The Agitator.

WELLSBORO, PENN'A. WEDNESDAY, AUG. 18, 1890.

Republican Nominations.

FOR GOVERNOR—GEN. JOHN W. GEARY, OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY. FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT—HON. H. W. WILLIAMS, OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

COUNTY.

Assembly: B. B. STANG, of Allegheny, (subject to the choice of Conference); Preliminary—L. E. DEAN, of Charleston, Register, &c.—D. L. DEAN, of Delmar, Treasurer—DAVID GARLAND, of Toga, Commissioner—P. V. VAN NESS, of Buffalo, 3 years—ISAAC STONE, Delmar, Auditor—T. A. S. PULLIN, Westfield, 1 year—E. K. MANN, Gates, Coroner—Dr. A. J. HIGGINS, Gettysburg.

On the 10th day of May, 1890, Mr. John F. Donaldson left at this office in his own handwriting, the following address, with an order to publish: J. F. DONALDSON is a candidate for the office of Prothonotary, subject to the decision of the Republican Convention of Tioga county.

The Republican Convention nominated LENOX FABOR by acclamation. We submit the foregoing notice to a discriminating public, asking all honorable men to contrast with Mr. Donaldson's card in this week's paper, and reconcile one with the other, if they be able to do that.

A man without money is poor indeed; but a man with nothing but money to recommend him is poorer than Lazarus at the gate of Dives. It is true that the Democracy are about to advertise for sealed proposals for a Union General to run as a candidate for Governor somewhere? There doesn't appear to be much competition at present.

"Peggoty" need not worry about Democratic corruption money. More will stick to the pockets of the disburser than will get to the palms of the marketable citizens of Pennsylvania. The Beaver Radical irreverently speaks of Packer as the "Golden calf" of the Democracy.

Mr. L. A. Mackey who was a candidate for Congress in this District last fall, has accepted the position of member of the Democratic State Committee for this Senatorial District. We presume that he will not, hereafter, as he did last fall, deny his affiliation with the Democracy, and beg studiously for Republican votes. Mr. Mackey is a natural crook Democrat.

A QUESTION ANSWERED. A cotemporary asks if we regard wealth a bar to civil preferment. No, sir. As to riches—we have no prejudices whatever. To us, a man is a man without regard to his acres, his bank and railway stock, his coal and iron mines, and his bank account.

Every enlightened monarch on earth is yielding to the progress of republican principles, but the Democratic party in Pennsylvania adhere to the dogmas of the old monarchs, even after the election of the Federates abandon them in disgust.

tion, relatively, as well as positively. Take the city of New York, where the few control the money market, and behold the official record which prevails. In all the world there is not another municipality where villainy thrives so openly. The poor are very poor, and the rich very rich.

So we hold that these vast accumulations of property in the hands of a few are dangerous, and not to be encouraged. Wealth is power. On every hand the Democratic presses are crying out against "centralization," which means that the Federal Government has too much power. But so far from denouncing the centralization of power in individuals, these Democratic journals had the selection of a candidate for State Executive who numbers his billions by millions. The full income tax policy of this course can be seen when you note that the Federal Government yields its powers by consent of the whole people, while Asa Packer flounders in millions under absolute control of one man.

Aside from his immense possessions there is nothing in the life of Asa Packer to begot for him public confidence. He has, up to this date, proved himself able to accumulate money, and nothing further as a public man. He was sent to Congress because he was rich, as every Democratic leader knew and acknowledged then. In that body he was the merest cipher, having no talent for legislative business, even. And now, when wealth ranks higher than qualities of intellect, he is seized up and placed in nomination for Governor. We repeat it—had this man been in moderate circumstances, he never would have been named in a Democratic Convention. And this fact, and not his millions, accounts for our hostility in so much. The facts of his affiliation with his party during the war, and his thorough sympathy with its destructive policy to-day, are with us still greater objections. A man with so much money might have been a very pillar of strength to the nation in the day of its stern trial. He did not choose to so apply his wealth, as we learn from competent authority.

How different from some men of millions. There was WILLIAM B. DOUGLASS, of New York, who saved the nation tens of thousands by using his private fortune to purchase hospital furniture when the treasury was empty, turning it over to the War Department at the cost. We mention this instance because it is a personal cognate of the fact; but there are many similar cases of patriotic devotion, in which the millionaire rose superior to his cash and bloomed a patriot. The Dodges, Stewarts, Vanderbilts, Coopers, and Astors were not too many after all. We did not hear of Asa Packer in those days—at least, his name did not appear among those just named.

Neither poverty nor riches need be crimes. And neither constitute any man either fit or safe for the custody of Executive power at the hands of the people. "Owing whatever I possess (under the providence of God) to honest and patient toil," says Asa Packer in his letter of acceptance. Mr. Packer owes his vast wealth to "the honest and patient toil" of other men, not of his own; no man ever made a tenth of a million, by "patient and honest toil," or by labor of any sort. He is a railway or banker. Why not own it up, unless he regards that as a seamy business.

The Democracy of Ohio having nominated Gen. Rosecrans for Governor of that State, the General respectfully declines the honor. Prior to the late lamented Democratic Convention which nominated Packer and Pershing, a Democratic politician addressed a letter to Gen. Hancock asking him if he would accept the nomination. The General respectfully declined the honor. But then, there was Gen. McCandless who did not decline, probably because he saw by the ballot that he was not wanted. We can see why no Union General ought to consent to lead a Democratic column for the next half century. So they all decline the honor!

Stenter, Conservative Republican, beats Stoker, for Governor of Tennessee, by not less than 40,000, probably. The election seems to have been a badly mixed one, but it was in Virginia. The points at issue appear to have been—The Stokes party were in favor of disfranchising rebels, and the Stenter party were opposed to that policy. Parson Brownlow was for Stenter, and says that a Republican U. S. Senator will be elected. At all events, an unrepentant rebel is no good in Tennessee as a true-blue Union man. Let the Democrats get out their guns and burn some powder. The main, central idea of the creed of that party is, that a traitor is better than a loyal man.

"Down with the monopoly and monopolists!" was one of the old war-cries of the Democratic party. But now, before the people of Pennsylvania with Asa Packer, as his candidate for Governor; Asa Packer, whose wealth was the growth of monopoly; Asa Packer, who is one of the chiefs of monopoly! Take away the monopoly enjoyed by Mr. Packer and his millions would mostly vanish away.

And they declare that the Democratic party never changes; that Democratic principles are immutable! A. F. YOST, Esq., has commenced the publication of the Unkhamock Republican, the first No. of which we have received. Mr. Yost has the talent to furnish a first-rate paper, and his first number is all of that. Now, the Republicans of Wyoming county must not assume that the paper will "go on well enough" without their aid. It will require active co-operation on their part to make Mr. Yost's enterprise a success. Let us see if they can do anything to build up that paper.

Walker, elected Governor of Virginia, is a Republican, and was pledged to impartial suffrage. The new constitution, adopted by an overwhelming majority, provides that no man shall be deprived of the ballot on account of race, color or condition. The Democrats voted for Walker and negro suffrage. Senter, just elected Governor of Tennessee, has been adding Governor of that State since Brownlow resigned. He is a Republican, fully pledged to impartial suffrage, and has always professed to be a firm supporter of Gen. Grant.

In the Alabama election four Radical Republicans and two Democrats were elected to Congress. Kentucky has chosen a Democratic State Treasurer and Democratic Legislature, the former by 40,000 majority. Dissolution. THE FIRM of De Lano & Co., is this day dissolved. The partnership business will be settled by L. Baecher. M. M. De LANO, L. BAECHER. Wellsboro, Aug. 16, 1890.
