THE AURORA.—The people of this latitude were treated a magnificent spectacular diffuse light. At 8 o'clock seven-eighths of the heavens, from horizon to horizon, was luminous, and streams sprang from a point near the N. N. E. At 81 the movement of the aurora became undulatory, the pulsations averaging two per second. The point of convergence was 210 S. S. W. of the zenith. At this time the display was very grand. At the point of convergence the autotal billows seemed to take form of flocculent clouds, assuming various shapes, and melting away ever and anon. At 9 o'clock the north became dark and the display consisted of a bright arch springing from the horizon due east, with an inclination southward 15° degrees, and spanning the heavens rested upon the S. W. horizon. This arch had all the colors of the lunar rainbow. At half past nine there appeared a beautiful corons in the south, the elevation being about 300. From beneath this the undulations of pale light proceded with unusual rapidity, the was dark, save a stream or two which shot from pu sations reaching 240 in a minute. During this southern display the northern bemisphere the zenith about 15° degrees, northerly. The electrical phenomena, while the undulations were at their highest, was marked and peculiar. Electrics flashed when brought near conducting substances, and the discharges equaled those of a mall battery. Our experiments and observations were kept up from 71 to 111 P. M., and the changes, both in the display and in the electrical henomena, noted at intervals of 5, 10, and 15 minutes. It was a magnificent spectacle. Gossip.-Once Spring was apostrophized by poets in mellifluous verse, scented with the mingled perfumes of roses and violets. But ence April showers have become traditional, and

May flowers have migrated into the kingdom of June here on the peaks of the Alleghenies, the poet's lyre becomes a flagitious liar, when it attune uself to sing of the showers of April and the fowers of the May. Still, some of the quiet letdown influences of "ye ancient" April, occasionally permeate the atmosphere and paint the skies. We noticed, from our perch on the 'hillside, not tix nights and mornings ago, a speck of Spring in the western sky. It was after sunset. Low down on the horizon swam, like "floating island," a flock of soft, golden, downy, gilt-edged clouds, with what some people name "purple" settings, but which to our eyes appeared "blue." They floated away to the south-east like a flock of swans, and upon a sky like transparent silver. To the east the skies were deeply, darkly blue;" but not shadowy and cold, as in December you blue of the mountain ridges and lending it a transparency like a bridal veil. To the South lay, near the horizon, a huge pile of cumulus, with its western edge fairly aflame. -So far we had progressed a week ago, when the fact became apparent that other and more interesting matter from our local correspondents would crowd "Gossip" out for that week. It may be that there was a speek of wisdom in the postponement of the same, as the fair maiden whom we call spring, has not taken the icicles out of her hair, or the fey pendents from her ears. The skies, as we saw them at noon, were dreadfully blue, and cold, and still. We put it to vote

Send along your Magazines and pamphlets lowever, snow is about the only really clean thing we have in this lower world. The grass thing we have in this lower world. The grass has a neat appearance, but it is, somehow, suggestive of worms and bugs; and then it sometimes has anakes in it, you know; or if you don't know, then you are a trifle greener than April grass after a warm shower. Snow, however, is perfectly pure; no worms or bugs in it; no snakes lurk under its glossy white. It is the poor man's manure, the rich man's delight, the happiness of the boys. It is so handy too, when you want to track a man. Do you suppose a fellow could steal your apples with impunity if snow were normal in August? The untracked snow is better than forty watch dogs and a dozen policemen.—

Cassimeres, Kentucky Jeans, & Cotton ades. A larger stock than usual, and at still lower prices.

Dress Goods and Shawls. We have a fine Stock of early Spring Goods, very cheap.

BLACK ALPACAS. We are keeping a still Larger Stock of the same makes of which we sold so many last seasons, and are now selling them at about 10 per cont less than last fall. We shall keep all the numbers having them at 3s, 4s, 4s6c, 5s, 6s, 7s, 8s, 10s, 12s, and—we know that no one can beat BOOTS & SHOES. Our trade last year was larger in this stock than ever before, and we desire to increase it this season, and to do so, intend to keep a still better stock in fine work for Ladies and Children. .. We shall continue to keep up our large assortment of Richardson's Work in Men's and Boy's Shoes, Women's & Chil'dren's Calf, Kip and Morocco Shoes. At about the same prices as last year. This work is the most reliable of any sold, and our large trade enables us to sell it at a very small profit. In Ladies' Serge Congress Gaiters, Serge Balmorals, and Polish Boots. Also, Kid and Pebble Goat Work Wo shall keep a much larger stock than ever before, and sell it less than regular prices.

WINTER GOODS. We are selling off the balance of our stock of Wellsboro, March 3, 1869. Winter Shawls, Sacqueings, Dress Good, Furs, &c.

The American Cooking Stove The only real base burner. It is a well known fact that in a cooking stove with an elegant fire-box the fire will die out at each end, and a large quantity of dead coal will accumulate at these points. To prevent this in the American and aid and make a uniform combustion through all parts of the fire-box, air is admitted into a hollow chamber at the top of the stove above the fire, and carried through this hollew heated chamber down to near the bottom of the fire-box at each end, and then admitted directly into the burning mass of coal. By this means a uniform combustion is obtained in all parts of the firecombustion is obtained in all parts of the firechamber, and loss coal consumed, and a more continuous fire can be kept than in any other stove. This new patented improvement is another great acquisition to this already worldrenowned cooking stove, which is now on the
