How the news thro' the barn-yard went flying ! Of a mother bereft, four small turkeys were left, And their case for assistance was crying, E'en the Peacock respectfully folded his tail, As a suitable symbol of sorrow, And his plainer wife said, "Now the old bird is Frequently he would be seen at sunrise, with poultry in one hand and vegetables in the other. On one of these occasions a fashionable young man from the North, who had removed to Richmond, Va., was swearing violently because he could find no one to carry home his turkey ; Marshall stepped up and asked where he lived, and on being told said : "That is my way and I will take it for you." When he came to the house, the young man inquired: "What shall I pay you?" "Oh nothing," said the Chief Justice, "it was on my way, and no trouble." 'Who was that polite old man that brought home my turkey?" inquired the young man of a bystander. "That," replied he, "is John Marshall, Chief Justice of the home my turkey?" asked he "" give you a severe reprinted "To give you a severe reprimand. and teach you to attend to your own business," was the reply. True, genuine greatness never feels above doing anything that is useful; but especially the truly great man will never feel above helping himself.

A REMARKABLE FISH STORY.-In recent lecture by Prof. Agassiz, on the aquatic animals of the Amazon, he described one tith, of which he said:—
"This fish is remarkable for the faculty it enjoys of leaving the water and walking a considerable distance over the and. Sometimes it is found three, four and five miles from the water, and specimens have been brought to me which have been brought to me which the server of the water, they were as lively as if they had not been disturbed, that fish has another peculiarity: it builds a large nest about the size of a man's hat with a hole leading to the interior, in which i deposits its eggs; and it is not only capable of creeping on even land, but i can creep on an inclined plane, and I have been told by very trustworthy persons that they are frequently found ma my feet above the water, on stumps of trees which have fallen down, the trunks of which are so inclined that the fish has reached the branches of the tree to such a height that the bird and the fish have more than once been brought down by the same shot."

SPICY.—There was a knot of sea captains in a store at Honolulu, the keeper of which had just bought a barrel of black pepper. Old Captain —, of Salem, came in and seeing the pepper, took up a handful of it.
"What do you buy such stuff as that for?" said he to the store keeper, "it's

"Peas!" replied the storekeeper;
"there isn't a pea in it."
Taking up a handful as he spoke, he appealed to the company. They all looked at it, and plunged, their hands into the barrel, and bit a kernel or so, and then gave it as their universal opinion that there wasn't a pea in it. "I tell you there is," said the old captain again scooping up a handful; and I'll bet a dollar on it."

The old Boston argument all over the world. They took him up.
"Well," said he, "spell that," pointing to the word 'p-e-p-e-r., painted on the side of the barrel; "if it isn't half p's, then I'm no judge, that's all."
The bet was paid.

It happened during the war that a clergyman was posted to deliver a political address. Both parties admired the ability of the speaker, and the result was many of both parties were present. Father Sabine chanced to be near a rank Copperhead, who took the occasion to remark to the old man at the close of the speech, as follows:
Copperhead—"Your preachers mix politics with their religion."

Sabine-"What do you say?" The old man was hard of hearing.
Copperhead — (Very loud.) Your preachers mix politics with religion."
Sabine—"Yes; Union politics, Your kind won't mix."

The kind of politics that won't mix with religion we have no use for. The kind that won't "mix" ought to be denounced from the pulpit.

EVERY WORD TRUE.—It is a great and prevalent error, that children may be left to run wild in every sort of company and temptations for several years, and then it will be time enough to break them in. This mistake makes half our spendthrifts, gamblers, thieves and drunkards. No man would deal so with garden or lot; no man would raise colt or a puppy on such a principle.— Take notice, parents—unless you till the new soil and throw in the good seed, the devil will have a crop of weeds be-fore you know what is taking place.— Look at the poor dear children; and think whether you will leave their safety or ruin at hazard, or whether you shall not train them up in the way they
