NEW PAPER.—We have received the first number of the Painted Post Times, published by S. H. Fernbaugh. Success to the new enter-

SPIRITUALISM.—There was a lecture on Spiritualism Thursday evening at the Court House, by a gentleman who came to supply the place of Mrs. Stearns. Many were disappointed in not seeing her. The lecturer broadly asserted the human origin of the Scriptures and sought to prove by them the truth of Spiritualism, true or false, such declarations, grace, harshly upon the popular sense; and where no evidence is presented to substantiate the allegation it goes for nothing.

LECTURE.—Rev. N. L. Reynolds, of Bloomsburg, will deliver the first of a course of five lectures before the students of the State Normal School, at Mansfield, Friday evening Oct. 13, 1870. Subject—"How to Think."

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. J. S. Johnson, the only missionary for Tioga county, has been holding meetings at Cherry Flats the past week, and we learn some six persons have been hopelessly converted. His P. O. address is East Charleston.

"THE FACT."—To make money is to live; and to save it, all cash buyers should go to William Wilson's for dry goods, clothing &c. His stock is large, his prices low, and he has an excellent variety to select from. Go and see.

NEW BOOK.—Mr. William Dunham, agent for a book entitled "Our Sister Republic," A Girl's Trip Through Mexico! We commend him to those who want such a book.

GERMANTOWN SCHOOL.—The School of Wellboro has established a school in Germantown, Miss Mary Forsyth teacher. It will be under the supervision of Professor Winters, the same as the other departments of the graded school.

DEATH OF SOLOMON BENNETT.—Solomon Bennett of Elmira, down and highly regarded as a business man in this country, died suddenly in Elizabethtown, the 21st inst. He left his home at school, and was found in an insensible condition on the floor of his barn. He never recovered.

L. C. Bassett, of this place, is an octogenarian. The suddenness of his demise caused great commotion in Elmira, as it will in every community where he was known.

THEATRICAL.—Nellie O'Neill appeared at the opera house in this place, with her troupe, Friday and Saturday evenings of last week. There was a fair turnout, and the audience seemed well pleased with the entertainment. The rain prevented their exhibiting on Thursday evening. This troupe located at Bloomsburg for the winter, where they have built a substantial opera house.

LITTLE BITS.—A spiritual manifestation—the Democratic Jollification.

A very knowing darkey on the occasion of the Democratic celebration, said "It's an im- position to run up the d—d Republican flag." It evidently meant the Southern Democratic black-white.

INGRATE.—The two colored men who black-balled Armstrong, and followed the procession with melancholy faces, looking for something to fall from the table, but didn't see anything drop, must be converted to the belief that Democrats are ingrateful.

PERSONAL.—Mr. O. S. Webster, late farman of the Northern Tier, died at Elmira with his family.

—Joseph L. Williams paid a flying visit to his friends in this place last week. His health is much improved.

JAMES E. McCAY, Esq., was admitted to the Bar of this country on the 21st instant. He finished his course of study in the office of Messrs. Wilson & Niles, of this place. He read under the instruction of Mr. F. Elliott, Esq., in the first part of the course.

Mr. McCay first came to this county to pursue his studies at the State Normal School, of which he is a graduate. His native place is near Philadelphia. He expects to get a professorial chair at one of the universities, and is now in the second year of his course.

THE WEATHER.—On every hand we hear, "What a magnificent summer and autumn!" 100 men they have never seen anything like it—and old people should be gold authority in this matter. There have been but few days since winter time, when the wheeling was good. The green summer was more luxuriant than will be seen again in a lifetime, perhaps, and the autumn days so golden that the scene evoked a very strong sympathy for the beauty of the season. The leaves put on their gay colors, not mourning, but rather as the emblem of death as the parent of a most beautiful residence—the sun, beautiful moonlight and starlight, bright light, golden sunrise; days as fair as a day of Heaven in childhood! We almost shrink from the thought that all the beauty of the season will be followed by the dreary storm, the dark days, the dismal nights of the later season.

MAINSBURG.—On Tuesday morning, October 18, two hours, about two miles east of this place, belonging to Mr. Frank Parkhurst, was consumed by fire, together with about fifteen tons of hay, one buggy, five harnesses, and other property, amounting to $1200, all told. The fire was discovered at two o'clock in the morning, and appears to have originated upon the haymow. No one had been in the barn after dark the night before, and no cause of the fire known. No insurance.

