Local Items.
WEDNESDAY, MAY 25, 1870.

Fix Up.—Some of the sidewalks in this borough need attention. Do fix up.
New Paper.—The Bee is the name of a new penny paper, published in Philadelphia. It is independent in politics.

Circus.—The New York Circus is coming. It exhibits in this village on Friday, 27th inst. See advertisement.
Begun in Earnest.—The work on the Wellsboro and Lawrenceville railroad was begun on the 16th instant in earnest. A large number of men are at work.

News.—We will be greatly obliged to any of our patrons for news of local importance. We like to hear from every part of the county. Please bear in mind, friends, and write.
Select Schools.—Mrs. Hart, Miss Alice Archer and Miss Jenny Danks are teaching select schools in this village. The schools are well attended.

Nice Specimens.—Mr. C. J. Wheeler, carriage maker, on Crafts street, has on hand several nice buggies and carriages. He is a first class workman, and is doing a thriving business. Stepping in the other day, we thought some of his buggies as fine specimens as we had ever seen. The painting is very neatly done, indeed.

Local History.—We see by the Bradford Reporter, that a society has been formed in that county, called "The Historical Society of Bradford County." The object is the elucidation of the history of the State. A large number of influential gentlemen and ladies of that county were present at the organization, and the undertaking gives promise of success.

Accident.—A son of A. J. Knowlton, of Richmond, was injured by the cars last week. By some mistake he fell on the rail, and had his arm run over. He is, about eight years old.

Late.—We have learned that the boy has since died. This should be a warning to all, to keep away from the cars. He was standing beside the train while it was passing at full speed, and reaching out to touch the cars, fell with his arms under the wheels. Keep away from the cars, boys.

The Cone House.—This house is enclosed, and the inside work is moving along to completion. There are two ministers engaged upon the building, and we understand in anticipation have been sent to the rest of the clergy to "turn in" and do likewise. We can boast of enterprising ministers, who can work and preach, build houses for the people, and teach them how to work for their souls.

Subscriptions.—The annual exercises of the State Normal School, at Mansfield, has become a five yearly period in our local history, in which we hope and believe our people will never cease to take an interest. We need not urge our readers to hear in mind the exercises. Everybody will go, and the only trouble will be to find room for them.

Outrage.—A Knoxville correspondent has an account of a most cruel outrage committed in that place. In a single night, some person cut four of O. H. Wood's blooded colts in the mouth, so that they came near bleeding to death. No doubt the intention was to kill them. Such an offense deserves the most severe punishment.

The day before, one of Isaac Sutton's horses was poisoned. That part of the county seems to be infested with lawless characters; and it would seem that it is high time some means were taken to put a stop to their outrages, and most certainly punishment to the perpetrators. The man would be a heartless man, who can inflict such cruelty upon a helpless horse. No wonder he sought his opportunity under cover of night.

Troy.—This flourishing town has more than recovered from the effects of her great fire. A few enterprising men can do much for a town, with a country about, which can be made tributary. Many of our readers do their trading there; and we are satisfied that the letters of our correspondents will be read with interest. They have a graded school there, which is equivalent to a first class academy. Nothing does more for a town than a good school. They have a course of lectures there the coming season.

Personal.—Mr. C. L. Ward, one of the ablest and most respected citizens of Towanda, Pa., died at that place on the 14th instant, of paralysis. The day after Mr. Ward was one of the most courteous and polished gentlemen of the time. He was rather a literary man than a politician; was at one time connected with the Harrisburg Patriot, and wrote ably and vigorously. He had collected one of the finest libraries to be found in the home of a private citizen anywhere.

ACCEPTABLE.—Webb & Hastings's son, these summertime days, and the ice cream at Sevier's.
PROGRESS.—O. B. Lowell (of God bless) their tannery at Niles Valley now fully in operation. They have built quite a number of tenement houses, besides all the other buildings usually appertaining to tanneries; and the new locality is becoming a place of business. Every such establishment adds to the value of property round about.

SURPRISE PARTY.—James Locke, of this borough, was 80 years old on the 18th inst. His five married daughters, with their families, surprised him that day with a visit. His wife is 77. They have been married 57 years. Few indeed have such a long life.

SIXTEENTH AMENDMENT.—When are the ladies of Wellsboro going to call a meeting to show the men how to remove "The Old Grammar of the Bill?"

