We had better ride forward, said Juan, an affectionate kiss. He. never scolds apples, and other choice fruit, and it morning, replied Juan, who seemed pleased with the proposal. In that case we had better take something before we start. Wait till we get home, replied Juan. In less than a quarter of an hour we were on the read, It was a lovely night; the moon shone with unsurpassed effulgence, rendering the way to be followed as plain as mid-day. There was not a cloud in the sky, which was thickly studded with stars; and the leaves on the trees shone as with silver. We had ridden a little over five miles when we heard through the stillness the panting of some animal coming tovard us on the road. What can it be, said Besson. It sounded like a dog, replied Juan. Just at that moment, as we reached
