"Liberal" Interpretation of The Bible.

Disturbs its long, tranquil rest!

Some good stories have been told in illustrations of the absurdities to which the "liberal construction" of Scriptual passages generally leads, but we have tized. But this he claimed to be a fallacy, for the preposition into of the Sorlptures should be rendered differ ently as it does not mean INTO at all times. Moses, he said, we are told, went up into a high mountain, etc. Now we do not suppose that he went into the mountain, but upon it. So with going down into the water; id mean simply going down to or near the water and being baptized in the ordinary way, by sprinkling. due season and style closed his discourse, when an invitation was given to any one who felt so disposed to rise and express his thoughts. Quite a number of the brethren-rose and said that they were glad that they had been present on this occasion; that they had just heard, and felt their souls greatly blessed. Finally, a corpulent greatly blessed. Finally, a corpulent and we will try and convince you; that we no only have stranger to all, arose and broke a si-lence that was almost painful, as follows:

"Mr. Breacher, I ish so glad I yash here to night for I has had explained to my mint some things dat I never Con'id believe before. Oh I ish so glad dat into does not mean into at all, but shust close by or near; to, for now I can believe manish things vot I could no understand before. We reat, Mr. Breacher, dat Taniel vas cast INTO de ten of lions, and came out alive! Now, I never could understand dat, for de wilt beasts would eat him up right off; but now it ish very clear to my mint. He vash shust close py or near to, and did not get into de den at all. Oh, I we reat dat de Hebrew children vash cast into de firish furnace, and dat alwash look't like a peeg story, too, for I dinks dey would have been burnt up; but it ish all blain to my mint now, for dey were shust cast close by, or near to de firish furnace; Oh, I vas so glat I wash here to-night!" "And den, Mr. Breacher, it ish said dat Jonah vash cast into the whalesh pelley. Now I never could understand dat; put it ish all plain to my mint now; he vash not taken into de whalesh pelley at all, but shust shomp on his pack and rode ashore. O, I vash so glat I vash here to-night!"

"And now, Mister Breacher, if you will shust explain two more pashages of Scriptures, I shall be, O, so happy I vash here to-night! One of denr is vere it saish de wicked shall be cast into a lake dat burns mit fire and primstone alwaysh. O, Mister Breacher, shall I be cast into dat lake if I am vicked, or shust close by, or near enought to be comfortable? I hopes you vill say I 'shall be cast shust by, a good way off, and I will pe so glat I vash here tonight! De oder bassage is dat vich saish plessed are dey who obey these commandments, dat dey may have a right to de tree of life, and enter in through the into de city. O, tell me I shall gets into de city, and not close py or near to, shuat near enough to see vat I have lost, and I shall pe so glad I vash here to-night."

The Madison Democrat tells the following divorce story: "A well known citizen of this place married B, a divorced woman; B got a divorce from A; A then married C, who had also been divorced; C's daughter, D, then living with C, got a divorce; A's daughter's husband got a divorce and married D. All of which can be vouched for by more than one of our readers." The above muddles us a little; but we presume it is all correct—for Wisconsin.
