"It proved a grand success. Eight of the Templar Lodges in the county were well represented. Nearly 2000 people were on the ground, and the crowd listened with manifest interest and profit to an able temperance address of an hour and forty minutes, by Rev. W. A. Niles, of Corning. growth is a battle with inertia; and you have only to look at the big muscle of the blacksmith's arm to find a lesson pertinent to our subject. By swinging the hammer and sledge the muscles of the same law holds good in respect to morals, and character. A character without muscular properties is worth no more than a tallowed rag in a hot day. It has no backbone. The man who rules himself is the best man always. If his inclinations to evil be strong, and constant, and he battles, them, and puts them. inclinations to evil be strong, and constant, and agent of Mr. Harding for the counties of Bradhe battles them, and puts them down, his soul ford and Tiega, as may be easily verified by adgains what is equivalent to the rounded and dressing Wm. Look at the fields after a long term of heat without rain; they have had too much sunshine; the grass looks brown and sere, the leaves have lost their tender green, the corn, a child of pariodicals from Verkles, and Monthlies, at the Publisher's prices. One advantage in taking the tropics, is pinched up as with a crimpingiron. Nothing that lives can bear monotony of

Call and see Conant's Patent Binders for preserveder, lightning, hail, wind and rain, as well as sunshine and calm, so human nature requires to be subjected to tempests of trial, long nights of struggle, and peltings from the clouds of adversity, before it can reach its bighest perfectness.

So, young man-you who chafe under the restraints of poverty, and almost despair at the cruel buffetings of disappointment—be assured that it is all for your good; that you cannot be raised to your highest estate without it. And accept the challenge to combat like a true and valorous knight. If you feel a longing in your soul for rest, trample it out; it is a false aspiration, misleading to destroy. To be rich enough to live without work is a common ambition.-Take it by the throat and kill it out of hand. It is another way of trying to cheat the soul of its growth, and therefore a premeditated plan to cheat its Almighty Auther. The measure of success extends through the lifetime of an individual. No man ever succeeded fully in less than seventy years. You may be rich in millions; you may sit in all the high places of the land; and if you ever find an hour without a duty, count it as. an evidence of moral paralysis and approaching inertia, known as death.
