And calls the children home. Their fect are bare in the dusty road, Their checks are tawny and red: They have waded the shallows below the mill, They have gathered wild roses up the hill. And life bath many a crown-But none that will press upon manhood's brow, As light as the roses resting now, On the children's forcheads brown. that is, in the most substantial manner. In the The Story of a Hermit-Miser and his Buried Treasure. The Hudson (N. Y.) Star gives the following curious details concerning the recent finding of buried treasure near Millerton, Columbia county:

It seems that a man named Elias Fonquey many years ago settled upon a large tract of land about three miles morth for Millerton, being a part of Mount Rhiga, known as Tonquey Mounthin, and having a holy horror of the female sex, built him a log but and dwelt therein, seeluded and alone. The old hermitwas in the habitof taking his stock to Canada every fall and seli-ing it there. Being paid for the same in silver, on his return home he used to hide his treasure away, and at one time placed some sliver coin in an old iron pot and deposited it in the cellar of his hut, which was discovered a rew weeks after and stolen by some boy. This served to put the old, fellow upon his guard, and he afterward buried his surplus funds in the ground in various places. As years rolled on the old hermit became possessed of the strange hallucination that all women who had olack hair and eyes were witches, and as would not allow one so favored on his premises. On one occasion a woman with black hair and eyes chanced to come on his grounds, when he seized a knife and rushed at her in a frantic manner, caught hold of her arms and cut'a cross on her forehead, so that all the world might know that she was a witch. For this grave offense he was arrested and brought to trial, and the jury to whom the case! was submitted rought in a verdict for the "witch" of 3200. The old fellow did not demur, but prompilly paid the money all in silver! Extreme-old age finally deprived the eccentric man of his senses, and the lawyers of the vicinity where he lived, liké sharks after a corpse committed to the sea, became the possessors of all the land belonging to the infirm hermit, and not knowing himself where he had buried his money, and never having given his friends the magic words open Sesame" to the treasure vaults, he had to become a town charge and paupel, which he continued to be until be died. It had often been runfored that the odd-dispositioned hermit must have a large amount of money buried, and those persons having to travel by the premises of the deceased cast a sidewise glance at the surroundings, in hopes that some silver mine would be disclosed to their anxious optics, but pairs than any watches we have ever had in use they were disappointed.

The cows are lowing along the lane,

To see how the night comes over the moor,

The sheep to the fold have come, And the mother looks from the cottage door, as a mill on of dollars, accompanied by his son, happened to be passing over Tonquey Mountain, and the boy seeing a piece of wood under a slibbying rock, earled the attention of his father to it, who at once pulled the same from under the rock, and at first supposed it to be a cap trough, but on turning it over discovered that a thin piece of wood had been nailed on one side, and he pried it from its place, when lo! and be nold! out rolled a large quantity of silver coin! Bishop proceeded to fill his packets full of the precious metal, and the remainder he put into a tin pall and at once returned to his house and found his family just eating supper. He stalked into the room, walked up to the table and emptied his pockets and pail of silver on the table, to the astonishment of all present, and told the story of his good luck in a trice. Being a spendthrift, Bishop was not satisfied until the money was gone, amounting to about $200. Our informant says that a few of the neighbors bought some of the silver pieces from the finder, and at the time he saw Bishop all he had left of the proceeds of the money was a pair of new boots and pants. Effects of Drunkenness.—In 1848. Dr. Howe, of Boston, the chairman of a committee appointed to make in-quiries on the subject of Idiocy, report-ed to Governor Briggs, of Massachu-setts, that he had examined from fourteen to tifteen hundred cases of idlocy and that from eleven to twelve hundred were the children of intemperate, parents. In nearly every other case the parents were addicted to vice, were serofulous, were predisposed to insanity, or had intermarried with blood relations.

There were 416 boys sent to the Westboro' Reformatory School in Massachu-cetts in the course of two years. All the parents of these boys were drunkards, and there were 262 of the boys addicted to drunkenness. If we examine The records of every State, we shall and the sad traces of intemperance everywhere in legible lines. From the days of Cain and Noah to the present time, the world has been full of facts to prove conclusively that parents transmit both physical and mental tendencies to their children, and that intemperate parents transmit to their posterity the degenerating influences of intemperance. The children of intemperate parents are to be pitied. It takes three or four generations to wipe out the stains that intemperance makes on thefamily escutcheon. The third Social Extl connected with intemperance arises from the influence that the drunkard exerts upon society. · He is like a moral pestilence, a canker-worm, a plague among victuous, temperate, and upright citizens. Idleness ignorance, licentiousness, and all kinds of vice follow in its track. Intemper-ance is a robber and takes hway and gives no equivalent for what it takes .-It empties the pocket of money needed for the comfort of the family and gives delirium tremens as a recompense; *takés away virtue and gives vico; takes a good spirit and gives a bad-

Proofs of the Superior Quality OF THE AMERIC'N WATCH MADE AT

WALTHAM, MASS.

The American Watch Company, of Waltham, Mass, respectfully submit that their Watches are cheaper, more accurate, less complex, more durable, better adapted for general upe, and more onily kept in order and repaired than any other watches in the market. They are simpler in stigacture, and therefore stronger, and less likely to be injured than the majority of foreign watch-, which are composed of from 125 to 300 piees, while in an old English watch there are more than 700 parts. How they run under the hardest firial watches can have, is shown by the following letter:

PENN. RAILROAD COMPANY. OFFICE OF THE GEN'L SPERINTENDENT, | ALTOONA,-PA., 15 Dec., 1868. GENTLEMEN: The watches manufactured by on have been in use on this callroad for several years by our enginemen, to whom we furnish watches as part of our equipment. There are now some three hundred of them carried on our line, and we consider them good and reliable time-keepers. Indeed, I have great satisfaction in saying your watches give us less trouble, and have worn, and do wear much longer without reon this road. As you are aware, we formerly trusted to those of English manufacture, of ac-I.n. wledged good reputation; but as a class they never keep time as correctly, nor have they done as good service, as yours.

In these statements I am sustained by my producessor, Mr. Lowis, whose experience extended over a series of years. Respectfully, EDWARD II. WILLIAMS General Superintendent American Watch Co., Waltham. We make now five different grades of watches amed respectively as follows: Appleton, Tracy & Co., Waltham, Mass. Waltham Watch Company, Waltham, Mass.

Waltham, Mass. P S. Bartlett, Wen. Ellery, Roston, Music Home Watch Company, Boston, Music All of these, with the exception of the Home Vatch Company, are warrduited by the American Watch Company to be of the best material, on the most approved principle, and to possess every equisite for a reliable timekeeper. Every dealer elling these Watches is provided with the Company's printed card of guarantee, which should accompany each Watch sold, so that buyers may feel cure they are purchasing the genuine article. There are numerous counterfeits and imitations of our Watches sold throughout the country, and re would caution purchasers to be on their guard against imposition.

Any grades of Waltham Watches may be purchased of Watch Dealers throughout the country. ROBBINS & APPLETON, Sept. 4, 1867-3m. 182 Broadway, N. Y.
