FOUND .- On State Street, a purse, containing $2 and a pair of sleeve buttons. - The owner will find the same at Fellows's Hotel. PERSONAL. Senator Cowles was in town Wednesday and Thursday of last week, in: good health and spirits, and with an abiding corfidence in the success of Grant and Colfax.

RELIGIOUS .- There will be preaching before the First Baptist Society, in Bunnel Hall, Sunday evening next., the 20th inst.,-by the pastor, Rev. W. A. Smith.

A Good Tool.-Messrs. Williams & Sears, of the Wellsboro Foundry, pro-making shovel plows for cultivating , corn and potatoes, which seem to us to promise usefuluess and a ready sale. For breaking up the surface of plowed land they are capital.

THE STORM. - The great thunder eral. We see notices of heavy rain and terrific thunder on every side of us. South of Wellsboro the wind was quite destructive, leveling fences with the ground. Farmers in Delmar and Charleston inform us that inclined fields in some cases were scooped out, and the crops carried off. The roads and bridges east and south of us have sustained great damage.

TEMPERANCE.—In noting the progress of the cause of Temperance in this county some weeks ago, we stated that there were six organizations of Good Templars and Sons of Temperance in this county. We are very glad to stand corrected, and to be able to state that there are 11 Lodges of Good Templars in the county, located as follows: Mansfield, Mainsburg, Elk Run, Blossburg, Covington Tioga, Lawrenceville, Elkland, Oceola, Knoxville, and Niles Valley. There should be at least three times as many in June 1869.

THE LOCUSTS.—The Southern Pennsylvania papers are full of accounts of the appearance of the saventeen-year-locusts. These destructive insects are appearing by millions in the latitude of Philadelphia. The worst result yet from their visit seems to have been the death of the hogs, which dig up the grubs and eat them with avidity. The locust crawls out of the ground as a worm, shakes of the worm and emerges winged from the shell.

THE BIGGEST YET!-Mr. J. L. Flowers writes us from Lamb's Creek, under date of June 4: "We think we can beat the Edgecomb Mill a few notches. Monday last Mr. Fred. Hill. the well known sawyor at Flowers & Co's. Steam mill at this place, assisted by Mossrs. L. L. Flowers, Hiram Waters, and Gad Lamb, sawed 24,272 feet of lumber averaging 1 1-4 inches, with a circular saw, in 7 hours and 57 minutes; including two stoppages to mend the belt."

beat even this last beater. Well, send on the floors, since the higher you go the greater, the

A NUISANCE-OF COURSE.-Our attention has been invited to the condition of Main-st. between Wain and the Avenue, as to a or any other year, and when built will pay well. nuisance. We may here remark that we have Let us hope that present plans may be so modifrequently, during the last four years, recommended an underdrain on either side, say five feet deep, running from the Avenue to Queen-st. It is the only remedy for the evil of mud. But unless the owners of property along the route are willing to construct the drain, we doubt if the Burgets and Council will force them to do it. Paving the street has been suggested, but there is no bed for paving until the draining is provided for. Pavement cannot be laid in the mud, or if laid, will not stay put. Draining is the best remedy for the uncanny condition of the street. We will hold up both hands for the construction of the sewer by the authorities, and the collection of the expense from the owners of the property. Or, we will go in for doing the work by the owners of the property. Who next?

CUT THEM, DEAD.—Harper, Wilson, & Co., calling themselves the "Metropolitan Gift Co.. and hailing from New York, send us a letter, with an advertisement for publication. They promise to eash our bill on receipt thereof, we to give them the usual terms. We have already cautioned the credulous public against these swindlers, and would not allude to this case except for purpose of warning against the circulars which this set of swindlers send abroad to catch the gullible. These fellows have no abiding place of business; and we suspect that the entire lot of Gift Swindles, though under different names, is under the control of two or three men who work together. At all events, and whatever may be the fact, let them severely alone. Nobody can sell planes for a dollar, or diamonds for a song. Can you do it, or you, or you? If you cannot sell diamonds and gold watches for a dollar, who onn? Rest satisfied that the laws of trade never permit pianos, watches of value, and jewelry of precious metals, to fall below intrinsic values. So much for so much is the law of trade, and not even the President can violate that law with

