MILE FOR BUTTER IN WINTER. Dairy maids should remember that milk, in order to throw up cream, must have a certain temperature. Where a thermometer is the index, about eeventy degrees will be found the most desirable temperature for cream to rise in cold weather. It will not do to put milk in the cellar at this season of the year, because it is most likely filled with vegotables and fruit. No good butter can be made when milk is exposed to the effluvia arising from vegetables. When new milk has been strained, place the pans or, if you please, the tin pail, on the stove and warm the milk. The cream will soon rise; and the cream

will keep sweet. Tri order to sour cream sufficiently for churning, it often becomes necessary to add a little of the buttermilk from the former churning. Remember that the temperature of cream at the time of the churning should be about sixty-two degrees. Thermometers are so cheap in these days, that every dairy maid should have one. A dairy thermometer, sufficiently accurate for the purpose, may be obtained for about seventy-five cents. If your churning will "not come!

readily, it often helps the cream to add a little common salt-about one-half the quantity required for the amount of butter produced from the cream in the churn .- Rural World. KEEPING FOWLS IN WINTER.-Breeders should understand that nothing is gained by letting fowls shift for themselves in the winter. They need the best of care, and will pay tenfold in the end for the trouble. Let regularity be observed in feeding, and above all things do not fall to supply them regularly with good pure water. Do hot trust to their getting their supply of water from the snow-you might as well debar cattle the use of water, because there is plenty of snow upon the ground as fowls. Keep henneries warm and dry, and supply them with sand, burnt oyster, and clam shells, and coal ashes. Feed fowls with good wholesome food-corn, oats, wheat screenings and buckwheat. Give them meat once a week, and they will "shell out" early in mid-winter and pay the trouble. Recollect, nothing is made by a "makeshift" care of fowls in cold weatherit's poor economy.—Rural New Yorker.

A FABMER who wished to invest the accumulation of his industry in the United States securities, went to a broker's office to obtain treasury notes, The clerk inquired: "What denomination will you have them in sir?" Having never heard that word used excepting to distinguish religious sects, the farmer, after a little hesitation, replied: "Well, you may give me part in the Old-School Presbyterian, to please the old lady, but give me the heft on't in Free-Will Baptists."

TO PREVENT FEATHERS WORKING THROUGH TICKS.—A lady in western New York writes:

"Empty the feathers fron your tick, turn it wrong side out, and lay it on a table: Then, with a piece of beeswax. slightly warmed, rub the tick thorough ly, giving the entire surface a light coat of the waxe I do not think you will be troubled after that."

Not free only but brave and irreverent to a degree which I think no republican could by any philosophy exalt himself to.-There is no courtesy in him; he, does not care whether it is king or clown whom he teases; and in every step of his swift mechanical march, and in every pause of his resolute aberration, there is one and the same expression of perfect independence and self confidence and conviction of the world's having been made for flies. Strike at him with your hand; and to him the immediate fact and external aspect of the matter is what to you it would be if any acre of red clay ten feet thick, twisted itself up from the ground in one massive field, hovered over you for a second, and came crashing down with an aim. This is the external aspect of it; the inner aspect to his dy mind is of a quite natural and unimportant occurrence—one of the momentary conditions of his active life. He steps out of the way of your hand and alights on the back of it. You can not terrify him, nor govern him, nor persuade him nor convince him. He has his own positive opinion on all matters; not an unwise one, usually, for his own ends, and will ask no advice of yours. He has no work to do, no tyrannical instinct to obey. The earth-worm has his diggings, the bee her gathering and building, the spider her cunning network, and the ant her treasury and accounts;
