

The horse-barn belonging to Frank Brown, in Springfield township, was burned with all its contents on Saturday morning last. The family were attending a party at Springfield Center when the fire occurred. It is believed to have been the work of an incendiary, as no fire had been near the barn in three days. Loss, about $500. Insured for about $150.—Troy Gazette.

Mrs. Charlotte Reynolds, residing in Canton township, Ala., died very suddenly on Wednesday last, of heart disease. She had been seated at the table in usual health as it was supposed, when she suddenly fell and was suddenly attacked with a violent action of the heart, and expired in a few moments. She was something over seventy years of age and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn her loss.—Northern Tier Gazette.

It is a factious saying that figures cannot lie. No more can the World, but the World's arithmetic and statistical genius sometimes makes extraordinary calculations. For example, the Republic being in New Hampshire on Tuesday was 1,500 larger than it was at the corresponding election last year. Yet the World's cipher out of it a great deal. Reason why: Because it compares the returns of this election with those of the Presidential election last November. The same arithmetic method is in the returns of the Maine election, in September last, omens of an approaching victory of the Democratic party, by comparing it with some abstract of the returns of the Maine election, some thirty years ago. There is nothing so inextricable as the exercise of ingenuity cunningness, comfort from difficult circumstances.

Boy Missing.—A boy named Joseph, home on Monday, appeared from his father, a boy about 10 years, the 22d in name John R. Proust, a year of age, of C. C. Proust, of Jersey Shore, Pa., of John Sobring, of Jersey Shore, Pa., without intimating his purpose of home away, and took nothing with him, but in the clothing he wore, a pair of trousers, a night, a general search was made of him, which resulted in tracing him along the canal as far as the Linden Bridge. He had left further traces of him disappeared, and the distressed friends are at a loss to know how to discover his whereabouts. He was of a slight delicate frame, about 10 feet high; had on a brown cloth cap, a fancy cassimere coat, grey mixed cassimere pants, and vest. He is an intelligent boy, much disposed to ask questions, and as far as is known, free from vicious habits. Any information respecting his whereabouts will be thankfully received by his guardian, John Sobring, Jersey Shore, Pa.—Vindicator.

Elias B. Hungerford, of Corning is the principal owner of a valuable right for making inside window blinds of glass. There is a fortune in it when properly brought before the public. He has spent much time and money in getting the best form and size consistent with strength. Blind slats of stained or colored glass render a room beautiful and attractive. The cost is comparatively small and there is no need of curtains or shades. One of the Editors of the Steuben Courier thus refers to the blind:

We notice a novelty in the way of window blinds last week in the office of the Corning Flint Glass Works. A fitted with inside blind, the office has been "slats" of which are made of green glass. The effect is beautiful, and we have no doubt that the inventor will mark a new era in the history of window blinds both for offices and dwellings. We were informed that the cost of a moderately large-sized window would be about $15.—The "slats" are made of heavy green glass, work easily, and appear to be very strong and durable.—Corning Journal.

MISREPRESENTATION.—It is amusing to read the wild stories that are started about the action of the County in signing the bill changing this judicial district. Here is a specimen from the Elk County Record and Mining Journal:

"The bill passed both Houses and was signed by the Governor within the short space of three hours, no one in the State had heard of such a thing but those concerned in the plot."

One of our county officials has improved on this by stating that Governor Geary set up his office at 10 o'clock in the morning, waiting for the bill to be passed so that he could sign it. Now, this is all pro-rebel talk, and an attempt to make a little political capital against Governor Geary. The bill was passed through both Houses by a very heavy majority, both political parties voting for it. The bill is signed by the Governor. It first passed the Senate, just before that body adjourned. It then went to the House, where it was passed. It would not go to the Governor until the Senate had been informed of the action of the House, and the Senate did not meet until 10 o'clock next morning. After that hour the bill was not in session, and was messaged over to the Senate, and then taken to the Governor at near 11 o'clock. We know these facts, as we happened to be in the Governor's office when it was brought in for his Excellency's signature. Unless there was some very potent reason, the Governor would hardly think of refusing to sign a local bill which had passed by so large a majority.—Williamsport Bulletin.

THE PENALTIES OF REBELLION.—Hon. Head Lee was formerly owned by General Seabrook, the largest slave owner in the country, and one of the wealthiest men at the South. He owned twelve hundred slaves. His children were educated in England, and they enjoyed every luxury in the grand style; the sons had been carefully trained and educated; the family was one of the highest society of Europe and this country. War came, and the Union forces obtained possession of the island; the Seabrooks fled in terror to Charleston, leaving all their slaves except a few body servants, and the rest of their household property, to the tender mercies of the Federal troops. The Seabrooks sought refuge in a state of destitution in Charleston, and the fall was too great for the old man to bear. He died within few months broken-hearted. His wife joined the rebel army, and soon followed his venerable father to the grave. The orphaned son pitched along in destitution for some years, now he had none to know, but he is now a driver on one of the Charleston street cars, under the direction of a Catholic conductor. He says he is learning business, and will commence at the foot of the ladder, and means to work up. Success to him in his brave effort. The venerable mother, Mrs. Seabrook, her beloved daughter-in-law, have been for some time and are now inmates of the Charleston almshouse! Another illustrious name has fallen in the rebellion. There is the rich and. It was owned by the Confederates. One recently died of hunger at Charleston, another, and the last of that proud family, her beloved daughter-in-law, have been for some time in the Charleston almshouse! Verily, the rebellious for rebellion have been terrible.

