* EXCITING INCIDENT IN A BUFFALO HUNT.-The most innocent animal, when brought to bay, will fight. This is also true of the wicked appearing wise dangerous. On the first of December, 1870, two young that ber, 1870, two young, but experienced hunters, named respectively Fisher and Miller, came upon a herd of buffalo in the southern part of Nebraska.-They each selected an animal and fired, wounding both. One of the buffaloes, enraged by his wound, made a dash at Fisher, who unfortunately had fastened in his gun a shell from the cartridge, which rendered it useless. Miller jumped between his friend and the brute, and fired, but without mortal effect. The charging buffalo gave Miller a severe hurt, knocking him about ten feet, and tearing his coat with his horns from skirt to collar. Luckily for the young man, he came down erect upon his feet, but the enraged animal was him directly in the eye. Both buffaloes were secured and brought into the but that we are selling them clear down to the camp. - Omaha Rep. An Astonished "Injun."-Not long ago, out on the line of the Union Pa-{ cific Railroad, a noble "savage" of the Kickapoo persuasion was loafing around with an eye to possible scalps, when he perceived in the distance a locomotive coming down the track towards him at a 1:20 gait. This aborigine had never witnessed anything of the kind before, and in his simplicity imagined it to be a new description of buffalo. He accordingly made preparations for its capture, hoping to take the first prize at the approaching annual exhibition of the Kickapoo Agricultural Society. To make a sure thing. he fastened one end of his lasso around his body, and when the engine got near enough, tossed the noose over the smoke stack. The iron horse did not stop, however, but the engineer wit-

No more delightful travels are printed in the English language than appear perpetually in Harper's Magazine. They are read with equal interest and satisfaction by boys of every grade from eighteen to eighty. Its scientific papers, while sufficiently profound to demand the attention of the learned, are yet admirably aparted to the popular understanding, and designed as much to diffuse correct information concerning current scientific discovery as it could be if it was the organ of the "Society for the Diffusion of Useful knowledge." The great design of llarrer's is to give correct information and rational smusement to the great masses of the people.—New England Homestead.
