THE COMING WOMAN.

BY MRS. M. A. KIDDER.

The coming woman!
When is she coming?
Where is the place of her birth?
Shall we know, when she comes,
By the fifes and the drums,
And the grand jubilee through the earth?

Or will she creep in,
(Like original sin,)
So quiet as not to alarm us?
And banish our fears,
And dry up our tears,
And otherwise solace and charm us?

Will she come in her might,
And "dare to do right,"
Protected by freedom's broad pinions?
Will she strike for her sex,
In questions that vex
And undermine Fashion's dominions?

She will, some one asserts,
Be a sampson of skirts,
Or a terrible female Goliah;
With a tongue like a sword,
(Though now, on our word,
This bodes not the change (?) we desire.)

The coming woman!
How is she coming?
We would know, who go forward to meet her
In wrath or in love,
To a hawk or a dove,
Shall we make our best bow when we greet her.

If her motto be "peace,"
"May her tribe then increase,"
And we'll leave out the fing and drumming;
But if noise rules the day,
With no action to weigh,
We'd prefer to dispense with her coming.

HOW THEY SLEEP OUT WEST.

A correspondent writes the following: I haven't dated this letter, because I dont know where I am. At daylight to morrow I am, to catch some of the finest salmon you ever saw. They will not bite at any other time of day. I am stopping at a little hotel about thirty by ten feet. The scarcest thing in this country is lumber, settlers having to pay so many dollars a foot for what they use, besides what they brought in their valises. The landlord is from Pennsylvania, and seems to be doing a thriving business. By dint of hard talking and liberal promises, I got a room to myself. It is just large enough for the bed and candle-box set on a chair, upon which I am writing this letter. It is in one end of the building, and separated from the next room by a bed quilt, which you must crawl under to come in or go out. But it is my room, and after the jolting I have had upon my Indian pony I expect to have a good night's—

Was ever a poor pilgrim in such a fix? Just as I had written "night's" above, and had sleep on the point of my pen, I heard a knocking on the floor outside the bed quilt. "Crawl under," said I. Enter the landlord's daughter, a buxom young lady, about seventeen years of age, I should judge. She opened her rosy red lips and spake as follows:

"Mister, dont take off your clothes to-night when you go to bed."

"Why?"

"Because I am going to sleep with you."

"Well, if you have no better reason than that—"

"Hush! Shet up! You told par that you would not sleep with a man."

"I had rather sleep with a wet dog."

"Well, I have given up my bed to a sick man. I have been hard at work all day, and have to work hard all day to-morrow, and I can't afford to set up all night. That bed is wide enough for us both. I shall stay on the back side, and if you don't stay on your side, you'd better, that's all."

As she said this she raised from her dress-pocket an infernal jack-knife, such as farmers use in trimming fruit trees, and then let it fall back with a clug. I comprehended the situation in half a moment, and I quoth as follows:

"Miss, your intentions may or may not be honorable. I am traveling entirely by myself. My natural protectors are miles and miles away beyond the boundless prairie, ignorant of the perils which may beset their idol. Thus far I have not been insulted by your sex. I am a man of a few words, but they are always emphatic. I will give you up a part of that bed, and that's all I will do. If you attempt, during the silent watches of the night, anything contrary to this firm determination, by St. Joseph, my patron saint, I will shoot you right through the midriff."

As I concluded, I laid a Slocum pistol upon the candle-box. A low chuckle outside the bed-quilt gave evidence that pate-familias had heard and approved the arrangements.

My antagonist laughed, and saying "Mister, I reckon we understand each other," bounced over to the back side of the bed. There she is now, pretending to be asleep. I can't finish this letter. I can't do anything.

A young man in Elgin, who was nearly dead in love, took four ounces of arsenic for the purpose of finishing his unhappy career. It is supposed he had not the Phantonic virtue of Joseph Andrews, and was inveigled from the path of virtue. While on his sick bed his adored reclented, and gathered about him and said: "Do you love me?" He answered, 'Alas! too well!' 'Taint so!' said the affectionate maiden, "taint so.' 'Will you marry me?' said the unhappy young man, brightening. 'You bet I will,' replied she, burying her face in his bosom; 'I will restore you to good society.' 'I'm better now,' said the suicide as he threw up the rest of the arsenic.

A curious scene was lately witnessed in Paris. A girl was observed on the street with a wooden leg under her arm, while a gentleman was calling to her from a window on the other side of the street, gesticulating fiercely and demanding her return. To the large crowd which the scence attracted, the girl made explanation that she was washerwoman to the gentleman, that he would not pay her, that she visited his lodgings to demand her money, and that on his refusal she had taken possession of his wooden leg purposing not to return it until she received her money.

THE RIGHT PERSUASION.—In terrible agony, a soldier lay dying in the hospital. A visitor asked him—'what Church are you of?' 'Of the Church of Christ,' he replied. 'I mean of what persuasion are you?' 'Persuasion!' said the dying man, as his eyes looked heaven ward, beaming with love to the Savior: 'I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate me from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus.'

A man in Davenport, Iowa, tried a new way of making his wife more agreeable. He took a paper of magnesia labelled, it "arsenic," mixed it in his wife's presence, and exclaiming, "My dear! I will trouble you no more," swallowed the compound. The lady, seeing the label, rushed for the doctor, and the gentleman was pumped out, notwithstanding his statement of the case and objections to the contrary.

A Yankee captain once sang out in a squall to a raw hand on board his craft: "Let go that jib there! Darn your skin, let go that jib!" "I aint touching it!" squalled out the simple down-Easter.

'I hope, my little daughter,' I said one morning, 'that you will be able to control your little temper to day.'—'Yes, mamma: and I hope you will be able to control your big temper.'

A naughty little boy, being told by his mother that God would not forgive him if he did a certain act, replied:—'Yes, he would—God likes to forgive little boys—this is what he is for.'

THE CHURCH UNION.

This paper has been recently enlarged to mammoth proportions. IT IS THE LARGEST RELIGIOUS PAPER IN THE WORLD. Is the leading organ of the Union Movement, and opposes ritualism, close communion, exclusiveness and church caste. It is the only paper that publishes Henry Ward Beecher's Sermons, which it does every week, just as they are delivered,—without qualification or correction by him. It advocates universal suffrage; a union of christians at the polls; and the rights of labor. It has the best Agricultural Department of any paper in the world; publishes stories for the family, and for the destruction of social evils. Its editorial management is impersonal; its writers and editors are from every branch of the church, and from every grade of society. It has been aptly termed the freest organ of thought in the world.

Such a paper, offering premiums of Sewing Machines, Dictionaries, Appleton's Cyclopedia, Pianos, Organs for Churches, etc, makes one of the best papers for canvassers in the world.

Every Congregation may obtain a Communion Service, an Organ, a Melodeon, a Bible, or a Life Insurance Policy for its Pastor, or almost any other needful thing, by a club of subscribers.
