin. Wall, have yez nothin; at all in the hoose that will tie up like, a bag, Sunday petticoat—ye can draw the strings close at the top, an' suse it will do better, nor let the eat he lavin "Biddy, darlint, yez a jewel! to be thinkin' o' that same; beafter bringin'

Biddy brought the garment, and when the strings were drawn close, it made a very good substitute for the meal bag, and Mat declared it was "illigant."— So holding it close against the edge of the chest he took a look behind and saw a pair of bright eyes glaring at him. "An' is it there ye are, ye divil? Be out o' that now; bad luck to all yer kin, ve won't lave me hoose at all wid' perlido axin'. Yerself's will bate a pig's intirely. Biddy, have yez any hot water in the house?" "Yis, I've a plenty, Mat; the tay Ret-tle's full of it." "Be alther eastin' the matter of quart thin behint the chist till I see how the site divil like it."

Dash went the water and out jumped the animal into Mat's trap.
"Arrall, be the bowly poker I have 'inrin' Biddy," says Mat, drawing close the folds of the garment; "now bad cess to yez ve thate, it's nine live ye have, is it?' Be afther akin' the forgiveness for the thavin' ye have been doing in my hoose, for I'm thinkin' the nine lives ye nave won't save ye now any way. Biddy, saize hoult of the poker, all whin I'll shoulder the haythen ye'll bute the daylights out ov 'im."

Mat threw the bundle over his shoulder, and told Biddy to play "St. Pat-rick's day in the morning," on it.-Biddy struck about three notes of that popular Irish air, and suddenly stopping, exclaimed:

"What smells so quare, Mat? It's taken me blith away with the power of ita Och, murther, Mat; sure an' you have the divil in me pitticoat. " - "Bate the old haythen, then i yez'll niver have a better chance. Bate the horns off in; lather in like blaze's me darlin!"

"Hugh!" says Biddy, "I'm faintin; wid the power of in. Cast im off yez, Mat."

"Howly St. Patrick!" says Mat, throwing down the petticoat. "Biddy, he baste is a polecat! Lave the hoose, or yoz'll be kilt, intirely. Murther an' turi, how the haythen smills! Och, Biddy Maloney, a purty kittle of fish yez made of it, to be mistaking that divil for a harmless cat."

"Mat, for the luv of God, if yez be convarient to the door, be aither opening it, for I'm narely choked wid 'im. Och, Biddy Maloney, bad luck to yez for lavin, ould Ireland, to be murthered in this way? Howly Mary purtict me? Mat, I'm clane kilt intirely? take me out uv this!" Mat drew her out of doors, and broke for the pump like a quarter horse, closely followed by Biddy.

"Shure, that little villin bates the divil intirely; he's ruined me hoose and kilt Biddy, an' put me out of consate wid myself for a month to come. Oah, the desavin' vagabone, bad luck to 'im;" and Mat plunged head into the horse trough up to his shoulders. "Get out o' that, Mat, I'm hearly blind," and Biddy went under water. "Och the nurtherin' baste," says Biddy sputtering the water out of her mouth "me best petticoat is spilt intirely.— Mat Maloney, divil a trap will I iver help yez sit for a cat again."

Don't trouble yourself, Mistress Maloney, ye've played the divil as it is.— Niver fear me agin' askin a ha' porth o' yer assistance. It's a nath'ral fool yer are to be takin' a baste uv a pole-cat for Mat and Biddy went cautiously back to the cabin, from which the offensive quadruped had taken his departure. dy's petticoat buried, the bed, which fortunately escaped, moved to a near neighbor's, the stove moved outside,

Things were turned out of doors, Bidand for a week they kept house out of doors, by which time by dint of scrub bing, washing airing the house was rendered once more habitable, but neither Mat nor Biddy have forgotten the Modern statistics show that many sorts of events, formerly, supposed to be fortuitous or accidental, are under the control of fixed laws, and happen in determinate ratios. Murders and sui-cides, for instance, are found to happen with astonishing uniformity. It has recently been ascertained that in Paris an advance of ten trancs on the price of a bushel of wheat, cortainly increases by seven thousand the number of persons convicted of offences in the lower Criminal Courts. The difficulties of procuring bread-increases by so much, the resoft to unlawful means for obtaining subsistence.

but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

TheD uplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies, and to apply recommended by the fashion magazines, as the stain and the fashion able weathers as the stain and the fashion able world. To enjoy the following inestimable savantages in crincine, vizz. superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, dexibility, durability, comfort and economy, inquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

OAUTION.—To guard against imposition, be particular to notice that skirts offered as "duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also notice that yeary hoop will admit a pin being passed through the agnier, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and acombination not to be found in any other skirt.
