TIOGA COUNTY AGITATOR.

P. C. VAN GILDER, Editor and Proprietor.

Wellsborough, Pa.

Wednesday, January 4, 1871.

Gen. Pleasonton's appointment to the office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has been confirmed by the Senate.

The election of M. Dechert, to fill the vacancy in the first Senatorial district of this State, gives the Democrats a majority of one in the Senate.

NEW YEAR—NEW LOCATION.

With this number we commence the 18th volume of the Agitator, and to many subscribers the paper brings a "Happy New Year" for the eighteenth time. These seventeen years have been stormy and eventful; full of danger to the cause of freedom throughout the civilized world; a time of trial to the cause of self government; years in which we have had opportunity to test the friendship of nations, and learned that we can depend on ourselves. No more, no less. There is scarcely a government in Europe but would rejoice at our downfall, no matter how just our cause might be. During these years, the Agitator has been outspoken against oppression in every form, and fearless in its advocacy of freedom to all. Always Republican in principle, but recognizing the fact that men may differ widely in opinion, while aiming at the same ultimate good, we shall treat political opponents with courtesy; believing that a very great majority of the American people desire only the good of the nation, while seeking it through widely different channels. Believing also that, as the bitterness engendered by the civil war becomes softened by time, we shall, as a people, get nearer together in thought, action and national unity; for it is true that "The law of compensation, ever dealing in antiods, Turns our means, through crooked channels, unto even balanced ends."

With the commencement of the new year, Mr. Jno. I. Mitchell, who has for the last year ably and successfully conducted his department of the paper, retires from the concern, with our kindest regards, and best wishes for his future prosperity. This leaves the burdens and responsibilities entirely on our shoulders, as proprietor, publisher and editor. We purpose to conduct the paper according to the dictates of our best judgment, employing such force as the increased and increasing business may need; and we hope to make THE AGITATOR worthy of its past history; —better, if we can.

During the last five years the business of the office has more than doubled, and we have endeavored to keep up with the times, by adding new presses and material, until our working power is nearly trebled. If the paper grow in power as the establishment grows in size, we trust to make our mission one of usefulness, and also of great pleasure to ourself.

Mr. G. W. Sears—better known, perhaps, as "Bacchus"—who has become known as a ready and spicy writer, will assist us for a time in the editorial of the paper.

We issue this number of the paper from our

NEW LOCATION,

in Smith & Bowen's block.

The business of the Agitator has grown up with the growth of the county, slowly, but surely, until more commodious quarters became a business necessity, and we now find that we can occupy 40 by 55 feet of space pretty effectually. We run three job presses, and are better prepared to do all ordinary varieties of job work than any office in Northern Pennsylvania; while in fancy job printing, we claim to compete, in price and quality, with respectable city establishments.

The printing press is a necessity in every business community, and we shall keep up with the times.

We shall aim to make a live paper, also—for the fireside, the shop, the garden, and the farm. The agricultural column will receive especial attention, and seasonable articles on the garden will appear from the pen of one who has had years of experience in the matter, and knows whereof he writes.

FIRE AT CANTON, PA.

The Elmira Advertiser gives the following particulars of a destructive fire at Canton, on Saturday morning, the 24th ult:.

"It broke out about two o'clock, in the millinery store of Miss R. Thompson, and before it could be checked, burned nearly every business place on the south side of Towanda street. The following is a list of the losses, as ascertained by our correspondent, and will be found nearly accurate:

"J. A. Hooper, clothing; loss $7,000; insured for $3,000. Miss Thompson, milliner, loss $2,000; no insurance. Doty & Tuthill, dry goods and crockery, loss $15,000; insured for $5,000. J. B. Shakespeare, tailor, loss $300; no insurance. Strait, Clark & Co., bankers, loss small. Hickok, White & Co., dry goods, loss $12,000; insured $4,000. H. Tuttle, hotel, &c., loss $10,000; insured $2,500. J. Rinney, jeweler, damaged, loss $500; no insurance. Troll & Son, grocers, loss $500; no insurance. H. N. Williams, lawyer; N. Peterson, barber; and Dr. N. Smith, losses unknown. J. O. Scudder, dwelling, loss $2,000; no insurance.

The buildings destroyed were all wooden, and burned very rapidly; and as the village is without a fire engine, and not supplied with water sufficient to do much service in case of a large fire, the citizens were powerless to stop the ravages of the conflagration."

FIRE AT RICHMOND, VA.

On the night of the 24th ultimo, a most destructive and fatal fire originated at the Spotswood House, Richmond, Va., in which the housekeeper and several guests were burned to death; how many, is not known.

