The law of this State permitting parties to be witnesses, was amended last winter as follows:

That in all actions or civil proceedings in any of the courts of this Commonwealth, brought by or against executors, administrators or guardians, or in actions where the assignor of the thing or contract in action may be dead, no interest or policy of law shall exclude any party to the record from testifying to matters occurring since the death of the person whose estate, through a logal esentative, is a party to the record.

Under the law of 1869, parties in interest were not permitted to be witnesses in any "áction by or against administrators, executors or guardians, nor where the assignor of the thing or contract in action may be dead," with certain exceptions. Of course the reason of these provisions is, that one party shall not be allowed to testify concerning matters also within the knowledge of the deceased. It is just as plain that are stil to proceed thither. How they this reason does not apply where the facts to be proved arise subsequently to the death of the party whose mouth is from St. Paul a rumor that the Fenians | thereby closed. The Fifteenth Amendment bill, regulating the right of exercising the elective franchise, and intenken up and discussed at length. Mr. Sherman proposed an amendment, providing heavy penalties for "repeating," illegal registration, and unlawful interference with election officers-designed to correct the notorious abuses in New York. The Senate remained in session till late at night.

In the House, it was the day fixed for consideration of business relating only to the District of Columbia.

May 21.—The Senate remained in session all night, the Republicans insisting on a final vote on the Amendment bill, and the Democrats "filibustering," to gain time, and if possible to prevent Senate bill was adopted, with several important amendments to prevent frands in elections.

The Printing Committee were directed to inquire into the expediency of continuing the publication of the proceedings of Congress in the Globe, the contract for which expires next March.

About fifty Republicans voted for suspending the rules, and about 80 against it. The Democrats voted in a body in the affirmative. The Consular and Diplomatic bill was again considered, and a long debate was had on the Paraguay. It was finally amended so as to include Uruguay, and the salary was raised to $11,000. The amendment to include an appropriation for a mis-

Perhaps nothing is more fruitful o pestilence and disease, than damp cellars and the noxious atmosphere superinduced by allowing decaying vegetables to go to waste in them. We subjoin reasons given by the Board of Health of the State of Massachusetts, against the practice of storing vegetables in cellars of occupied dwellings .-Certainly all reasonable precaution should be taken in a matter involving the health of families; and as the practice is so common, the subject is one of great importance. It would seem that cellars, properly ventilated, would not be likely to communicate the harmful exhalations to such an extent as to make it a matter of serious consideration. The report mentioned says:

Having been requested to give an opinion con-cerning the effect upon health, caused by storing vegetables in the cellars of occupied dwellings, we would reply—

1st. That while such vegetables are entirely ree from decay, the practice is probably harm-2d. It is perfectly certain that decaying vege-table matter gives rise, in a way which science has not yet fully explained, to exhalations which are poisonous; that it taints the air with which tre poisonous; that it taints the air with which it is in contact; that it seems to invite the attack of epidemics; that it diminishes the power of the body to resist disease of every kind; that it is especially favorable to the production of fevers.

3d. That the air of a cellar cannot be prevented from passing throughout the building under which it is placed.

which it is placed.

For these reasons, we are of opinion that the practice of storing the produce of the farm in cellars of dwelling houses, is always attended with danger, and ought to be given up, since the utmost care is required in the course of our long winters to prevent decomposition from taking

I have carrilly examined the formula by which your your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative lagredients.
Or. Sparks of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results. As a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy.
