WELLSBORO.

MONDAY, OCTOBER, 5, 1868. -We make this announcement on the authority of Gen. Cameron, from whom we have received the following note dated Sept. 23; "Gen. Butler, whom I saw in Waashington, will be in Wellsboro, Monday the 5th of Oct'r." Gen. Cameron and Gov. Geary are expected to be present also. Let every Council and Club arrangement between the Wellsboro and Delma Baptist Churches, Rev. W. A. Smith, the partor, will preach at Delmar in the morning, and at Wellsboro in the evening, at the usual hourcommencing Sunday next.

PERSONAL.-Hon. S. F. Wilson returned from Washington last Friday, Congress having extended the recess to October 16. He represents the state of feeling in every part of the true-hearted North as earnest and confident, and says that Indiana and Ohio, as well as Pennsylvania and New Jersey, are certain for Grant.

ELKLAND.—This village bids fair to become an important manufacturing point .-Mesers. Fitzgerald & Monroe have about finished their sash and door factory, the machinery being all on the ground. Mr. Coates is progressing rapidly in the construction of his factory for similar work. The Calver Hotel is in running order and nobody need stay away from the Fair for fear of losing a good bed or a warm meal. The Presbyterian Church is nearly done, and will be an ornament to the town. The Graded school is flourishing finely under the control of Prof. Ward. The Fair begins to-day.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—We are obliging watermelon, girthing between two and three don't see how it can be improved upon. We are obliged to Mr. M. Conway for a mag-

Gossip.-Men often become so thoroughly absorbed in business that they forget to look above the level of their eyes. Would you believe that a man ever lived ten years without once looking at the stars? Such is the story, related on good authority. He had been favored in youth in all things pertaining to education; had a good knowledge of the sciences, was generous, frank, and had notice aims. Attaining his majority, he entered into the business of life with all the zeal of an impulsive nature. For a few years he accumulated for the double purpose of liberality and gain. Then he began to look straight before him, and forgot to look higher, until it came to pass that ton years passed away and the stars, and the blue sky were to him as traditions. He became like a tree with leaves turned sere and yellow by a June frost. The springs of his best and brightest youth dried up, and the dust from their parched channels was churned up by the remorseless wheels of traffic. The teaching is this: For every transgression of nature's laws there is a swift and sure penalty. If a man suffers his soul to become absorbed into a contest for gain for the sake of gain, and neglects to cultivate his sympathies, and the better relations: which unite men in a common bond, the world County Baptist Association would urge the newill chill toward him as he chills toward the cessity of each church being prompt in sending blessing the wise and unselfish.
