[For the Agitator.]

LAST EVE I WAS SAD.

Last eve I was sad, to-night I am gay,
The shadows and sprites have passed away,
The stars peep out with laughing eyes
And flesh with gold the azure skies.

Like royal robes of an Eastern Queen
The cloudlets flit in a starry sheen,
The winds are hushed in softest trill,
And their murmurs o'er the western hill,

Last eve I was sad, to-night I am gay,
The Gent of song has passed this way,
By his magic power, he bade depart—
All the shadows of grief that lie on my heart.

And he opened a deeper vein in my soul,
It's waters flow up through a golden bowl,
And the waves of song wash away
The morbid fear of a cloudy day.

The Dutchman's Insurance.

A good story is told of a German by the name Schmidt, who had taken the precaution to insure the life of his wife for $5,000, and his stable for $900, believing the former might die and the latter be burnt, and he could not get along without some compensation for the loss. Both policies had been taken from the same agent. In a few months, after the stable had been insured, it caught fire and was destroyed. Smith quietly notified the agent, and hinted to him that he would expect the nine hundred dollars at the earliest possible moment. The agent at once sent a builder to ascertain the cost of erecting a new stable, of the same dimensions, having learned that the property had been insured for more than it was worth. The builder reported that he could replace the stable with new material for $500, but unfortunately there was an ordinance preventing the erection of frame buildings—the old stable having been of wood. He was asked to estimate the cost of a brick stable, and reported the amount at $750. The agent then notified Schmidt that he would build him a new brick stable in place of the frame one; but Schmidt became very indignant at the proposition, saying:

"I not understand dis insburance business. I pay you for nine hundred tollar, and when my stiable burn down you make me a new one. I not want a new sthable, I want nine hundred tollar."

The agent reasoned with Schmidt, but to no purpose. When the stable was about finished Schmidt went to consult a lawyer, thinking that he could still get the amount of his policy, besides having the new stable.

The lawyer, however, informed him that the company had a right to make good the loss by building a new stable and expressed surprise that he should talk of bringing suit against them.

"But?" said Schmidt, "I insbure for nine hundred tollars, and dis feller put up dem sthable for seven hundred and fifty—I not understand dis insburance business."

Finding that he could not compel the payment by law, Schmidt determined to get out of the "insurance business" altogether. Calling upon the agent, Schmidt said:

"Mr. Agent, I want you to shtop dem insburance on mine frow. I not pay any more monish daf way. I not understand dis insburance business."

Agent—"Why, Mr. Schmidt, you are doing a very foolish thing. You have paid considerable on this polloy already, and if your wife should die you will get $5,000."

"Yaw, dat is vat you tell me now," said Schmidt. "Ven I pays you on my sthable you say I get nine hundred tollar if it burn down. So it was burnt, and you not give me nifie moush.—You say, O, dat vash an old frame sthable; it not wort anydings; I make you a brick sthable, and you not pay me mine nine hundred tollars. Ven my frow dies, den you say to me: 'O, she vash an old Dutch woman; she not wort anydings; I get you a new Anglish wife! And so I lose mine five thousand tollars. You not fool Schmidt again. I not understand dis insburance business."

Exit Schmidt.

PENALTY OF TOO MUCH BRAIN-WORK.—Dr. Parker, of New York, delivered a lecture a short time ago, in that city, in which he showed the evils proceeding from the transgression of the limits of their physical powers by literary men. He said:

"No man can do head-work faithfully for more than four or five or six hours. If that time is exceeded, all the phosphorus is carried off, and the man becomes irritable, broken down, and has softening of the brain. I have seen this overwork in lawyers, doctors, clergymen and merchants, who have worked the brain for ten hours. They have dropped the burden. You cannot violate the law of God with impunity. Sir Walter Scott did a large amount of brain work in his day, but he did not overwork himself. In his latter days, however, he became pecuniarily embarrassed, and resorted to his literary pursuits to save himself; but he worked too hard and completely broke himself down. One of the best scholars I ever knew broke himself down in his younger days, but he lived on to seventy though he could only work some four hours a day. After these hours he engaged in vigorous exercise to keep him out of the house as much as possible and he continued one of the best professors in the country."

POETRY AS AN EDUCATOR.—The men who know men best are the great poets. They are great poets through the warmth and breadth and faithfulness of their sensibilities, their sympathetic consonance with all the voices of the human heart, and above all, through ceaseless desire for the better. To utter and embody conceptions springing out of such soil there needs a rich and flexible, a clean, refined diction. Hence poets are the regents of language. Great poems are the highest classics; that is, they are best products of the first class of literary work. Thus, besides the primary claim with good poetry has to be an educator as tending through the truthfulness and purity of its sentiment, to purge and elevate the sensibilities, it has a secondary claim, as furnishing the finest moulds of speech—transparent, deeply-freighted words in golden cadences. These their claims have been always academically acknowledged.

