Dec. 13. In the Senate petitions and memorials, as follows, were received and referred: For the extension of the elective franchise to women; from the colored citizens of Georgia asking for protection in their rights to life and property; from Wm. E. Dodge, Horace Greely, and others, asking that Con gress appoint a committee to investi-gate the naturalization and election frauds in the city of New-York. Sena-tor Morton introduced a bill providing for the redemption in coin of green-backs and National Currency. The bill provides that the notes of the United States shall cease to be legal tender after Jänuary, 1, 1872. A bil for a uniform system of naturalization was introduced. A resolution repudi-ating the President's scheme of repudiation was referred to the Com of Fi-

In the House a similar resolution was offered. The resolution reads: "That all forms and degrees of repudiation of the national indebtedness are odious to the American people." This resolution was adopted by a vote of 154 yeas to 6 mays—the latter being Democrats. A resolution providing for a Committee to investigate the election frauds in New-York was adopted by a strict party vote-{life Democrats voting "no." Dec. 45. The Senate considered a bill to carry into effect the 14th Amendment of the Constitution.

The House took up the tariff bill, but made no essential progress.

Dcc. 16. In the Senate, a joint res olution declaring that the public debt in most part, was contracted to be paid in coin or its equivalent, and enacting was reported from the Committee on Finance. Senator Morton's speech on the resumption of specie payments consumed the remainder of the session.

We have received the first number of The Beaver Radical, published at Benver, Pa., by M. S. Quay. It is a neat quarto of 48 columns, and like its name, what they advocate. radical. Col A. K. McCiure is the corresponding editor. If Beaver can sushighly compliment itself.

The patrons of The Tribune will be glad to learn that Mr. Greeley will, during the year 1869, write an elementary work upon Political Economy, in which the policy of protection will be explained and vindicated. The work will appear in all the editions of The Tribune. Members of the Jan. club of that paper will renew, if they choose, their sub-many phases as the moon. At one time the contest seemed to lie between Grow. Then Kemble withdrew and J. Edgar Thompson came in: We now see it stated authentatively that Thompson will not be a candidate. If the remainder of the number will withdraw and leave Grow a clear field they will do the right thing: However, we await the next earthquake.

Nothing, in our opinion, would strengthen the Republican party in Pennsylvania for the Gubernational contest next year, than the election of Mr. Grow to the U. S. Senate. His position as a Radical leader, his distinguished services in the past, and his capacity for legislative business combined, render him a formidable opponent.-We regret that the whole matter cannot be left to the people. They would settle it much more easily than the political managers. At present the affair is mixed up badly, but Mr. Grow stands a fair chance of succeeding after all.

We see but one course for Northern Pennsylvania to pursue. It recognizes Mr. Grow as a faithful representive of its overwhelming public sentiment, and its legislators must stand by him, and go forward to victory; or if it must be, go down with flying colors. Let us be consistent and faithful.
