Following is Mr. Grow's letter declining to enter further into the contest for U. S. Senator: JAMES H. WEBB, ESQ.,:

My Dear Sir:-Should my name be presented to the caucus of the Senators and Members of the Legislature for nominating a candidate for United States Senator, please withdraw it, and assure all my friends that their interest in my behalf will be held in grateful remembrance. A REMARKABLY LARGE MAN: Elias Bowman, of West Lampeter township, who died on Thursday of last week, was a man of remarkable dimensions. He was about sixty years of age about five feet two inches high, and weighed between three and four hundred pounds. In early life he was quite slender, but at about twenty-five years of age he began to grow heavier and soon at-tained the dimensions which he retained up to the time of his death. He was quite sensitive in regard to his personal appearance, as 'men of stronglymarked personal peculiarities usually are, and seldom allowed bins if to be seen by strangers. The funeral took place on Saturday, the 2d inst., and was largely attended.—Lancasted Inquirer.

WHOLESALE BLASTING .- A correspondent of the Pittsfield Eagle says:
"The most thrilling scene that came under my observation was in the Sierra Nevada, on the Central Pacific. Here the roud is built on the side of a precipice 2,400 feet above the base, and the slope is so steep that the Chinamen. who did the work, were let down in baskets, and in this position drilled holes and charged them in the side of the mountain. At one time, there were four hundred and sixty of these charges connected by a fuse. Mastes of took weighing many tons fell to the bottom with terriffic fury. When the debris had ceased to fail; the ochoes were still repeating among the distant hills. So stunning was the shock that I would never willingly witness the

It strikes us that some of our Republican contemporaries are "goin, it" a little extravagantly on the merits of Mr. Scott, our newly elected U. S. Senator. We think well of Mr. Scott, and expect good things of him; but he has achieve. He is comparatively an untried man, and we prefer to judge him by his acts. Indeed, it is not in accordance with the spirit of the Republican party to hitch your faith to men. The intelligence is so general in that party that there can be no great leader whom the party will follow, as a leader. The principles of the party are what the true members of the party "tie to;" and the men chosen to represent the polls had barely closed, when the South-party will be honored and supported ern wing of the Democratic party pracjust so long as they are faithful to those tically summoned the young party to principles, and no longer. We therefore, never see Republican editors indulging in fulsome flattery of a public Northern wing of the Democracy, by man without a feeling of disgust. Officeholders are but public servants. For their faithfulness we will do them all honor; but the true Republican can be inspired by none of that awe or reverence or uncurbed admitation for an office holder which prevails where a few men are tought to rule by "divine could be but two parties to such a strugright."-Lebanon Courier.

WELLSBORO, PENN'A. WEDNESDAY, JAN. 27, 1869.

We are obliged to Senator Cameron or various current documents. Also to Hon. S. F. Wilson, M. C., for copies of the Daily Globe. Also to J. B. Niles, Esq., for files of he Legislative Record.

Since the endorsement of the election of Gov. Fenton to the U.S. Senate, by the Elmira Advertiser, we conclude that that paper is estopped from criticising the action of the Legislature of this State. John Scott is an honcet man, and in ability stands level with any New York Senator.

We are not much edified by the remarks of some of Mr. Scofield's friends touching the Senatorial contest. One of them, while deploring the failure to elect a Northern Pennsylvania, forgets that Mr. Grow had double the strength the kind expressions in my behalf of so of Mr. Scofield; and it is to the friends Grow owes his inability to make the nomination. We trust that the Legishealth and happiness I am yours truly, lature will never disgrace itself by voting in caucus, even, for Mr. J. K. Moorhead. Now pitch in.

A NOBLE RECORD.

Thirteen years ago, nearly, the Republican party sprang into existence upon a question of principle. At that time it required a faith equal to the removal of mountains, upon which to found a belief in the possibility of success within the lifetime of any man then living. The principle which was made an issue between the parties at that time, and which continues, in some degree, to constitute a subject of contest, undoubtedly lies at the bottonof successful government by the people It is no less than the Universality of

The Republican party had no purpose at that time, beyond the maintenance of a policy which should restrict Sla very to its then limits, and preserve the territories of the Union unstained by the outrage of truffic in men, women and children. Though accused of an intention to abolish slavery where it existed by virtue of local law, it is doubted if even the most advanced leader of the party cherished any such intention, or dreamed that the movement then inaugurated could result in the destruction of slavery, save by indirection. If to confine Slavery to the States where it existed involved its de-Welch, of Campbell, were coming to publican party involved the destruction of age, seized the bridle of the horse knew. Just then the thorough emasculation of the Democratic party by its the was struck by Coulon on the eye-brow, making a wound which bled for a long time. It is probable that the wound was caused by a heavy steel subservience to the slave-lords of the of the chiefs of the oligarchy. The Whig party had cut its throat at Baitimore by outraging the moral sense of its masses; and the country was in a critical condition. The Whig party had not the power which springs from organization, and could not oppose, effectively, the plans of the South. At this critical period in our history as a nation the Republican party appeared upon the scene, full of the vigor and was formidable from the beginning, and was victor in hundreds of local struggles with the Democratic party. Although it failed to elect Fremont, in its first national campaign, the prestige of that fight between a young and unsophisticated party, and a party drunken with thirty years of victory, gave the down a divided and demoralized oppoposition as a statesman yet to fiercest campaigns on record with fly- Delaware may be said to vest in the ing colors and the prestige of victory.

The history of its entrance upon the bury! administration of the Government is so well known to the American people, that it is not necessary to dilate upon that topic in so brief and general an article as this is intended to be. The trial by battle. The leaders of the apologies for what could not be excused; lent their countenance to the revolt. The struggle opened in April, 1861, by actual resistance to the Federal author ity on a grand scale. Clearly, there

Thus rallied to the support or Mr. Lincoln, Dickinson, Douglas, Logan, Pierrepont, Forney, Cessna, and hundreds of men previously allied with the Democracy, and with them came thousands of their adherents. The northern Democratic residuum ifter this stampede, was about as homo geneous a mass as ever hung upon the skirts of an aimy. It banded together upon the principle adopted by the Free Companions of olden times, and interposed obstacles to the progress of measures for the suppression of the rebellion wherever it had the power. It discouraged volunteering, opposed, bitterly, the efforts of the nation to raise money to put its armies afield and pay them, attacked the public credit, already that leads to the Court-room in the

This reaction completed the identification of the Democratic party north, both in purpose and in spirit, with the rebels of the South, and up to this time has hung like a millstone about the neck of the organization. The results of the national triumph of the Republican party in 1860 will ever be pointed to with blended wonder and pride by the friends of the human race everywhere, while nations in our government, and the great and spite of the armed supports of the South, the protests of toadies in the North, and the sympathy of the aristocracy of the Old World, in its behalf. A STRANGE CASE.—A murder trial n England has recently illustrated, in very shocking manner, the liability or juries to convict innocent men, even justice which imbued agreat party, of a capital crime.
