But there will come a time, my luve, When, it I read the stars aright, I shall not linger on the porch With my sdien. Till then, good night ! I du wish the time were now? And I! You do not blush to wish it so !

You would have blushed yourself to death To own as much a year ago-What, both those snowy hands? ah, then, I'll have to say good night again. T. B. Aldrich;

Heat it hot, Sam.

A correspondent sends us the follows ing good story:
Colonel McHattan came from Virginia to this State (Illinois) in the early settlement of this country, when roadside inns were unknown, and every dweller in the wilderness kept a sort of traveler's home. The Colonel, by a lucky investment in wild land, became in time a rich man, but he kept up his habits of hospitality; and if the guest was well to do in the world; did not object to turning an honest penny in that

One cold, blustering winter evening, a horseman drew up to the house and usked accommodations for the night. A half grown lad answered in the affirmative, and ushered him into the sitting room, where the great wood fire, of itself, gave him a cordial welcome. After supper the landlord made his ap-pearance for the first time. He was hearty and hale and rosy as any boni-face should be, but he was bent and crippled in his gait. He explained by saying that he had taken a bad cold which had settled in his back. "I don't mind the pain so much," he continued, "but it is so inconvenient.—

I have been recommended to:try a poor man's plaster, and if you will excuse me I will have it put on. Sam! Sam-uel! Sam McHattan!"

"Here, father," said the lad before mentioned, hastily swallowing a huge piece of mince ple which he had been quietly enjoying.
"Here, Sam, my boy, heat this plaster for me and put it on my back. Heat it hot, Sam."

Saying which, he handed the plaster to his son, and seating himself astride his chair, with his back to the fire, threw his suspenders back and his shirt over his head. "Now, Sam," said the Colonel, "if the poor man's plaster is hot, you may put it on; but you may wait a little, I'm afraid it's not hot enough. Host it hot said the constant of the con ough. Heat it hot, Sam, heat it hot.— Can you tell," he continued turning to the traveler, who was scated in the corner, "Can you tell why this is called the poor man's plaster sometimes the poor man's priend? "F" give it up?—laughing to himself—secause it sticketh closer than a brother! eh?" Poor Sam who had been watching his chance to speak without interrupting his father, now ventured to say:
"I guessit's hot enough now, father."
"What do you know about it?" said the old man testily.

I say heat it hot, Sam, heat it hot."

Sam, whose race was at red heat, had held the plaster to the fire until it ran and dripped down on the hearth, and he made no reply.
"Well," said the old man, looking around, "niaybe it will do now, Sam,-Clap it on.' Sam, armed with the plaster, approached him; and if my word can be taken. did clap it on. The old man gave one yell, Ake a wild Indian, and jumped clear over the back of his chair, kick-ing his old fashioned breeches off his feet, dancing around with pain. The travelor laughed until he cried, and the more mine host roared, the more he haughed. When the first agony was over, the Colonel began to swear, and our traveler thought it would be prudent to retire, lest he should share wrath with Sam, who he observed was making good his distance.

The next morning when leaving, he handed the Colonel five dollars, saying with a twinkle of his eye:
"I don't want any change. It is cheap at that." After he was sented upon his horse, and out of range, he called:

"Heat it hot, Sam, heat it hot. It sticketh closer than a brother, eh?"

NOT TO BE KICKED .- About thirty years ago, Abraham Doolittle was transplanted from Harvard University to one of the Southern States, for the pur-pose of assuming editorial control of a violent party paper, where no one ever labored with advantage to the party simply because an indefinite quantity of pistols and a multiplicity of bowie knives prevented the advocacy of cer-tain principles, and fettered the freedomiof speech in a style, perhaps, not so elegant as efficacious. Doclittle was a Connecticut exotic. He was highly educated, impetuous, yet—with the characteristic cunning of his race—careful of his own interest. He took hold of the paper with the determination to make it serviceable to the cause and serviceable he did make it. The opposing candidate was a bad fellow—a duelist, a dram-drinker, a lover of poker, and decided votary of Venus. Doolittle dared do what no other editor had dared—he said so. The day on which the article appeared, the candidate entered the editorial chamber.

"You are Doolittle, the editor of this paper?" holding a copy of the sheet in his hand. "I am." "You have libelled and insulted me, and" (drawing a large knife) "I have come for your ears." "I beg your pardon," said Doolittle, "I am a stranger to your customs, and perhaps have taken a license which, in this part of the country, is inexcusable. Such is, I think, a fact; suppose avecompromise the matter."