CHATHAM.—I am informed that the citizens of east Chatham, near Rev. S. Butler's, are repairing their burying ground, forming it into a cemetery, and are raising funds for the erection of a church edifice in their midst, the coming year.

Within the past year, a number have been added to the church, and all seem willing to lend a helping hand in the improvement of their locality.

Recently, Mr. Alphonso Button crossed the river of death, leaving a large family and circle of relatives to mourn his loss. Also, Mrs. A. Davis departed this life, leaving a little family and numerous acquaintances to mourn their bereavement.

The morning for our ride to Brown township passed, however, with a sprinkling of rain; but taking necessary arrangements, we found ourselves safe and traveling nearly seventeen miles, along side Wilson creek, which we found impeded by fallen trees, and one of the names that I shall mention hereafter, the "Devil's Den," which we saw from highroad, lessened from those that had visited those places. It will not be wondered at, that everything that met our vision was of most interest to us. Even the path that led up the hill to the coal bed, was viewed with much attention. Passing down Baby's creek, the hills rear their peaks higher in the air, and after passing the mouth, which supplies into Pigott creek, we found ourselves surrounded by picturesque and grand old hills, which had stood the washing of Pine Creek since the creation. The hills of mountains, rising above and sloping down to a flat valley, the Pine Creek meandering through the valley, and traversing at the foot of the mountain on one side for a short distance, and then crossing the flats and running "against the mountain" on the other side. This change takes place a number of times, in traveling miles.

At the mouth of Cedar run, a high point on the right, with rocky towering high in the air, called Cedar Run, Chymney, attracted our particular attention. On the left, the dark foliage of the pine, dotted with the yellow and red leaves of other trees, presented a variegated scenery, not easily excelled. The scene filled us with admiration and awe; and as we thought of the Archangel who in His wisdom had created these worlds were lifted up, and we felt to exclaim, "All the glory is thine, Lord of Hosts!" As we followed the stream, the horizon that lay around us, and the rays of the glorious sun, which peered through the clouds, sending down upon us, filling the little valley with its cheery presence; this, we thought, was it with a darkened world, hemmed in by unbelief, until the Son of Righteousness illumined it with His divine and glorious beams, and brought forth praise and adoration. The following Sabbath morning dawned bright and beautiful, we found our way to a new church a short distance below. A sacred atmosphere seemed to pervade; while we were seated in this sanctuary and listening to the devout worshippers. We might say more, but our article has already exceeded our intentions.

Another correspondent says: "The Chatham Valley school, closed on Wednesday, the 10th instant, with a picnic in the afternoon and a meeting in the evening. Miss Gleason, the teacher, deserves credit for the perfect success of her school just started, and carries with her the best wishes of all in the district, favoring Unenan-

PROGRESS.—C. L. Willcox completed his brick store, erected on the site of Judge Wilmot's old law office, adjoining Hardings' store, of seventy days, and Mr. Wheeler is doing full blast thereon, in the grocery and provision business.

The brick work of Smith & Bowes' block is now complete. The building is three stories, and nearly as high as Mr. Jones' hotel. The two lower stories are twelve feet in the clear, and the third, sixteen feet. A half, forty by eighty feet, will be fitted up in the upper story, the attorney and law offices in the second, and three stories, nineteen by eighty feet, on the ground floor.

Mr. E. A. Lloyd, of New York, did the most of the brick work. He also put up Mr. Willcox's store. Mr. Lloyd is an experienced workman and takes hold of a job as if he knew how to put it through. The roof, which is to be put on, will be put up in the upper story, the attorney and law offices in the second, and three stories, nineteen by eighty feet, on the ground floor.

Dry Goods.—The undersigned has opened a Dry Goods and Yankee Notions & Clothing House, next door east of the Mulberry Street Market, Corning, N.Y., where he will be able to make himself useful to his old friends, and he hopes many new ones.

Wright & Bailey's block is up, and the roof will be put on, and rooms for law offices will be fitted up in the upper story, the attorney and law offices in the second, and three stories, nineteen by eighty feet, on the ground floor.