A tall Eastern girl, named Short, loved a certain big Mr. Little, while Little little thinking of Short, loved a little lass named Long. To make a long story short, Little proposed to Long, and Short longed to be even with Little's shortcomings. So short meeting Long, threatened to marry Little before long, which caused Little in a short time to marry Long. Query—Did tall Short love big Little less, because Little loved Long?

"I wish I had your head," said a lady one day to a gentleman who had solved for her a knotty point. "And I wish I had your heart," was the reply. "Well," said she, "since your head and my heart can agree, I do not see why they should not go into partnership." And they did.

An Irishman entered a barber shop while drunk, ate with a brush a cup of lather, dug out the ball of soap at the bottom of the cup, ate that, and sat down to warm his feet. "How did you like your lunch?" asked a bystander. "The custard was illegant; but, by me soul, I b'lave the egg was a little too long in the wather."

"It seems to me," said a mother to her daughter who was to be married next day, "that your future husband is very willful and exacting. He is asking for any quantity." "Let him alone, mamma," was the reply; "grant him a little indulgence now. You know he is making his last will."

THE CHURCH UNION

This paper has been recently enlarged to mammoth proportions. It is THE LARGEST RELIGIOUS PAPER IN THE WORLD. Is the leading organ of the Union Movement; and opposes Sectarianism, close communion, exclusiveness and church caste. It is the only paper that publishes Henry Ward Beecher's Sermons, which it does every week, just as they are delivered.—which out qualification or correction by him. It advocates universal suffrage; a union of christians at the polls; and the rights of labor. It has the best Agricultural Department of any paper in the world; publishes stories for the family, and vice the destruction of such evils. Its editorial management is impersonal; its writers and editors are from every branch of the church, and the most organ of thoughtful, pious, Sunday Organs for Churches, etc., makes one of the best papers for canvassers in the world.

Every Congregation may obtain a Communion Service, an Organ, a Melodeon, a Bible, or a Life Insurance Policy for its Pastor, or almost any other needful thing, by a club of subscribers.

HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

Critical Notices of the Press.

This most popular Monthly in the world.—N. Y. Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellences of Harper's Magazine—a journal with a monthly circulation of about 170,000 copies—In whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the culture of the American People; and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each Number contains fully 144 pages of reading-matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood cuts; and it combines in itself the easy monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the fast issues of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trubner's Guide to American Literature, London.

We can account for its success only by the simple fact that it meets precisely the popular taste, furnishing a variety of pleasing and instructive reading for all.—Zion's Herald, Boston.

"A Repository of Fashion, Pleasure, and Instruction."

HARPER'S BAZAR.

A supplement containing numerous full-sized patterns of useful articles accompanies the paper every fortnight, and occasionally an elegant colored fashion plate.

Harper's Bazar contains 16 folio pages of the size of Harper's Weekly, printed on superfine calendered paper, and is published weekly.

Critical Notices of the Press.

Harper's Bazar contains, besides pictures, patterns, etc., a variety of matter of especial use and interest to the family; articles on health, dress, and housekeeping in all its branches; its editorial matter is specially adapted to the circle it is intended to interest and instruct; and it has besides, good stories and literary matter of merit. It is not surprising that the journal with such features, has achieved in a short time an immense success to meet the demand.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Whether we consider its claims as based upon the elegance and superiority of the paper, its typographical appearance, the taste and judgment displayed in the engravings, or the literary contributions contained in its pages, we unhesitatingly pronounce it to be superior in each and every particular to any other similar publication here or abroad.—Phil'a Legal Intelligencer.

"A complete Pictorial History of the Times."

"The best, cheapest, and most successful Family Paper in the Union."

HARPER'S WEEKLY—SPLENDIDLY ILLUSTRATED.

Critical Notices of the Press.

The Model Newspaper of our country—complete in all the departments of an American Family Paper—Harper's Weekly has earned for itself a right to its title. "A Journal of Civilization."—N. Y. Evening Post.

Our future historians will enrich themselves out of Harper's Weekly long after writers, and printers, and publishers are turned to dust.—N. Y. Evangelist.

The best of its class in America.—Boston Traveller.

Harper's Weekly may be unreservedly declared the best newspaper in America.—The Independent, N. Y.

The articles upon public questions which appear in Harper's Weekly from week to week form a remarkable series of brief political essays.—They are distinguished by clear and pointed statement, by good common sense, by independence and breadth of view. They are the expression of mature conviction, high principle, and strong feeling and take their place among the best newspaper writing of the time.—North American Review, Boston.
