LLOYD BRITTON HUNG.

Lloyd Britton, convicted of murdering Jacob Bay in December last, was hung at Williamsport on the 22d inst. He asserted his innocence of the murder to the last. On the scaffold, when told if he had anything to say to step forward and say it, he came forward and said: "Gentlemen I am about to be hung. I did not kill Jake Bay. I cerned, cut off from the means of payhad nothing to kill Jake Bay for. That ing. is all I have to say."

The following is a supplement to the law authorizing the election of an Additional Law Judge in this judicial district. It has passed the House and is now before the Senate:

Doctor Gray, of Utica, was the principal witcases of insanity. Dr. Hovey, of Rochester, was another witness, and both these gentlemen testified unequivocally to the present insanity of the prisoner. It was understood that the decision was not to affect the question of sanity at the time of, or prior to, the homicides decided that she was insane. She goes, therefore, to the State asylum, for the present, and is in very little danger of hanging, ultimately. After a careful perusal of the testimony, we are inclined to think the verdict of the jury correct: the woman undoubtedly is insane. Whether she was so at the time she committed the double murder is
