A WORD TO MOTHERS.—Each mother is a historian. She writes not the history of empires or of nations on paper, but she writes her own history on the imperishable mind of her child.
That tablet and that history will remain indelible when time shall be no more. That history each mother shall meet gain, and read with eternal joy or unutterable grief in the coming ages of eternity. This thought should weigh on the mind of every mother, and render her deeply circumspect, and prayer ful and faithful in her solemn work o training up her children for heaven and immortality.
The minds of children are very susceptible and early impressed. A word, a look, a frown may engrave an impres-sion on the mind of a child which no lapse of time can efface or wash out. ou walk along the sea shore when the tide is out; and you form characters, or write words or names in the smooth white said which is spread out so clear and beautiful at your feet, according as you fancy may dictate; but the return-ing tide shall in a few hours wash out and efface all that you have written.— Not so the lines and characters of truth or error which your conduct imprints on the mind of your child. There you write impressions for the everlasting good or ill of your child, which neither the floods nor the storms of earth can wash out, nor Death's cold fingers crase nor the slow-moving ages of eternity obliterate. How careful, then, should each mother be in her treatment of her child it. How prayerful; and how serious, and how earnest to write the eter-nal truths of God on his mind—those truths which shall be his guide and teacher when her voice shall be silent In death.—Phrenological Journal. ,

A "Local's" First Errorr. A Chicago paper says: |We took a new reporter on trial yes terday. He went out to hunt items, and after being away all day, returned with the following, which he said was the best he could do; Yesterday we sawa sight which froze our muscles whith horror. A hackman driving down-Clark street at a rapid, pace, came mear running over a nurse and two child con. There would have been one of the most heart-rending catastrophes ever recorded, had not the nurse with wonderful for thought, left the children at home beint she went out and providentially stepped in a drug store just before the heads passed. Then too the heads passed. hack passed. Then, too, the hackman, just before reaching the crossing, tho't of a thing he had forgotten, and turning about drove in the opposite direction. Had it not been for this wonderful concurrence of favoring circumstances, a doting father, a loving mother and af-fectionate brothers and sisters, would have been plunged into the deepest penses. The reporter will be attained.

SOADS AND BURNS.—Mr. Hall, in excellent periodical; the Journal of Health, gives us the following advice on the treatment of Scalds and Bruns; and as this advice is peculiarly applicable to House keepers, who place it in this department.
"On the instant of the accident plunge the part under cold water. This relieves the pain in a second, ather allows all hands to become composed. If the part cannot be kept under water, cover it over with flour, an inch deed or more. In both cases pain ceases because the air is excluded. In many instances nothing more will be needed after the flour: simply let it remain until it falls off, when a new skin will be found under. In severer cases while the part injured is under water, simmer a leek or two in an earthen vessel, with half-their bulk of hogs lard, until the leeks are soft, then strain through a muslin rag. This makes a greenishointment, which when cool, spread thickly on a lined cloth and apply it to the injured part. If there are blisters, let out the water. When the parts become feverish and uncomfortable renew the ointment and a rapid painless cure will be the result, if the patient, in the meanwhile, lives exclusively, on fruits coarse bread, and other light, loosening fruits."

ALL FOR SHOW .- The world is crazy for show. There is not one perhaps in a thousand who dare fall back on his real simple self for power to get through the world, and exact enjoyment as he goes along. There is too much living in the eyes of other people. There is no end to the aping, mimiery, the false airs, and the superficial airs. It requires rare courage, we admit, to live up to one's enlightened convictions in these days. Unless you consent to join in the general cheat there is no room for you among the great mob of pretenders. If a man dares to live within his means, and is resolute in his purpose not to appear more than he really is, let him be applanted. There is something him be applauded. There is something fresh and invigorating in such an example, and we should honor and uphold such a plan with all the energy in our power.

A Gentle Hint.—The Rev. Mr. Blank had traveled far to preach to a congregation at Smithville. After the sermon, he waited in patient expectation for an invitation from some one of the brethren to dine with him. But he waited in vain. One after another del arted, until the church was almost as coupty as the minister's epigastric recion. Summoning up resolution, the hungry elergyman walked up to an ciderly gentleman, who was just going out of the door, and accested him with. Will you go home to dinner with me to-day, brother?"
"Where do you live?"
"About twenty miles from this."

"No," said the man, coloring, "but you must go with me."
"Thank you!—I will, cheerfully."
And he went.

DURING the cross-examination of a false witness at the Tombs the other day, the District Attorney asked him where his father was: to which the witness responded, with a melancholy air-"Dead, sir; dropped off very suddenly, sir." "How came he to drop off suddenly?" was the next question. "Foul play, sir; the sheriff imposed upon unsuspicious nature, sir, and, getting him to go on a platform to take a look at a select audience, suddenly knocked a trap-door from under him, sir."

JOHN BROUGHAM, in company with a friend once called at the house of Banand the latter to Brougham, in the course of conversation, "They tell me," said the latter to Brougham, in the course of conversation, "that you love a glass of wine." "Those who so informed you," replied Brougham, ,, have, done me a great injustice—they should have said a bottle."

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND W. BRADLEY'S Celebrated Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE SPRING)

SKIRT.

Dilley will not bend or break like the single spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, ec.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and phase to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt, will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railread cars, church pows, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as sails or mustin dress, an invaluable quality in crincline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic stoel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispones with their use. For children, Missos and young ladies they are superior to all others.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies, and is universally recommended by the fashion maga zines, as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following: inestimable advantages in crincline, yiz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, inquire for J. W. Egadley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genument of the genument tic,or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the gentic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the gen-uine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against imposition, be particu-lar to notice that skirts offered as "duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the center, thus revailing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their floxibility and strength, and a com-bination not to be found in any other skirt. is the secret of their nextolity and asyength, and acombination not to be found in any other skirt.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold and any other stores with the sole owners of the patent.