Merry's Museum has for a long time contributed to the amusement and instruction of the young; and although it is much older than many of its readers, it is none the less a delightful companion to them. Its reading matter is attractive and its style is such as to make the publication. The editors are Louise M. Alcott and friends of the young, and who are well-known to the readers. Their knowledge of "Museum" is published by the publishers, 15 No. 17 Broad St., Boston, Terms, $1.50 a year, in advance. The publisher will send a specimen number, free, to any one who wishes to examine the magazine.

The Agitator.

WELLSBORO, PENN'A.
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7, 1909.

Andrew Johnson is lying dangerously ill at his home in Tennessee. If he is ready to go, and the Lord is ready to take him, history can spare him.

The House of Representatives at Harrisburg ratified the Fifteenth Article of the Constitution, published last week, Thursday, 25th ult. We have not yet received copies of the Record containing the discussion. The Amendment was ratified by a strictly party vote.

We are obliged to Hon. S. F. Wilson for a copy of the Impachment trial, and various departmental reports. Also to Representative Niles for valuable documents, among which is the Small's Hand-Book, containing the Constitution of the United States, of the State, with all the amendments, and a complete table of the returns of the Presidential election by townships. Mr. Small has done a handsome thing in this Manual, and displays as much judgment as industry.

The following named persons have been recommended by Mr. Armstrong for positions in this District:

John B. Bowen, of Tioga, Assessor for this District.
George Bubb, of Lycoming, Collector.
John S. Grafius, P. M., at Williamsport.
James Jones, P. M., at Jersey Shore.
Ella Hawley, P. M., at Muncy.
John S. Harris, P. M., at Lock Haven.

Of these Mr. Bubb, Mr. Jones, and Mr. Hawley were, we believe, recommended by Andrew Johnson. It is just to restate them. Mr. Bowen will make an honest, faithful, and popular officer, and we congratulate him.

We notice that the Copper papers are insinuating that Messrs. A. T. Stewart, Borie, Hoop, and others of Grant's Cabinet as first made up, purchased their appointments with favors done to the General. The editors who attack such men as Stewart, Borie and Hoop, may as well step out and bark a little at the moon. There is but a Copperhead in existence, worthy to unloose the shoe-strings of either of the gentlemen named. However, in their bitter degradation, these base fellows never spy a clean spot without spitting at it.

TO THE FARMERS OF TOGO COUNTY.

A soil to which a barley, grass, sweet and rich, is indigenous; innumerable springs of sweet, pure water, and brook-rippling through every ten acres; a climate which follows hot days with cool nights; a clear, bracing, mountain atmosphere; these, friends, are advantages which combine to constitute Tioga a first-class dairy county, and will, at no distant day, make it not only rich, but famous for its butter and cheese.

Does any man doubt this? Let him look back fifteen years. Then the air was fragrant with the odor of pine. Pine timber was the rage with men of capital and men of no capital. Small farmers, living on the navigable streams, caught the infection, and thought the year unless they made a trip down the river. Thus their farms were left to suffer want of tillage, and many an owner of fifty acres found himself without potatoes enough to carry his family through the winter.

The good sense of the farmers has finally changed pretty much all that. Multiply the number of acres tilled then by six, and you have about the number of acres tilled to-day. Multiply the number of cows milked then by ten, and you have about the number that will be milked in 1899. The number of sheep kept, though not so great as three years ago, perhaps, is yet much greater than it was fifteen years ago. The value of farms is from 60 to 80 per cent higher to-day than it was then. We speak of the hill farms now, where the improvement has been greatest. And still, the bottom lands have risen in value a third, perhaps more.

A grazing county is ever prosperous when men make dairying a business. It calls for less capital than any other business, returns a greater net profit, and the capital is always available. Butter and cheese, now articles of export, will always command high and remunerative prices. You cannot overdo the business. The foreign demand for butter and cheese is steadily increasing. It is a fact that the multiplication of cheese factories, located with judgment, has been marked by a corresponding rise in the market price of butter and cheese. We mean by this to say that the average price during the year, for those staples, is better than it was six years ago. The market is steadier.—And men are well paid for these products. Eastern dairies made money when cheese brought only 42 cents a pound. Of course that price would not pay well to-day.

We have no apology to make for so persistently urging the importance of making this a strictly grazing county. Good crops of grain may be grown here, especially upon the red shale ridges. But Tioga county can never export wheat. It may grow its own grain, easily, and at the same time carry on its dairies. It should never be raised upon to do more. Hops may be raised with profit, but not on the humid bottoms, nor upon the cold lands with a clay subsoil. Everything but butter, cheese, stock, wool, and root crops, should be incidental, and not staple productions.