LIGHTNING.—Mr. Edward Wetmore's barn near the bridge at the upper end of the village was struck by lightning Thursday evening about 9 o'clock. The lightning entered near the chimney, passed down one of the joists to the second floor, alighting in a room, and down the stove pipe, into the cellar. No one injured.

THE FARMERS HOTEL.—Persons attending Court will find this place a pleasant and comfortable stop; with good food for each man and beast.

S. NORMAL SCHOOL, MANSFIELD, Pa.—Examination of the 19th and 14th—Final examination of Senior class, on Wednesday, June 16, Sunday evening—Annual Sermon before the students.
June 21, Tuesday evening—Concert; vocal and instrumental music.
June 22d, Wednesday evening—Oration and Poem before the literary societies.
Orator—JOS. B. STRANG.
Poet—M. H. COBB, Esq.
June 23—Commencement.
Address before the Alumni in the evening.

OBITUARY.—Charles A. Pierce, a son of the late Stephen Pierce, deceased, died at his mother's house in this village, Thursday afternoon, the 19th instant, of consumption. He had been ailing for months.
He was yet young—quite young. We remember him only as a boy, but he had a manly bearing, and withal a cheerful disposition. He is said to have met his death cheerfully, having no dread of the future. To such a spirit, death is nothing.

WALL PAPER.—Read P. R. Williams & Co.'s advertisement of their mammoth stock of wall paper, of almost every quality, and in great variety. It is a list of the best keeping house, well as those who contemplate the undertaking, step in and look through this advertisement.

DRAMATIC.—An unusual last week, at the Dramatic Association, last Thursday and Friday evening.
Thursday evening, the play, The Lady of Lyons, by Dumas, was performed before a popular audience. The evening was very warm indeed for the time of the year. In the midst of the play, a thunder storm came upon which somewhat interfered with the enjoyment of the audience in the distance, but not at all with the acting. The night was black, and the sometime frequent and vivid flashes of lightning imparted grandeur to the scene. The shower was timely, for the air was oppressive.

To say that this play was well done, speaking of course, of a rural standpoint, would be to talk, express general opinion, and parts were very well represented. With a few exceptions (Mrs. T. B. Dryden) was received with applause, and makes a very natural elderly lady, on all occasions. She has a happy faculty of adapting herself to the character, without permitting herself to be seen through it. Pauline (Miss M. E. O'Neary) did herself great credit. She has a copious and musical voice, which is an indispensable requisite to success. She is graceful in attitude, and in person, and her natural grace and beauty are so admirably adapted to the character. Miss Perry appeared well as Madame Despreux. She is a most noble, and a most beautiful actress. She is a most noble, and a most beautiful actress. She is a most noble, and a most beautiful actress.

Friday evening, a full house listened to the popular drama, "Maggie's Diversion." Jeremy Crow, a Berneville farmer, well represented by James M. Bostell. Frequent applause greeted his ludicrous remarks. His singing and dancing, and every member of Jasper Pigeon, a village cooper, (Mr. L. F. Truman), was the admiration of all. He is well fitted to the part. He is Mr. Mag's particular diversion. She makes game of him, and coquetically lets him embrace on the sly, and when he is gone, she is seen to be laughing at her lover's expense. But when you know, it was only a matter of diversion, with her. When, at last, she consented to indulge his longing for the luxury, which he could no longer forego, it was more than mere coquetry, as such things happen in secret, leaving a most delightful memory. She gave them more freedom than the false modesty which might otherwise have prevailed, had they not been brother and sister, would permit. Mag did her part, as she has on previous occasions, to the entire satisfaction of all. All was done in a most judicious and tasteful manner, to make it a pleasant pastime.

MAIL STORM.—We are informed that a storm, which fell on Thursday, during which hail fell, some of which were more than an inch in diameter; the hail was so heavy that it was a "deluge of hail." Such a storm would not be a pleasant thing to be out in, bareheaded. One should be protected by the "iron pot" of the black knight, or the celebrated helmet of Mambrino, to be properly mailed for such a shower.
We wonder how many "knights" suffered any injury. It has been so long since we heard from him, that we think some accident must have befallen him.

