In fact, Signor Blitz cannot approach him in ventriloquial facts. Mr. D., coolly informs his audience that he is about to deceive them, and does it, effectually. The only regre we have is, that the political excitement spoiled his field for this time. He deserves a large audience, for his entertainments are calculated to do good. His piece in three scenes-"The Drunkard"-is excellent. If Mr. Davenport will come here next winter he can have an audience worthy of his talents.

CHURCH MATTERS .- Rt. Rev. Bishop Stevens administered the rite of confirmation to a class of upward of thirty at St. Paul's Church in this village, Wednesday afternoon of last week. A number of this class had received baptism at the hands of Rev. Mr. Allen, Into of this parish, now of Allegheny, and the remainder were baptized on the 13th, by Rev. Charles Breck of Wilmington, Del., now on a visit to his friends and former parishioners in this village. A large audience was present at the confirmation. Bishop Stevens preached in the evening. The discourse was extempore, and won all hearts by its earnestness, simplicity, and beauty. The several parishes in Tioga county were rep resented on the occasion, as follows: Blossburg - Rev. M. L. Kern. Mansfield-Rev. Mr. Barrows.

Tioga-Rev. J. H. H. Do Mille. Revs. Mr. Montgomery, of Corning, and Chas. Breck, of Wilmington, Del., were also present and assisted in the ceremonies.

MAN AND BOY SHOT.—A gentleman writes us from Farmington under date of Sept.

tails of a tragedy that occurred in our midst last night.

"It appears that a man by the name of Forsythe, living on the Elkhorn near R. Shaw's, has been missing apples, which he supposed were stolen; and last night his son Charles (aged about 17) and Frank Dunham; loaded their guns and went to the orchard to watch. They lay under the tree until near eleven o'clock, when they heard some one coming. Charlie missed up. they heard some one coming. Charlie raised up on his knee, and peering through the darkness saw a man raise up his arm to get an apple, when, without warning, he fired. The man fell when, without warning, he fired. The man fell to the ground, groaning, and the boys fled, One went home, to bed; the other went home and got a lantern, and calling up the neighbors wint back to see who was hurt. While they were gone the wounded man and boy for there proved to be two, had managed to build a fire, and were lying by it. The man seemed to be hurt the worst. A wagon was procured, and the wounded man was taken to Mr. Forsythe's, who sent a boy after the Doctor. The boy met Dr. Smith of Tiogs, on his way to visit Mr. Colegrove. The Doctor hurrled to the scope, and on examination Doctor hurried to the scepe, and on examination found the man had 15 shot lodged in his hip, groin, and side, and the boy one in his arm and another just grazed his side.

"They were out." cooning," and set the dog out in the cornfield and stepped over into the orchard for an apple when they were shot. The names of the wounded are Wib Stratton, and Daniel Gee son of Mr. Daniel Geo, all of Middle-bury.

These are believed to be the facts in the case, and are written with the view of silencing the thousand-and-one stories that would otherwise be circulated in regard to it."

We are much obliged to our correspondent for the relation.

Gossip.-A roguish boy was once oberved hard at work to drown a mouse in a tub of water. The mouse swam for dear life, and once or twice succeeded in getting nearly out by climbing up the side. On these occasions, so hopeful to the poor mouse, the cruel boy would ooke him back. "Give the little fellow a chance for his life," said a pitying looker-on; "see how plucky he is, and have pity on him"......So, when we see a poor fellow who has been "a night wanted at this office. Those of our subscribers and a day in the deep," of degradation, struggling for dear life to get out upon solid ground in daylight, we usually see some one or more as-siduously laboring to push him back into the hateful gulf. Give him a chance for his life, ye who take a devilish delight in loosing his hold upon better things. Remember how difficult it is for him to look up and climb, and admire his pluck. It is easy enough for one who has not met his conquering temptation to make light of the struggles of a fallen man or woman to escape from the bondage of a great crime against socie-GRAPES.—We are indebted to Mr. ty, and an almost hopeless brench of Divine law. branches; to bring with them pen and ink, a They are beauties. -"Annen," The poem cutitled "The Everreen Mountains of Life," was written by James 3. Clark, the noted ballad writer and vocalist. It has been published in nearly every newspaper in the United States, and is to be had of dealers in sheet music everywhere. The music, as well as the words, is by Mr. Clark. The poem to which you direct attention, entitled "To the memory of Wm. B. Bradbury," is a bold plagiarism, all that is good in it being taken bodily from Clark's poem. It is expected that the huilding will be mised and pit under cover before winter.

Thursday Sept 17.—This afternoon, the citizens of Mansfield werd shocked by the now, unusual sight of a drunken man, staggering along the street. Where he got his liquor, is an interesting question, as he came into the village with a bundle over his shoulder, over the river-bridge, about cleven A. M., and perfectly sober. At 2 P. M. he was drunk, and at 4 P. M., was dill drunker. No liquor is sold in Mansfield, legally and moreover this man has been known for years as "a habitual drunkard," and formerly was a pest and nuisance in the place. Latterly we have been spared from having our nights made hideous by his drunker ravings; and one cold night he was very near perishing, 'as no one thought it laced inot, probably, to be disturbed during the was very near perishing, as no one thought it worth while to take any notice of the mosus and ercams of old"," until a chance passer by bund him; almost helpless, in the snow and took

"BEE-HIVE EXCHANGE!"

I sing, I sing of a curious thing,
Aimost as strange as Boggs upon Tyng;
I've swung round a circle as round as a ring,
And while on the down east part of my swing,
I stopped at the city and took on the Spring
