

OUR FRÉSIDÉ.
Rich Aunt, with her golden store, May count her treasures o'er and o'er,
And say such wealth did ne'er before.
The land beside;
Aid fruits and flowers, and yellow leaves Are gathered in, and withered leaves Are all the traveler's eye perceives In prospect wide;
But give to me the sheltered room, Where neither mind's nor reason's gloom Can blight my joyous mental bloom By our friends!

A Good Customer.
A few days since, a dignified person with the bearing and general appearance of a country merchant, stepped into a wholesale store in the city of New-York, Conn., and in a bland tone and insinuating manner, inquired of one of the proprietors if he sold gin in the barrel, at what price and if it was a good article. He would like to see a sample.

Proprietor drew a large sized tumbler full. Country merchant tasted.
An "H" said he, as he snatched his lips, "it's a superior article, but that's good gin. What can you let me have a barrel of for?"

Proprietor named the price.
Country merchant said, "I'm not, taking another sip." That reminds me of some gin I bought in 1838," and he went on with a long story about that particular gin, stopping frequently to try the sample until it was all gone out of the tumbler. The story finished he tossed off the balance of it, and remarking that he liked the gin, and would come in, and leave his order after making a few purchases elsewhere, left the store.

An hour afterward, while the proprietor was waiting upon some customers, the gin buyer returned, and at this time tackled one of the clerks with:
"I have got to buy some gin to-day, and you know I should like to see the sample of the gin you sold me last time." Another large-sized tumbler full was forthcoming, and the old fellow tasted of it. Then he turned it round, held it up to the light, and said, "That's good gin. Then he snatched his lips, inquired, and took another sip. Then he remarked that it was very cold weather and took a goodly draught. Then he commented on the gin, and inquired in a few reflections upon how much more gin cost now than it did in 1838—and he kept on talking until he had drinking, and the clerk kept on waiting to consummate the trade.

He was such a dignified man, and was so courteous and polite, as well as a large dealer in gin, that the clerk was not disposed to hurry him. But as he was taking down the last swallow, the proprietor came around. The suspicious merchant saw that the country merchant was a better drinker than himself. Stepping up to him he thundered out:
"Look here, sir, do you want to buy my gin?"

"The old fellow's dignity melted in an instant. Putting his hand in his overcoat he drew out a pint bottle of gin, the meekest and mildest voice replied:
"Yes, a half-pint in this bottle."

How to Take a Whipping.—The Waterbury Morning Sun, an English journal, has the following fresh version of an old story:
Mr. Dickens, in one of his books on American subjects, represents themselves as turning every incident into a subject for his pen. He has done so when the editor got the story of the personalities, he at once brought out an special edition with the flaming announcement, "The Editor Cowhided Again!" Mr. Dickens was referring to an actual case, which is tolerably notorious in America, and as told with great glee by the person most deeply interested in the person is no other than the notorious James Gordon Bennett, of the New York Herald, and it is thus he tells his story to his friends. The Herald had for some time violently attacked a certain actress. One day the lady's husband, himself an actor, came to the Herald office, walked into Mr. Bennett's room, and said:
"Are you Mr. Bennett?"

"I am," was the reply; "take a seat."
"No, sir, I will not take a seat; you have insulted my wife."
"Who is your wife?"
"Name mentioned."
"Have you heard of her?"
"But your dramatic critic has insulted her."
"This is his affair."
"But I hold you responsible," and thereupon the country husband took the proprietor of the Herald from his chair, and flung him on the floor, kicked him in the rear, rolled him over, kicked him with the hooked fold of his throat, and left the office.