PIRE.—On Thursday morning of last week, three buildings were consumed by fire in Lawrenceville. One belonged to Mr. Cropper, one to George Harris, and the other, we believe, to Mr. Henn. We have not learned definitely the amount of insurance, but it was much less than the loss.

Judge Wheeler and son were again burned out of their wagon shop. Loss about $500. The fire had exploded a few days before the fire occurred. These fires should warn people to look to their policies.

BRADFORD COUNTY.—Our graded school is flourishing finely, and has over two hundred scholars. Quite a commendable proceeding in our school, is the formation of literary and debating societies. One is composed of young ladies, and is called the "Clonians Society." The other, composed of young gentlemen, is called the "Lycium Band." The Clonians seem to be in a more prosperous condition than the Lycium Band, whose members would rather be engaged in balling than in debating. Both societies issue a small manuscript paper, sent monthly, for the benefit of the school. The Olio is the name of one, and the Bachelor's Journal the name of the other. The Clonians have the names of twenty-five members on their roll; and the officers for the present term are: Miss Ella C. Carter, President; Miss Kate S. Dyer, Vice President; Miss Kate Adams, Secretary; Miss Allie D. Wittler, Treasurer; Miss Kate Adams and Sarah E. Ballard, Editors. The Clonians society purpose giving an entertainment about the first of June. Every school of any size should have a society of some kind. May both societies prosper and multiply.

Our town, the past winter, has been devoid of intellectual amusements, notwithstanding a few concerts given here; but I understand a plan is on foot to have a course of lectures here in the fall. If not a series of lectures, we will have "Mark Twain," "Dick" Pomeroy, "S. M. Hewlett," "J. Asa Towner," of the Elmira Advertiser, and others. Winter before last, quite a successful course of lectures was carried on, and so on in consequence of the fire, which burned the hall.

It is surprising how rapidly anything will die, if started with a will. Two weeks ago, only a few of our stores had awnings put up; but now nearly every one in town has them, and more going up all the time.
Ground was broken before last, on Canton street, for the erection of a building by Dolos Rockwell, Esq., who is in need of more commodious quarters for the practice of law.
Messrs. Vandusen and others, are going to make further improvements in their large tannery this year, by putting in more vats.

Mr. S. W. Pomeroy intends building a very fine residence on Elmira street this summer, to cost about $25,000.
Judge H. W. Williams was in town Monday night, 16th instant, on his way south to attend court.

There is a good story told of an old farmer, who lived in the hills miles from this village. He had never seen the cars in all his life. One day it was necessary that he should take the train to go to Williamsport. He and his son were at the depot in full time, and were out on the platform waiting for the train to come along. Presently it came, and the old man, seeing and pulling, and seeing the unphilosophical conduct of the old farmer, as a huge and terrible monster, "seeing whom it might devour." Trembling in every limb, he clutched his son's arm, and gasped out, "John, John—let's go—home, I—I ain't going to ride in that—damned thing."
It was all his own legs—do get him on board and safely started on his journey.

LIBERTY.—For sometime past, I have had nothing to communicate to you, which would interest the readers of your column. So that will account for my seeming negligence. At present times, I would not say that the citizens of Liberty, and Jackson Township, Lycoming Co., are very much excited and exasperated over the discontinuance of the mail route from Liberty to Troy, which has been in successful operation for the past 60 years. The first intimation we had of the proposed change, was by the Postmaster received direct from the Postmaster General, at Washington City, stating that the discontinuance of the route, was done at the instance of a certain P. M. Not having a thousand miles from Liberty, he had no means of knowing the scheme was being concocted by that certain functionary and others, working for the interest of the stage route from Roaring Branch to Blossburg, we could have had a chance to head off their diabolical scheme. We have since the Liberty and Troy route has been discontinued, ascertained from the Postoffice department, who the main movers in the matter were, and the only solution of the underhanded scheme that we can arrive at, is as follows: The cutting of our stage mail route, from Troy to Liberty, was done for the purpose of drawing the travel from said route, on to the Roaring Branch & Blossburg stage route, thereby enriching the proprietor of said route. Their views, as it may be stated heretofore, of furnishing the route with mail, and of the fact that they were so much enjoyed, as the reason for their intention, was being concocted by that certain functionary and others, working for the interest of the stage route from Roaring Branch to Blossburg, we could have had a chance to head off their diabolical scheme.