Very well," said the bluff Southerner, "I'll kick you and you shall make a full retraction

"You'll what," said Doolittle quietly. "Kick you." "You insist on that little privilege!" "I am unalterably fixed in my determination."

"So am' I," said Doolittle, firing a horse pistol, as, big as a blunderbuss, add shattering the Southerner's right leg, "not to be kicked." He held his situation six months, was stabbed twice, shot three times, belab-ored with a bludgeon once, thrown into a pond once, but he was never kicked. During six months' experience he lilled two of his adversaries. These are facts.

A CURIOUS LOVE STORY .- A Very curious love story is told by several of the ancient writers respecting Egivard, a secretary to Charlemange, and a daughter of that emperor. The secre-tary fell in love with the princess, who at length allowed him to visit her. One winter's night he stayed with her very had fallen. If he left, his foot-marks and we study the interest of those purchasing would expose him to danger. At length the princess resolved to carry him on her back to a neighboring house, which the princess resolved to carry him on her back to a neighboring house, which she did. It happened, however, that from the window of his bed-room the emperor saw the whole affair. In the assembly of his lords (on the following day, when Egivard and his for family use that have ever been made. They daughter were presented housked what are so mild and pleasant in their operation and ought to be done to the man who compelled the king's daughter to carry him on her shoulders, through frost and more generally known. The whole story is told prices, pladging ourselves to a snow, in the middle of a winter's night? The lovers were alarmed, but night? The lovers were alarmed, but dressing Egivara, said ; "Hadst thou loved my daughter thou shouldst have come to me; thou art out 12.

AMERIC'N WATCH

MADE AT WALTHAM, MASS.

The American Watch Company, of Waltham, Mass., respectfully submit that their Watches are cheaper, more accurate, less complex, mote durable, better adapted for general uso, and more easlly kept in order and repaired than any other watches in the market. They are simpler in structure, and therefore stronger, and less likely to be injured than the majority of foreign watches, which are composed of from 125 to 300 pieces, while in an old English watch there are more than 700 parts. How they run under the hardest trial watches can have, is shown by the following letter:

PENN. RAILROAD COMPANY. OFFICE OF THE GEN'L SPERINTENDENT, ALTOONA, PA., 15 (Dec. 1860) GENTLEMEN: The watches manufactured by you have been in use on this railroad for Bevera years by our ouginemen, to whom we furnish watches as part of our equipment. There are now some three handred of them carried on our line, and we consider them good and reliable time-keepers. Indeed, I have great satisfaction in saying your watches give us less trouble, and have worn, and do wear much longer without re-pairs than any watches we have over had in use on this road. As you are aware, we formerly trusted to those of English manufacture, of acknowledged good reputation; but as a class they never keep time as correctly, nor have they done

s good service, as yours.
In these statements I am sustained by my prodecessor, Mr. Lewis, whose experience extended over a series of years. Respectfully, EDWARD H. WILLIAMS,

(1) 1315 General Superintendent.

American Watch Co., Waltham.

We make now five different grades of watches, named respectively as follows: Appleton, Tracy & Co., Waltham, Mass. -- Waltham Watch Company Waltham Mass. P. S. Bartlett, Waltham, Mass. Wm. Ellery, Home Watch Company, Boston, Mass. All of these, with the exception of the Home Watch Company, are warranted by the American Watch Company to be of the best material, on pany's printed card of guarantee, which should accompany each Watch sold, so that buyers may feel sure they are purchasing the genuine article. There are numerous counterfeits and imitations of our Watches sold throughout the country, and we would caution purchasers to be on their guard against imposition. Any grades of Waltham Watches may be purchased of Watch Dealers throughout the country.

LAWRENCEVILLE, PENN'A. September, 17th, 1867-ff The American Cooking Stove.

FTER twenty yours experience in the man ufacture of stoyes, we became convinced, rome six years since that a vast stroom of money was being expended by the people of this country, in buying cheap and worthless stoyes, a large portion of which was wasted; and that rue economy consisted in buying the best stoves that could be made, notwithstanding the price was higher. With this view we proceeded to construct the American, Goking Stove, and spared no pains or expense to make it the best and most perfect stove that could be made. And we have experimented with it, and carefully watched its operation for the last six years, and whon an improvement suggested itself, we have at once adopted it, and we have several of these improvements.

improvements secured by letters patent. In this manner we do not hesitate to may we have brought it to a higher state, of perfection than has heretofore been attained in cooking stoves. The recent improvements in this stove has added largely to its convenience and effectiveness. In all the varieties of stoves we manufacture we study people and appealing a street was study people and appealing the state of the state of the state of stoves. facture, we study usofulness, durability, conve-nionce and economy in operation, rather than
