That scorched the rebel clan, For the Boys in Blue were stout and true— And Grant was in the van Still raged the war; and grass grew green O'er many a soldier form, 'Till Pence came, fair as a morning star, After a night of storm.
And shall we now the fruits of peace, To Preason tamely yield? Not while a soldier wields a vote, And, Grant is in the field ! So close up ranks and forward march! 'Till the crowning fight is won!
While the sweet old music fills our hearts With the soul of battles gone. Our cause is blest; we cannot fall Who strive for the Rights of Man! The stars in their courses fight for us—And Grant is in the van! -Chicago Tribune. A CHRISTIAN HERO. The late war was a steru test of character. Many who had long maintained a Christain profession, made shipwreck of faith and hope in the army. They were not equal to the temptations of a new career. Some who went out with high aims, as chaplains, to guide the living and comfort the dying, returned with soiled reputations, having ruined themselves instead of helping others.
But true-hearted Christians grew in grace in the army. The dangers and trials of a new life developed their manhood, and they came forth from the fur-nace like gold purified by fire, C— was a noble example of this class. He had experienced the new birth only a few weeks before enlisting in one of the New York regiments. Indeed it was the glowing patriotism begotten by love of God, that led to lay himself on the altar of his country's service; for he was delicately nurtured, surrounded by friends who idolized him, and naturally averse to both the excitements and the hardships of military life. But the same surrender which led to an abandonment of ease for Christ, impelled to an abandon ment of home for country. His friends thought him unfit both by temperament and labit for a soldier's life; but the martry-spirit was in him, and he longed to do or die for the upholding of a free governmet. With a quiet enthusiasm, which repressed all tears and gave a cheerfulness to his parting words, he left for the field. that is, in the most substantial manner. In the His destination disappointed him, for he hoped to share the dangers of battle. but his company, with one other, was detached from the regiment to man a fort in the Carolinas. The chaplain went with the other companies to the field. and those remaining were left without The Sabbath came, and the young mough to MAKE A SUMMER in sergeant missed his Christian home and the worship of the sanctuary. He was sorely tried. There was no chaplain in the fort, and, so far as he knew, no Chistians among his superior officers. He was but a babe in Christ, who had taken part but a few times in the social devotions of the church. He was naturally proud, and keenly sensitive to ridicule If he assumed position as a leader in Christian labor, it might excite the contempt of his superiors and interrupt his friendly relations, for he was a aniversal tavorite in his company.
But the same courage which would have led him to the cannon's mouth. haute him heroic in duty to his divine Master. He gave notice at noon, tha religious services would be held in he cosemate at six o'clock, and invited botiofficers and men to attend. The hou came, and a large number gathered. from the Bible, gave a sumple charte. of his own experience, which startethe tears in many eyes, and said he fela need, which was doubtless commor to all, of Sabbath worship to preserve religious feeling in the long absence from home. He added that he knew not if there were other Christians in the company, but hoped there were many who would find pleasure in assisting in such a service. He then invited al. to exercise a perfect freedom, and to speak or pray as the Spiritmoved them A dead silence followed. He looked calmly from face to face around the en tire circle, but met no responsive d, is if with concealed merriment at his position. Some looked indifferent, as if the whole thing was a weariness A few appeared serious, as if mindful of religious privileges left at home. But no eyes flashed sympathy, and no voice was heard to utter encouraging words He felt bitterly that he was alone. But he did not falter. Expressing a simple regret that no others were ready to take part in the service, he announced that a similar meeting would be held on the next Sunday, and closed with a brief prayer, which touched the most care less heart. less heart.
When all had left, his heart sank, and hot tears were in his eyes, for he had a sharp sense of weakness and loneliness. He heard songs in the neigh-boring casements, given with a genu-ine nasal twang, in raillery of the meeting. He knew there were many mock ing tongues. But God gave the needed strength to his young disciple, and he endured to the end. For months he sustained the meeting alone, and all who attended were respectful, for they lionored his consistency, and loved his genial manhood. And when at length the term of enlistment expired,-for it was a nine month's regiment,—and the young sergant who yearned for home was laid away in the grave, a victim to typhus, just as the time for return came, his comrades watered his grave with loving tears, and united in calling him a true Christian hero. They learned to revere religion for the beauty of his example. His life was short, but long enough to win a martyr's crown. GENERAL GRANT'S ONLY JOKE .-The only joke that Lieutenant General Gront was ever known to perpetrate,

THE LAST FIGHT OF THE WAR

Once more rings out the bugie call!

Onte more the banner lies! Once more the Boys are gathering,
Beneath the Autumn skies,

For Treason makes its final fight
Against the Right of Man I

We've heard that rebel yell before,

When Riot ronred in the Bowery,

And Lee had crossed the line

We've heard that traitor whine-

But victory came in a blaze of flame,

And Grant is in the van!

But the flag we raise, as in other days, was one day during his campaign in Mississippi, when the rebel Gen. Win-ter was coming up to attack one of the wings of his army, where the Comman der-in-Chief happened to be present. "Gentlemen," said Grant, quietly knocking the ashes from his cigar, and looking around at the officers near him, "you see a severe Winter approaching, and I advise you to have the boys keep up a good fire!" of Hardware A matter-of-fact old gentleman in New England, whose wife was a thoro gh "Destructionist," was awakened out of his sleep by his possessed rib, one stormy night last winter with the word: "Husband! did you hear that noise? It's Gabriel a coming! It's the sound of the chariotwheels!" "On, pshaw, you old fool!" replied you shose fruit Inr as low as they can be bought any laywhere, and shipped from Corning. We can live special rates on large quantities. It is the most and most soluble Jar in the market. Go Gabriel is such an ass as to come on wheels in such good sleighing as this? I tell you it's not him-turn over and go to sleep.

A lady asked her little girl, on returning from church, if she remembered the text. "O, yes," said she, "it was this: 'The ladi s' sewing society will meet at Mrs. McCracken's house on Monday evening next."

A showman advertises that among his other curiosities is the celebrated "difference" which has been so o ten split by bargain makers. He says he has both halves of it.

If a woman change her sex, what religion would she be? A he-then.
