For weak indeed must be that creed, In fact not worth a feather, Whose advocates refuse to kneel In peace and love together.

This world, indeed, would wiser be If all would cease contention; If none would strengthen by his acts The rank weeds of dissension; If each and every one would strive In love's wild field to labor; Choose his own creed-and also give The same right to his neighbor.

British Royalty.

Attempts have been made in all forms to induce her Majesty to come to London to live. Her ministers have tried. Since Lord Palmerston's death no one can move her. It was said he used to badger the Queen till she was tired and compelled to do as he wished. Punch has tried the art of ridicule, but all in vain. The Buckingham Palace with its attractions, gorgeous suites of rooms, splendid garden and plate, is closed. One hundred horses, dying for want of use, stamp and bite the mangers in vain. The servants yawn and eat and mourn for the good days of Prince Albert, who made merry times for the palace. The Queen comes into London only on matters of state, or to see the Princess of Wales. She usually comes in the afterhoon, and goes back to Windsor the same night. It is said that she has slept but three nights in London since the death of her husband. She holds the courts a harmst death that the most the courts; she must do that to meet the demands of her position. The lev-ees at which gentlemen only attend are turned over to the Prince of Wales This young man has an opportunity such as is seldom granted to try his practice hands in kingcraft. He can play the king if he will now. He could, if he was disposed to do so, win the hearts of the people, as did Absalom. But he is a gay young man. He had a salary of $500,000 to live on, and a house. He had about $500,000 more that come in each to him from the reverse that came in cash to him from the reve nue that accumulated when the position was vacant. And besides this he has a fine fortune. He had state and common carriages by the score, one hundred men attend him, one hundred horses wait his will, and twice that number of fast young noblemen are ready to help him spend that income and enjoy life. When he goes to St. James to hold a levee, at the command of the Queen, he rides in state; the famous black horses and gold and black harness are brought out. He has four footmen behind. He is attend by state carriages too gorgeous to be described with a pen. The Royal Blues, the most gorgeous troop of horse out of France in the world, make the escort. The people turn out in thousands to see the royal cortege leave the Mariboro' House. Instead of an open carriage such as Napoleon rides in on such occasions, the Prince shuts himself up in a close carriage, blinds down and drives at a great speed, as if afraid to be seen. At the levee to-day there was a general howl of disappointment as the carriage went by.

Not so, the "Royal Alfred," as he is called, the Sailor Prince. He is the pet of the nation. A frank, manly fellow he is. He has the talent of the family. His ship that he commands was in a gale the other day. He was on deck and worked her himself, and did his popularity wonderfully. He is a great favorite with all who are about his person. He, treats all dependents with great kindness, and in this imitates his father. It is the common faith that he will be king, for it is said he has that faculty that marks a true king. that he never forgets apace. If he was in the place of his brother he would make all London rejoice with the sight of his face when they wanted to see him. The Queen has not rode through the royal gate to the Palace since the death of Prince Albert. 'She will not ride through the royal entrance to the House sor. She has a special train—a right of Lords. Nor has she, nor will she ride in the state carriage. It costs Her Majesty something to come from Windroyal one it is. No train can be on the royal one it is. No train can be on the road while she is running out or in. A pilot train attends her, and for this service slie pays $500 a round trip. When the train comes in for theatres, or amusements for the children and household the cost is $250. The salary of the Queen is $1,960,000, or £380,000. All matters that belong to $250. matters that belong to state-palaces, horses, carriages and servants, are provided for her. But her personal servants she pays for herself.—London Correspondence Boston Journal.

Night Scene in a Boarding House.

A lady, whose husband is in California, Calcutta, or Chicago, suddenly awakened from her sleep the other morning, about 2 o'clock, and springing from her bed, screaming at the top of her voice, "Murder! Help! Murder! Man in my room," &c., &c. Under the circumstances this was quite natural, instruct as more than one mistake of nasmuch as more than one mistake of this kind had happened in the house recently. Now, it appeared that no less than three husbands were absent when they should have been there, and consequently there was more or less wonder mixed up with aspecies of apprehension on the part of three wives, each one won-dering whether it was her husband who had thus forgotten himself or the room. "Oh, come up quickly," shouted the terrified female, holding on to the outside door knob. "I've got him in."
"If it's my Josey," said another disconsolate, "I'll learn him better. Confound these hight suppers, now he's been at one of them, and has mistaken the room, and here I've been alone all night."

the room, and here I've been alone an night."

"Has he got whiskers?" anxiously asked the wife, upon reaching the landing on the upper floor.

"Yes, mam, great big bushy whiskers, laying right along side of my cheek when I awoke. Dear-me, if my Alexander was here, he'd learn him better, I'll warrant you."

"Joseph! Joseph! Josey!" shouted

'Joseph'! Joseph! Josey!" shouted the wife at the door. No answer came; not even a grunt, incident to inebriation. "May be he has jumped out of the window," suggested the four or five females, all at once, who made a splen-did group of long white drapery.

"Help—help! bring a light—bring a light," shouted several of the females.

Presently a light was brought, and several of the male boarder's appeared, all armed to give the chief or robber such treatment as he had justly earned for himself.

The door was opened, and in rushed the valiant squad, and sure enough the fellow was still in bed, with the top of his head just peeping above the sheet. "Come out of here, you scoundre!" said one of the men, at the same time grasping him by the hair.

The tableau was strikingly interesting and gřáphic. The resolute boarder almost fell from the impetus he had given himself, for, instead of jerking out a man, it was nothing more than a "frizzed chignon," which the lovely occupant of the bed had forgotten to take off when she retired for the night. It had been detached in her sleep, and grazing her cheek, awakened her. The alarm, of course, was quite natural. The boarders had a hearty level, and ell retired to heavy hearty laugh, and all retired to happy dreams.—Philadelphia Press.

What brought you to prison, my colored friend?" Two constables sah.' "Yes but I mean had intemperance anything to do with it?" "Yes, sah, day was both of'em drunk."

The woman who undertook to scour the woods, has abandoned the job, owing to the high price of soap. The last that was heard of her she was skimming the seas.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND W. BRADLEY'S Celebrated Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE SPRING)

SKIRT.

THEY will not bend or break like the single spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; proventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c. blo springs, but twice (or double) covered; proventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Bkirt, will be experienced particularly in all crowded assembiles, operas, carriages, raifroad care, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslim dress, an invaluable quality in crinoling not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day. will neger afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, Misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies, and is universally recommended by the fushion magazines, as the standard skirt of the fashionable world. To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in orinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, inquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

OAUTION.—To guard against imposition, be particular to notice that skirts offered as "duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also notice that dvery hoop will admit a pin being passed through the center, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their floxibility and strength, and acombination not to be found in any other skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.