Gossip.—Taking up a paper, published in the eastern portion of the State, the other day, we found the announcement of the death of a man who was not known beyond his own neighborhood, but who was a martyr nevertheless. The world is indebted to him fer many s hard day's work when a good portion of its people were abed and asleep. This man died from overwork—a disease rarest where you would most expect it to develop itself, and commonest where nobody thinks of looking for it. The annonneoment put us on a train of thought which we shall briefly jot down here. In looking over the works of the Creator many people are struck the works of the Creator many people are struck old gentleman entirely blind, from Friendship, with the nice adaptation of means to ends. We Allegany Co, N. Y., wassent to Dr. Up De Graff, have storms of rain and snow to keep the fluids in equilibrium; navigable rivers and lakes to connect the innermost, with the outermost regions: graius and fruits peculiar to certain lat-itudes and exactly what is needed to sustain life; a time to plow, sow, and gather in; sunlight, illuminating the world so that its work may be done, and darkness and silence of night for rest and repose; mines of iron and coal in juxtaposition; the Camel for the desert the llama for the precipitous Andes, the horse and ox for the grassy hills and plains. Then there is man, the will turn weary days of work into a morning's chiclest of creatures, an epitome of the universe. Pastime. But a small share of this work is gen-What a delicate machine is his body, yet how strong in its perfect adaptation to life's uses. If a man may not with his hands annihilate space, in his curious brain is evolved the telegraph, which counts by the pulsations of the subtlest agent known. If he may not lift and transporta thousand tons by himself, he pauses, reflects, compares: and lo! the ponderous locomotive becomes his thought, instinct with life and force, and speeds away with its laden train, over plaine, through mountains, and across fivers, long the work of ten thousand men in a day. So, if the Creator did not provide all things for the progress of man, He gave the power of further creation into inan's keeping. So the universeilis perfect in deelf, and only when some man gets out of his place is there any jar, or confusion gle machine. Wheeler & Wilson's Improved consequently, no approuncement of the fact; con sequently nothing said about it in this gossip it every man would do his work—the work set alert for him—no man could die from overwork. but as there is so much work laid out for man to do, and as it must be done, if not by all, then by ers than all, so it stands to reason that when one-half of the rane shirk their tasks, somebody, the doesn't shirk must carry double from the eradic to the grave; bunce some back breaks man 1- said to have outlived his usefulness.

but somebow the market never gets overstocked. It costs nothing to say "good morning," and to touch the rim of onc's hat to spasser-by, and it really rounds the corners of life in this snap-Judgment, burry skurry world. Even where this sort of courtesy becomes a habit, and conveys no especial sign of regard, it is not bypocrisy; far away off in the past, when the habit was put on, there was a good motive at the bottom, which motive, being good, lasts through time. "I think your children have one defect," said a gentleman to us the other day in the street. He was a comparative stranger to our village, and much struck with its beauty. In what respect? we asked. "In respect to the little courtosies of life," said he; "I notice that few of them respond to a salutation from an elder. "Thinking it over we came to the conclusion that he might be correct. Probably some o the boys and girls of our town may be shy of returning the "good morning" of a stranger. This need not be. It looks like churlishness to a stranger, though it way be nothing so unworthy as that. So we say-cultivate the graces of out-door life; be courteous to all, without regard to garb, station, or condition. Grow up into the habit, boys, and when in after life you meet superiors in osition you will be enabled to, carry yourselves ereditably. Politeness does not consist in gestures, or in grand manners, but in the respectful nod, and the "air" of manliness and womanliness which attends the carriage of true men and woman. You need not practice a la Français. No need of studying fine phrases to astonish the natives. and two much cannot be said in its favor. THE FAMILY SEWING MACHINE.—Stout pants 28, for boys, delicate ruffling for girls, men's over-coats and ladies' trimmings should not now be the weary work for ladies' fingers, and need not be; for the stool sinews of the Sewing Machine 30, do pastime. But a small share of this work is generally done on the sewing machine, because of the lack of ability to make the machine do: it.—

It makes little difference how complicated a machine for a work shop is; for there operators make it a business to learn and manage them.—
But the machine for the family should be of the simplest and most perfect mechanism. We are led to make these remarks in justice to a comparatively new machine, which has gained great favor aimong us, on account of its quiet, prompt, rapid, and real business ability to do all our work, and with assonishing neatness and perfection; it is the Willeax & Gibbs.—Northwestern Christian Advacate.

I sing, I sing of a curious thing,
Almost as strange as Boggs upon Tyng;
I've swung 'round a circle as round as a ring,
And while on the down east part of my swing,
I stopped at the city and took on the Spring
