ARRESTED ON SUSPICION. -On Friday of last week, a peddler was arrested near Cherry Flats, and lodged in our jail, on suspicion that to was concerned in the murder of Dr. Meade, who was brutally assassinated at Alleghany, N.Y., last month. A large reward had been offered, and this pogr peddler (who, on the coming hither of parties from the scene of the murder, was delared not to be the man) was thought for a time to be worth to his captors about $2000. Their disappointment must have been great, when all their hopes were guddenly dashed to the ground, on finding that he was not the man-but simply a peddler with a small pack, who had trudged many a mile without selling anything, and paid his bills in cash-circumstances which with some others, cast suspicion upon him. For a day or two, this incident was the subject uppermost at he hotèls.

ELMIRA WEEKLY ADVERTISER .-The name of this paper is as familiar to us as the name of a member of our own household-hav: ing worked upon it years age, when it was struggling for existance as an independent paper .--The old Elmira Republican roon thereafter went over to the Know-Nothing party, and the Adpertiser steps into the harness as the Republican county organ. From that time to the present, it has been a straight-forward, outspoken political paper-continually growing in size and in the favor of the people. We were greatly surprised the other day in finding a copy on our table, equaling in size the N. Y. Tribune, and in an entire new dross. We examined it through and through, advertisements and all-and to do justice to our own taste, we must admit, that it is decidedly; neat, tastily arranged, and is a credit tent to every Post office; and we earnostly re. to the proudetity of Elmira. It contains a vast quest all who favor this change, to call at their amount of reading matter, gives the late telegraphic reports, foreign, home, religious and miscellaneous news, and it must cortainly find its way to the households of the masses. Such enterprise as is exhibited by Messrs. Fairman & Thurston, the energetic proprietors of the establishment, must meet with abundant success .-Terms only $2 per year. A copy can be seen ing of the 18th, inst., for the purpose of raising at this office. Let the people give it a hearty response, that it may "go on its way rejoiceing."

> WHISKY TRIUMPHANT.—THE LAST Donge.-An old toper, whose name we will leave, out of the question, was one day fout of sorts, out of work, and out of cash. He was dry, and yet unable to buy a single glass of grog. After a night's debauch, he sallied forth into the street, determined in some way or other to get a glass of rum. He first sought his old places, and tried in vain to procure a drink where he had spentall his money. To get trusted, he could not, for his credit was good for nothing, and he was therefore turned away as dry as when he entered. Happy would it have been for him, had he been turned away years before! But no, he was most welcome, so long as he could bring even three cents at a time. But now with him bis palmy days are passed, and be finds himself clear down at the foot of the hill. But still a drink he must have. So after meeting with many rebuffs among his once old friends, he goes forth into the street, trudges along with his head down, considering more resolutely what to do. A thought struck him. He calls at a house, knocks, and is ad mitted. After squatting down into a chair, he says: "Good lady could you give me something for the tooth-ache, as I am almost crazy?" The good woman was much affected by his apparent uffering, and asked him what he would have?-He replied if he had a little rum to put in his mouth, it would certainly stop the pain. The rum bottle which contained a little for medical purposes was produced. His mouth was filled, the head thrown a little back to carry it to the exact place. But strange to say, the first mouth ful almost immediately slipped down his throat. He expressed considerable regret, but felt the absolute necessity of trying another. And yet that soon shared the same fate. And so another, and another, until he declared he would try a hundred times but that he would succeed in holding it in his mouth. -Thus you have the story of the old toper, tho, years ago was perhaps a man of mind, and influence, loved by his family, and highly respected by his neighbors. But where is he to-day?uson, from which it appears that 1017 lbs We answer: Just where thousands upon thousands of others are, who have traveled that same road. Dr. CLARK bases his practice upon the incontrovertible law of Nature. First—That every cause has an effect. Dr. Clark's method of diagnosing or explaining diseases and their symptoms is only the process of reascases and their symptoms is only the process of reas oning from cause to effect, and has been acquired by horough literary and medical culture, and also by a dimost unlimited practice in every form of disease which the human system is liable.
