Dr. Franklin's Letter on "Paine's Age of Reason.". The following letter of Benj. Frank lin, written to Thomas Paine, after perusal of the "Age of Reason," which had been sent to him for his recommendation, will be new to many young readers; and it may be studied with advantage by every person in the land: Dear Sir: I have read your manuscript with some attention. By the argument it confains against a particular Providence, you strike at the foundation of all religion. For, without the belief of a Providence that takes cognizance of guards and guides, and may favor particular persons, there is no motive to worship a Delty, to fear its displeasure, or to pray for its protection .-I will not enter into any discussion of your principles; though you seem to desire it. At present I shall only give you my opinion; and though your reasonings are subtle, and may prevail with some readers, you will not succeed so as to change the general sentiments of mankind on that subject; and the consequence of printing this piece, will be a great deal of odium drawn upon BUT AT DISCRETION! yourself, mischief to you, and no benefit to others. He that spits against the wind spits in his own face. But were you to succeed, do you imagine any good will be done by it? You yourself may find it easy to lead a virtuous life the advantage of virtue and the disadvantages of vice, possessing a strength. of resolution sufficient to enable you to resist common temptations. But think how great a portion of mankind consists of ignorant men and women, and of inexperienced, inconsiderate youth of both sexes, who have need of tire motive of religion to restrain them from vice, support-their virtue, and retain them in the practice of it till it becomes habitual, which is the great point of its ed to her originally, that is your religious education, for the habits of virtue upon which you now justly value yourself. You might easily display your excellent talents of reasoning upon a less hazardous subject, and thereby obtain a rank with our most distinguished authors. For among usit is not necessary, as among the Hottentots, that a youth to be raised into the company of men, should prove his manhood by beating against you, and perhaps a good deal of regret and repentance. If men are so wicked with religion, what would they be without it? I intend this letter itself as a proof of my friendship, and therefore add no professions to it, but subscribe simply, Yours, B. FRANKLIN.

EXTEMPORANEOUS PREACHING.-In one of the lower counties of Maryland there flourished, in the palmy days of the "peculiar institution," an old darky preacher, who used no notes, and prided himself on his extemporaneous efforts. His white brethren called him "Doctor"-a title which he accepted, o course, with ludicrous gravity. At a camp-meeting which the "Doctor" Wilson & Van Valkenburg's was holding, one of these friends gave him, as a text, this passage in the Psalms of David: "Wake, psaltery and harp; I myself will arise right early." The "Doctor" adjusted his spectacles, and read: "Wake, peasle-tree and harp; I my self will arouse right airly." The "Doctor" went on to explain that Moses was a very early riser; that he had a peasle-tree which grew near his window; and that he was wont to rise mighty airly and hang out his harp on depensie-tree, wid psalms.—EDITOR's DRAWER, in Harpers' Magaline for