More cheese factories should be built. Some of the best grazing townships in the county have none at all. Chatham, for example, has no cheese factory. Lee keeps a large dairy, and makes much good cheese. A factory, located favorably, with regard to accommodating the largest number of patrons, would put ten per cent of increased value upon every farm within its range. There seems to be a difficulty about location. But no cheese factory can be of much use unless handy to get to and near soft spring water. There must be mutual concession for mutual advantage. In locating factories the object ought not to be the profit of any one man, or the enhancement of one farm in particular. Let it be understood, that under the operations of the laws of trade, there can be no forced rise in values strictly local without an exhausting reaction. The true theory is that benefit must be mutual. We beg of farmers that they will not stand in the way of their own advancement.

It is now known that the finest bed of semi-bituminous coal east of Pittsburgh lies in Tioga County. This is better than a gold mine. Give us the coal-fields in this county and we would not exchange them for all the silver of Nevada. This coal deposit ensures a market for every pound of butter and cheese the county can produce ten years hence. It stands the farmers in hand to increase their facilities for dairying yearly, and so make ready for the enlargement of the market. Farmers, let us hear from you.

Mysterious were the winks, nods, and headshakings of our Democratic fellow-citizens previous to the inauguration of Gen. Grant, and many the hints ventured that Grant would favor the Democracy when once fairly seated in the Executive chair. They knew so much about the future that it was difficult to believe that each one of them had not received an autograph letter from Grant disclosing its intentions.

All that is changed. The Democratic papers now assail the President as coarsely as they did during the campaign. He is selfish, fanatical, partisan, and nepotist. Every appointment he has made, so far, is, to believe these journalists, of a relative. If not a relative of General, then of Mrs. Grant. Even Gen. Longstreet is now declared to be a cousin of Mrs. Grant. What a lot of relatives Grant and his wife must have.

The work of retrenchment is well begun in Washington. Secretary Boutwell has reduced the clerical forces in his Department about 33 per cent, and the P. M. General has commenced weeding out in his Department. A few millions may as well be saved in this way as not and it is to be hoped that in one weeding-out process the indifferently qualified clerks may be discharged. How many sinecures there may have been under Johnson we have no means of ascertaining. Many, doubtless. There should be no nominal places or nominal placeholders.—Let us have an honest and economical administration of public affairs, paying no heed to the mutterings of the vultures who pay their favorites out of the common treasury, nor to the wails of the official orphans. Economy and efficiency are the watchwords.

Said Grant in his inaugural:—
"The question of suffrage is one which is likely to agitate the public so long as a portion of the citizens are excluded from its privileges. It seems to me very desirable that this question should be settled now, and I entertain the hope, and express the desire, that it shall be settled by a Constitutional Convention."

BRADDOCK COUNTY.—We clip the following from the Troy House. The excavations are being made for the additional width and equity. No man can give a valid reason why one class of citizens should be denied participation in the ballot so long as they pay taxes and fight our battles. The democratic politicians raise a great outcry against taxation without representation. The colored people of Pennsylvania pay taxes on several millions of property. The colored people of Washington, D. C., pay thousands of dollars of school taxes. However, it never occurred to the Democracy that there was any injustice in taking these thousands and using them to educate white children, at the same time forbidding, under severe penalties, the education of colored children. Could villainy go farther or fare better?

The proposition to take $10,000 out of the State treasury to pay the 27 extra "help" voted by the Legislature, ought to fail. We hear that enough democrats are secured to vote for the proposition and defeat the dozen Republicans and Democrats who oppose it. If this be so, we appeal to Gov. Geary to veto the bill when it reaches him. It is about time that this abuse, now half a century old, had its tongue plucked out by its roots and so rendered mute. We object to turning the public treasury into a great charity fund for the benefit of a set of scamps who ought to be sawing wood at fifty cents a cord.

We have no objection to the employment of enough help to forward the business of the Legislature. But these 27 patrons, have done nothing; many of them, it is charged, having long ago left Harrisburg for the cheaper living at home. Not a dollar for tribute.

As there appears to be an unpardonable ignorance among men who ought to know better touching the attempt to unseat Judge Wilnot in 1888, we may state that the chief argument urging his unseating was that he had sold the crime by mixing in the dirty pool of politics. There was no fight made up on Judge Wilnot by his district, unless a mere fragment, and a partisan fragment of the bar at that, may be dignified with the name of the Bar of that District. The sum total of the beginning of that raid upon Wilnot was Democratic, and in revenge for political action. Just turn over any Democratic newspaper of that period, and you will find that the attack upon Wilnot was purely and simply political in its inception. Again, but for the sturdy opposition of the Republican and independent press of the State, add to the danger of establishing a mischievous precedent—a fact which the calmer leaders of the Democracy urged with manly vigor, Judge Wilnot would have been unseated by a Democratic Legislature. We repeat, no Democratic journal is privileged to complain of the unseating of Judge Gamble.
