PERSONAL.-H. C. Johns, Esq., late of Rutland, has located in Williamsport, where he will engage in the practice of his profession. Mr. Johus has the talents and the culture necessary to success in law practice, and we expect to hear of his rapid rise in the profession.

TABLEAUX.-The concert and tableaux at the Court House, Tuesday evening of last week, was largely attended and yielded a fine revenue-about $60. We understand that a more elaborate entertainment is contemplated under the same auspices, but we are not yet advised as,

NEW MUSIC.-We have received the following choice sheet Music from Oliver Ditson A Co., 277 Washington st., Boston: "I will come to meet you darling," Song and chorus-dedicated "to those who are looking boyond the river; "th! may we meet again," ballad for soprano or on the boots," and "Will o' the Wisp," waltzes. "Tassels on the Boots" is a capital waltz for beginners on the piano.

WESTFIELD-CONCERT.-Rev. O. B. Weaver writes us: "An unequalted vocal and instrumental concercame off at Westfield Arpil 23d, ultimo, giving entire satisfaction to all who heard. The proceeds were applied on the purchase of an organ for the church. Resolutions of congratulation were unanimously adopted, and the musicians in-

CAPITAL!-We rejoice to find the following item from the Corning Democrat. The editor says that he saw, at Posk's wagon factory,

" A Stage coach for Mr. O. W. Hazlett, for the Tioga and Wellsboro route, worth $500. This was nearly completed and we have never seen one equal to it in general excellence, beauty and faish. The painting was particularly fine, exhibiting the most beautiful striping we have ever seen executed. The construction of the coach is such that we must congratulate the peo-ple of Wellsboro on having a stage in which a journey to their place can be made with comfort and enjoyment."

MAD DOG IN SULLIVAN.—Mrs. A. G. lill of Sullivan sends us the following account of a dog supposed to be rabid, which made an attack upon a dog belonging to the house last week. Mrs. Hill and Miss Lyda Hill were sitting in the house, when they were startled by the rush of a dog upon the stoop. Mrs. H writes:

"The dog rushed up the stoop and seized bur dog, tumbling him about and biting him the while. Miss Lyda went to the rescue, and after a battle forced the strange dog to let go his hold, when he rushed past her and into the house. We soon put him out and gave the alarm. In a few minutes several men with guns were parsuing the animal. Mr. Hill shot at him but did not hurt him much. The dog ran for the mountain and took refuge in an old house. Routing him from this coper-fields; but he recovered and made-for the road where Mr. Hill met him and knocked him down with a club. By this time several men came up with guns and the creature several men came up with guns and the creature several men came up with guns and the creature several men came up with guns and the creature.

S. M. Geer has returned from his souther trip, and reports very favorably of the country. He cannot make up his mind to go. Hates to leave this land of sour kraut, and steady habits.

We are surprised that "Somebody" in Mansfield should come out in a card, denouncing Emery's theory, and at the same time expressing his ignorance to the many readers of the Agita-tor. He says: "In fact, since reading Mr. Emery's theory and Judgo' Edmond's testimony in the Mumler case, I hardly know if it is safe to clieve anything."

Is this the first he has heard of similar, theries? He must be Rip Van Winkle the second, and is just returning to a conscious state. If these theories bring his thinking faculties into requisition, they have the desired effect. Uncle Sam foiled us in forwarding our items last week in time for publication; consequently we remained in the dark.
