Speaking of Gen. Logan, he says: There are men who are soldiers by inspiration. Logan is one, Geary, too, was a civilian general, and won fame and reputation upon field after fieldupon the bloody crest of Lookout Mountain, upon the rugged cliffs of Mill Creek—through every battle that many a trained West Point veteran should feel proud of. In the last battle, before Atlanta was surrendered, "the first of Hood's desperate assaults, for which he paid dearly," Geary took a prominent and active part.

When at the close of Sherman's matchless" march to the sea," he had invested Savannah, he intimated to his commanders that the first of them to enter the city should be made its mili-tally governor. Hardee was summoned to surrender the city, but the braggart answered that he had plenty of sup-plies and men, and could hold out as long as he chose. Only three nights after he had sneaked away. Geary, always wide awake, suspecting the movement, ordered his division under arms and advanced his pickets. AUDITOR GENERAL'S OFFICE, HARRISHMA, Aug. 25, 1869,

HARRISHMA, Aug. 25, 1869,

H. C. Bailey—Dear Sir: Yours of the 23 inst. received, and in reply would state—that the indebtedness of John F. Donaldson, Prothonotary of your county, to the Commonwealth of Penn'a, up to November 30, 1868, is $1024,12. His account for the year ending November 30, 1867, was placed in the hands of the Attorney General for collection on the 25th day of May, 1860, and on the 23th day of June, 1869, the paid on that account $930. After crediting him with said $4330, still leaves a balance due the Commonwealth of $1024,12 — not including what he has collected since December 1st, 1868, up to the present time. The law requires him to make quarteely reports and payments, which he has not done, I inclose you copy of the law. Mr. Donaldson's account has been placed in the Attorney General's hands, for collection, seven times, which certainly does not speak very well for him as an officer.

Respectfully Yours,

John A. Waggonen, LARRISDUDG. Aug. 25, 1869.