The fire originated in the wine room, adjoining the dining hall, and in twenty minutes from its breaking out, any escape by the stairways was impossible.

An incident of the fire was the appearance of a man at one of the upper windows, paralyzed by fear, who sat tearing paper into small pieces and throwing them out of the window, till he fell back into the flames.

Eight persons are known to have perished. Several reported missing have turned up safe; but there are several still missing, of whose safety there is little hope.

Among the remarkable escapes was that of Mr. C. Shaffer, who was in the fourth story, and escaped by dropping from window cornice to window cornice, until he reached the ground. He was badly burned, however.

The guests lost all their clothing, and the ladies had to walk barefoot through snow to places of shelter.

Besides the Spotswood hotel, several business houses were destroyed. The total loss is estimated at $300,000. The insurance is mostly by Northern companies.

The James river was frozen over on the morning of the 25th ult.

POLITICAL.

Commissioner Wilson refuses to resign on an official hint that his resignation will be accepted. He has been in the Land Office since 1859, understands the topics better than any other man, and says if the President wants him to quit, the regular course is open—Senator Wade complains that Secretary Boutwell has not given him a single instruction on this conduct. Says he was an earnest and honest rebel, and still thinks he was right; but has gone in and got through, after a fashion that convinces him the game is lost forever. It is a dead issue in the past, and he is ready to ask for amnesty, conform to the present state of affairs, and lend all the aid in his power to maintain the legitimate results of the war; earnestly desiring the unity and perpetuity of the entire nation. Thinks it ungenerous to abuse him because he will not turn his back on the brave men who followed the same banner with him. And his past acts and opinions furnish no reason why he should not fraternize with brave men who fought on the other side. Which is sound.

FRANCO-PRUSSIAN WAR NEWS.

There was hard fighting about Paris on the 21st ultimo, mainly to the east of the city. Admiral La Ronciere carried Bourget, to the north of the city, and took 100 prisoners, but was unable to hold the place. The Prussians say the French fire was active but inefficient. The garrison of St. Denis lost heavily.

On the 20th there was a severe engagement near Tours—6,000 French against 10,000 Prussians with 24 cannon. The French finally retreated after fighting seven hours, and the Prussians began to bombard the city, when the Mayor surrendered the town. The French have been driven from Saugre, with heavy loss of men, arms and baggage, but the Prussians have been checked in the direction of Nuilz. The Germans evacuated Tours, and the French report the capture of 2,000 prisoners as they left, and also that the army of the Loire is 300,000 strong, ready for offensive operations.

A battle was fought on the 23d, between Daours and Coutay, the French General claiming the victory, having driven the Germans at the point of the bayonet.

King William telegraphed to the Queen that Gen. Mantenffel on the 23d, near Amiens, won a victory, taking 1,000 prisoners.

Advices from Paris to the 19th say the city is in a better condition than could have been expected months ago. The inhabitants are paler and thinner than formerly. Some respectable looking people beg in the streets. Still there is no talk of surrender. The inhabitants will resist until the last. All grain food is gone. They are becoming exasperated. They no longer boast of the French. The past months have put an end to their delusions, and they have become more rational, serious, and at the same time more revengeful. Their outworks have been advanced.

Some officers who were exchanged confirm the statements made of the condition of Paris. They say that eatables of the best quality may be had at the restaurants. Perfect confidence is placed in Trochu, and the only persons suffering from a state of siege are the lower classes, who are unable to pay war prices. From their accounts Paris is able to hold out until the end of February. And what then?

The Shipping Gazette, which at first doubted, now admits the truth of the reports concerning the treatment of the British vessels in the Seine by the Prussians, and declares that the government must instantly demand an explanation and redress from Prussia.

The above alludes to the six vessels sunk as obstructions in the Seine by the Prussians.

In a recent article we spoke in such terms as we thought fitting of the insecurity of human life in Memphis.—Our article was based upon a letter written by a citizen of Memphis to a Western journal. "A gentleman residing in New York, but formerly a citizen of Memphis," being much moved in his serene mind by our remarks, sent them to the Memphis Appeal, with the comment that they "were diabolically false and malignant." The Appeal reproduced our article, but gave its correspondent rather cold comfort, for it said that though "the animus of our article was objectionable, and the article highly colored," the color "was not higher than the truth warranted;" and that it was useless "to attempt defense in the interest of the city against so many facts which are indefensible." This is what the Memphis newspaper has to say for Memphis:

"But when so much is true, we are driven, in common self respect and candor, rather to bow our heads in confession and shame, than to indulge the language of retaliation, or to attempt apology, justification, or defense. Alas! that we should be compelled to write these bitter words. But we believe the time has passed for defense, and has come for free confession, repentance and reformation."