What did the victim do? He called upon one of his employees, wrote out an order for the Herald, caused sensation cards to be struck off, and the Herald —"Atrocious Assault upon the Editor," and soon all New York was editing the Herald.
"But," said Bennett, "I added a little garnish which was not strictly true." I said, "We would have pardoned this unpleasantly cowardly assault upon an unarmed man but for one circumstance—this despicable wretch, not content with ferocious violence, had the unspeakable meanness to take up a quarter-dollars piece with which he was trying upon the table and to pocket it." The next day when the actor appeared upon the stage, he was greeted, with the cry of "Who is your wife?" and whenever he appeared the same cry was driven off the stage and ruined—"adds Bennett, "was my revenge."

A Parisian was proceeding home in a state of intoxication when he was confronted by a robber who demanded his watch and money. His wife seemed to have been sharpened by the wine, for instead of grasping with his opponent, he affected to laugh with indescribable pleasure, to be so far gone as not to be able to distinguish friend from foe, and embraced and hugged the robber to his heart, saying, "My dear friend, why should you not equally enjoy it?"
Delighted at the prospect the robber took the proffered arm, and the two proceeded on their way, singing level songs as they went. Two watch-houses were purposely avoided, but at the third,
the supposed victim set up a cry, and that brought half a dozen policemen, when an explanation followed, and the friends parted.

The Watkins Express tells the following: A Mr. Watkins, of the village of in one of the Southern Tier counties of New York, being with a faithful church-goer, resolved to give a party, and chose on Monday evening for the occasion. The company being all assembled, and refreshments served, her little boy came running up in the proceed of the guests and holding up a sample, inquired, "What is the softest voice why should you not equally enjoy it?"
Delighted at the prospect the robber
took the proffered arm, and the two
songs as they went. Two watch-houses
were purposely avoided, but at the third,
the supposed victim set up a cry,
men, when an explanation followed,
and the friends parted.

The fact that the population of Ireland has decreased 800,000, in the past fifteen years tells the whole story of English rule in that country.

Proofs of the Superior Quality of the
AMERICAN WATCH
MANUFACTURED BY
WALTHAM, MASS.
The American Watch Company, of Waltham, Mass., respectfully submit that their Watches are cheaper, more accurate, less complex, more durable, better adapted for general use, and more carefully kept in order and repaired than any other watches in the market. They are simpler in structure, and therefore stronger, and less likely to be injured than the majority of foreign watches, which are composed of from 125 to 300 pieces, while in an old English watch there are more than 700 parts. How they run under the hardest trial watches can have, is shown by the following letters:

PENN. RAILROAD COMPANY,
OFFICE OF THE GEN'L SUPERINTENDENT, PHILADELPHIA, PA., 15 Dec, 1866.
GENTLEMEN:—The watches manufactured by you have been in use on this railroad for several years by our engineers, to whom we furnish watches as part of our equipment. There are not now a hundred of them, and we are continued and consider them good and reliable time-keepers. Indeed, I have great satisfaction in saying your watches give us less trouble, and have worn, and do wear much longer without repairs than any watches we have ever had in use on this road. As you are aware, we formerly used some of the best English watches, and of acknowledged good reputation; but as a class they never kept time so correctly, nor have they done so long a service as yours.

In these statements I am sustained by my superior, Mr. Lewis, whose experience extended over a long period of years.
EDWARD H. WILLIAMS,
General Superintendent.

American Watch Co., Waltham, Mass.
We make now five different grades of watches, named respectively as follows: Aspen, Tracy & Co., Waltham, Mass.
Waltham Watch Company, Waltham, Mass.
Wm. Ellery, Boston, Mass.
Home-Watch-Company, Boston, Mass.

All of these, with the exception of the Home Watch Company, are warranted by the American Watch Co. to be the best made, and to possess every requisite for a reliable timekeeper. Every dealer selling these Watches is provided with the Company's printed card of guarantee, which should accompany each Watch sold, so that buyers may not be deceived in purchasing the genuine article.
There are numerous counterfeit and imitations of our Watches sold throughout the country, and we would caution purchasers to be on their guard against imposition.

Any grades of Waltham Watches may be purchased of Watch Dealers throughout the country.
