persons to criminal indulgence. An editor should respect the rights of the humblest. It is easy for him, seated upon the tripod, to denounce the worthy, impugn their motives, pervert their acts, and perhaps crush them by the penderous influence he exerts. The maxim that the Ballads of a nation are more potent than its Laws, was true before the glorious Art, preservative of all Arts, was discovered. Now, the lever that moves the World is that of the Press. Those whom Providence has permitted to control it should be men free from mercenary motives, appreciating the high and holy trust, and zealously devoted to the discharge of every duty. If the fountain be pure, the stream will be also. Human nature is sadly imperfect. The daily strain is felt to be beyond that of any through resistance, and if a man is in a position where temptations to passion, popularity and greed abound, he needs to exercise especial care lest he be overcome. The safety of the Republic depends upon the morality of the people. Editors are public teachers. Their audience is made up of the susceptible, the erring, the ignorant, and those who strive to do right. The family newspaper enters the home upon its mission of usefulness. Its merits and defects may be unduly estimated, but it is a pow-

Some notes of a visit to Arnot and its mines will appear in the next number of this paper. We had intended it for this week, but so much other matter was put in type meantime that the notes have to be deferred.

The law passed by the late legislature, abolishing the 29th Judicial District, was declared unconstitutional, null and void by the Supreme Court, in banc, last week. This settles the matter, and will prove a landmark which future legislatures may well heed. The opinion of the Court was unanimous.

> Mark well that Republicans never oppose any measure to prevent frauds upon the ballot. Every Registry law in the country, calculated to render illegal voting a matter of difficulty, is the work of Republicans. Democrats have invariably fought such measures tooth and nail. Last year Judge Sharswood declared the Registry Law of 1868 unconstitutional. This year he declares the Registry Law of 1869 unconstitutional. The simple truth is that Judge Sharswood and most of his brethren in politics will declare all laws intended to prevent a man voting from twice to twenty times a day, unconstitutional. With a fair ballot Grant and Griswold would have carried New York State last fall. With a fair vote the Republicans can carry the City of Philadelphia every year.

This is certain: The liberties of this nation are more imperiled by election frauds than they were by the war of the Rebellion; and unless the fairminded citizens arouse themselves and increase their vigilance the institutions which have cost so much to establish will disappear like frost under the morning sun.