So we were not so "diabolically false and malignant," after all. The Appeal calls upon Memphians to improve their character abroad, by mending their murderous manners. We say amen.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Fenian convicts have been discharged from Portland prison.

In no other country in the world are such large tracts of land owned by individual proprietors as in Australia. There are ranches on which, from a quarter to a half million of sheep find pasturage. One ranche there covers an expanse of one thousand eight hundred square miles, and there are dozens not much smaller. The largest proprietor is, perhaps, James Tyson, who, besides owning large tracts of country in New South Wales, has recently purchased a ranche on the Darling river, having a frontage of 180 miles and a depth of 60 miles.—N. Tribune.

MR. SUMNER AND THE PRESIDENT.

Concerning the "late unpleasantness" between Mr. Sumner and the President, the Washington correspondent of the Tribune says:

"Those Senators who decided, after the speech of Senator Sumner on the San Domingo resolutions, and the debate which followed it, to attempt to remove the Massachusetts Senator from the chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Relations, have nearly all come to the conclusion to abandon the project; first, because it is impracticable of accomplishment, and secondly, because they are satisfied that Mr. Sumner is the most suitable man in the Senate for the position. Many of the most radical administration Senators are satisfied, from words of Mr. Sumner that have been repeated to them, that he is not opposed to the general foreign policy of the President, and that he said much in the excitement of debate he did not intend to say, and which he regrets.

The Chicago Tribune, after quoting Mr. Sumner's attack upon Mr. Trumbull, during the last session of Congress, says: at once it can be seen that The Nation's criticism of to-day is in the footsteps of its public enemy or malfeasance, has been treading hard upon the heels of Mr. Sumner, and has swiftly overtaken him. 'The Senator,' he said to Mr. Trumbull, only last January, in the debate we refer to, 'will find in his speech much to regret.' It can hardly be otherwise than that now, when others assume toward Mr. Sumner a tone of denunciation and accusation, impugning his motives, misrepresenting his conduct, giving false construction to all his actions, he should remember that he now stands in the place where he had only so little while ago, placed another, and apply to himself, let us hope, with contrition, under these changed circumstances, the reflection that in that speech, on that occasion, it is he who should find much to regret. The spirit in which he assailed Mr. Trumbull is very similar to that of his assailants toward himself. As in reading Mr. Trumbull out of the party, he forgot or ignored the long services and honorable career of his brother Senator, so they, in performing the office for him, forget or ignore his own."

LOPEZ AND PARAGUAY.

Much misapprehension has existed among Americans as to the merits of the Paraguyan war and the Dictator, Lopez. Our former Minister to that country, Mr. Washburn, has written a book, which all who take an interest in that war will do well to read. Those who have had a notion that the war between Parnguay and the allies arrayed against her, was a war between Republicanism on the one hand and Imperialism on the other, may as well set themselves right by reading said book.

No African prince, whose word is death at a minute's caprice, is more of a despot than Lopez, or his immediate predecessor, Dr. Francia. Murder, and tortures that were worse than death, were common pastimes with both; and they were both unmitigated cowards. As to republicanism in Paraguay, the first principles of it were not even understood. The government was—Lopez. His word of mouth was government, law and doom. From it there was not a thought of appeal; and he used his tyrant power like the cowardly tyrant he was. In Brazil, there is at least a liberal, mild and stable government, and in Brazilian cities life and property are as well protected as in the United States.

Moreover, Brazil recognizes the laws of civilized nations, while Lopez was as utterly lawless as the petty king of a Fejee island.

To those who do not care to read Mr. Washburn's book, we commend the extracts from the advance sheets, published in the daily Tribune of Dec. 27.

The World speaks of "obsolete Protectionist heresies." They are the doctrines which now shape the policy of the Great Republic, youngest of mighty empires. They triumphed under the auspices of the youngest and most progressive national party which our country has known. They were among the first fruits of its ascendency in the national councils. They have withstood nine years' desperate hostility, and are still proudly, defiantly uppermost. And we cannot coax, nor shame, nor drive, nor kick their antagonists into presenting a bill which embodies their economic principles, and appealing thereon to the country as against the existing protective tariff.—Tribune.

The change of cars at Binghampton, heretofore required in a trip via the Erie railway from Elmira to Albany, will hereafter be obviated by the indomitable enterprise of the Erie managers, an arrangement having been perfected whereby sleeping coaches attached to express trains will be run thro', to and from Albany, without change, arriving there at 8:40 a. m., and returning at 5 p. m.

The Pall Mall Gazette (English) is anxious that the Americans should know that England is heartily tired of the Alabama controversy, and is ready to pay any impartial money award, if an adjustment can but be confined thereto.
