Dr. Jacobs, who was with the jury and heard the evidence of Mr. Roberts with whom Shove was living, gives us the following items: On Saturday morning, 15th instant, Shove took down a double-barreled shotgun and told Roberts and his family that he would go and kill some squirrels. He left the house and was not heard of till he was found dead Monday afternoon in the pasture about a half mile from Robert's

When found his body was reclining against a log, and he had apparently opened his clothes for the purpose of examining his wound. The wound was situate on the left side in the region of the heart; and the tissues around its mouth inside the chest were destroyed for a space of from four to six inches.-It was impossible to determine the direction of the land. His hat lay several yards from where he was found, and scattered near the hat pieces of his watch blown thither by the discharge of his gun. Dr. Jacobs examined the wadding in his vest near the watch pocket, and found it burnt—thus indi-cating that the muzzle of the gun was very close to his body when discharged. on his clothing. On his person were found a letter from one sister and a piece of poetry from another. We hear it stated by a number of his most intimate friends that he had been making preparations to leave for Knoxville, Pennsylvania, there to be married in June to a beautiful young lady of that State, and then return to this county. The gun was found close by with one barr 'l discharged and the hammer down the other barrel was loaded and the hammer cocked.

years of age, and was a native of Duchees Co., N. Y. His parents were recounty about two years ago, and it was through his influence a number of good Tanner's school house, and had the reputation of being an excellent teacher. While living in this county he conthe approbation of all who made his acquaintance. He was steady in his habits—punctual, moral and decisive— it was kind and gentlemanly to all. ### Decoration Day.

How about Decoration day: was it "a desecration of the Sabbath," as some religious bodies and some others. have said? Is a man to be set downt as morally squint-eyed who "can't see it in that light?" Is united religious service adesecration?' If not, does it become so, by being commemorative of the services of the dead heroes of the war? Or, is it wicked to visit the grave of a friend upon the Sabbath day? If not, for one or two, is it for three, or four, or more? Are the reflections usually indulged upon such a visit, reprehensible? And is the case altered if it be the grave of a soldier? And strewing the grave with flowers.

ligious service, what is it?
What it is, about any of this, that "desecrates the Sabbath" you will pardon me for not being able to see. I have come to the conclusion, however, that sanctimonious rodomontade is not religion, and pious cant is not piety. Wellsboro, Pa. A SOLDIER.

Rev. Thos. K. Beecher writes in the Elmira Advertiser touching the same matter as followeth:

fate little gush of controversy over the Sunday question, whether decoration would be a desceration, has served to eall attention to the day, excite interest and arouse the will. They had a right warm time over it in Jamestown, Chatauqua county, involving sermons, votes of the Board of Education, memorials signed by citizens, protest of principal teacher, reconsideration by the Board, co-operation of children and teachers, but as the result of the brew. they racked off a first-class Sunday decoration. Decoration day stands no chance to be forgotten in Jamestown for years and years to come.

Opposition intensifies the opinion of men. It would not be all surprising if the G. A. R. should change their auniversary from May 30, which falls on Sunday now and then, and appoint the Sunday nearest the 30 of May, so as to have decoration day fall on Sunday every year. We are sure that this change will be made, provided a sufficient opposition can be excited.

The practical question upon which the clergy should be giving clean clear teaching, is, What is holy? And when they give the teaching, they should also give clearly their authority for the same. How shall we keep a day holy? Let every man be clearly persuaded in

This brings us to our subject. The noble Caucasian of the 19th century exercises his cruel and barbarous authority over the negro. At first the case stood thus: 1. The negro is not a man. 2. The negro is incapable of rising in the scale of intelligence. 3. Decoration day stands a good chance of becoming one of our holidays. The rising in the scale of intelligence. 3. 4. The negro is a bloodthirsty savage.

The negro went to trial upon this indictment and has been practically acquitted upon every count. He has proved himself a man. He has learned to read and write. He has proved more amiable and more patriotic than his white masters.

He now comes forward and asks recbusiness. What is the reply? This: 1. The negro is an inferior in race.

2. He is striving for equality with the white man. 3. He should remain where he is, a common laborer. The summing up of the case may be stated thus: 1. The negro will not work. 2. Since he will work he shall do so at a disadvantage. 3. The negro is incapable of improvement. 4. Since he has learned to read and write, he is striding toward equality with the white man and must be snubbed. 5. The negro has grown insolent and now tries to compete with skilled men. 6. So we see that the Israelites of the Middle Ages and the African of the 19th century have had their lines cast in unpleasant and difficult places.
