tense interest throughout. Her telections were all in good taste, and all read in her best style..... Even "Maud Muller," which we have all read so often, and always liked so well, seemed as fresh and enchanting as the scene itself in nature.---

When shall we over have enough of Whittier ?--By and by he will go as the rest have gone, and we shall have no one like him left. She read a large number of selections, closing with "The Creeds of the Bells," and even now we seem to hear them ringing, when we look up, and across the wayiwe see the carpenters at work making all the clatter. For all this, they made pretty music while they rang, and it is not strange ome echoes still vibrate on the nir. There are different kinds of bells :

"Yet in those cars, till hearing dies, One set, slow bell will seem to toll The passing of the sweetest soul That ever looked with human eyes."

There was no difficulty in hearing Mrs. Randall. Every one was highly pleased. The hour flow away and seemed but a few moments, when she closed and the audience dispersed. The next lecture will be Friday evening, Dec 23, by Col. T. W. Higginson, Subject: "The STATE ROAD.-The Commissioners appointed by Act of Assembly to lay out and make State road from this place to the, Marsh creek road, advertise the job of making the road, to be lot in whole or part.

We have repeatedly expressed ourselves in fa ver of this enterprise, believing that it is one of great interest to our citizens and the people of the western part of the county. The foule is a subject of paramount importance in thying on all public roads. Our system, under which three men, very inadequately paid, are expected to lay out a road about as fast as two men can chain it is quite defective. The result is that many roads are very badly located, and a great amount of money and labor is wasted, by making them in places where the people will not pormit thom to remain, when it is found that better grade or ground can be obtained elsewhere.-Frequently, we see roads laid directly over high ever offered. and abrupt hills. Generally, this is done to conform to lines between farms, or to make some 'Four Corners." Frequently, also, it is found to be as far over a hill as it would be to pass around it at a much better grade The viewers this had practice once said to us, that "it is as far over a kettle bail, when standing uppas around it, when lying down." We hope the best route has been chosen in this mee. No variation should be made, certainly, to accommodate any private interest, at the expense of the public. The steepest grade on this route is said to be eight feet rise in one bundred, and very few and short places so steep as this. Brooks, Charleston, 152 " C. L. Millor, Delmar, 150 "

Petatoes :- Miram Brooks, 3 acro, 150 bushels. Wheat : J. M. Roe, 1 acre, winter wheat, 35 bu's. Cats: Hiram Brooks, 1 acre, 46 bushels & 24 lbs. These were all the entries of field crops made. The proof filed shows that there was no manure or fertilizer put on either of the first two pieces of corn.: Mr. Mitchell's was raised on the river bottom; and while it is a good crop, is not an excessively large yield. Probably the crop thro'- out the county will not average more than 100 bushels to the acre. The annual report of the Secretary for 1870 was read and adopted. It shows a balance of $90 28 in his hands. There are some premiums yet to be paid. Ou motion of Calvin Butler, the Secretary was directed to pay the balance of money in his hands to Samuel Dickinson, to apply on the indebted. ness of the Society to him. Hon. H. W. Williams, Hon. S. F. Wilson and John I. Mitchell were appointed a committee to confer with the officers of the Wellsboro Driving Park Association, and to procure a lease of the grounds in accordance with the original agreement between the two societies. One year's rent of the grounds ($50) is paid in advance. There is also due from the Association some $20 for rent received for the privilege of keeping a saloon on the grounds. The Society starts out with a good corps of defendant claimed was watered, so that it was officers. From our own experience in this busisome 45 below proof. The inmates seem well pleased with the treat. ment they receive, and most of them, if not all, express themselves much better satisfied with his method of providing for their necessities .--There are some fifty in all, young and old, and the number will probably be increased largely this winter.

We cannot do too much to make these unfortunates reasonably comfortable. This is indeed the only humane way to care for the poor; and at the same time it is also the most economical. We are glad to know that so many who originally opposed the system, are now its strongest advocates. To know that these people are so well eared for, should be more than an equivalent for the taxes we have to pay. The farm is improving each year. The crops have been large the present year, and Mr. Robinson seems to understand this part of his business as well as the other. We need a first class
