Little feet, a pity kis Neater boots should not incerse you Shapely hands, the daintiest gloves Should be happy to embrace you;

But I know no art that could Make your eyes a diamond brighter, Make your lips a rose more red, Make your neck a snow-flake whiter. Straight and strong, with gliding gait (Clumsy boots, I hate you so!) Every morning passes she, Rain or shine, or wind or snow

One small hand a parcel clasps (Gloveless, happily for me); Tother lifts the shabby dress, Showing vaguely what might be Bo-she's gone the fainter click Of her boot heels leads me on; And I follow her in thought, And I wonder where she's gone.

That illumines Beacon street Could so lure me with its call. Could so make my pulses bent. Is she walking still, so swift? Still the neat brown parcel pressed Unresponsive (ab, to think!)
To the urgence of her breast? Or has she reached her goal,

And put off her rusty hat?

Nor the very bronzest kid

And the shapely hand, I wonder Has she gone to work with that? Simple shop-girl ! though your boots? Shabby be and coarse your dress, Toil your lot, and scant your joys, Rare kind word, and rare caress; Yet I see that in your eyes That outshines all outward show; That makes poverty content,

And that-makes me love you so !

Rudolph Beethoven Skitters was a cynical, cross grained, bald headed secoud fiddler in an orchestra, and was ANDREW FOLEY, old enough to know better. He had thought the matter carefully over you observe, and had concluded that all men are liars, swindlers, knaves, politicians, thieves, preachers, or some other species of infernal rascals. Therefore he hated mankind with a doubleconcentrated intensity, only approached by his innate love for gin. This was what ailed Rudolph Beethoven. John Henry and Henrietta Jane met. He closed his right eye, and winked with the one that was left. She closed threadbare under the arms, and she button holes were stretched out. The speakable agony, and things generally were getting thick, when the old man dropped in on the situation. Some Facts About the Manufacture

Piano Fortes in Jamestown. A good plano forte is an orchestra in itself; a wonderful world of sound, givfrom the majesty and grandeur of the basses to the delicacy and airy grace of the trebles. A bad plane is, on the contrary, "quite the reverse," as many deluded purchasers of worthless instruments with showy cases can testify. What makes the difference in the dwellers within the Great Wall, thro quality and cost of pianes is not gene. the centuries that intervened before the rally understood. There died yesterday, in this city, a remarkable woman. Her name was Jenet Maria Lafoux, a creole of singular beauty and fascination. She was educated in France, and possessed all of the elegance and courtliness of manners, the piquancy & ensouciance which, distinguish the ladies of that country. It must have been, however, that some evil dreg was in her nature, for she, soon after returning to her home, abandoned the innocence and elegance of her home for the vicious life of a cyprian. At the time of the federal occupation she was in the zenith of her beauty, and soon brought around her a coterie of admirers. So infatuated did a young lieutenant become of her, that he made her his wife, and returning North introduced her again to the socieety of which she could so easily become an ornament. But the wickedness of her nature, inherent or acquired, soon asserted its supremacy, and again she went back into the old path of viclousness and sin. The scandal she caused in a Northern city it is needless to repeat here. Suffice it to say, her husband, in despair, committed suicide, and infinite distress was brought upon his family.— She went to Washington, and was nolegislature. But after awhile she disappeared from the capital and returned to her home. Here her old life was resumed, and a career of brilliant dissi-

Mansfield, Tioge Co., Pa., April, '71.}

On the morning of Monday, April 24th, the new edifice of this parish was consecrated to the service of Almighty God, by Rt. Rev. Dr. Stevens Bishop of Pennsylvania; and the holy Communion was administered. Beside the Rector, Rev. N. Barrows, there were present of the Clergy the Rev. Messrs, Hunter, Cullen and Hartley. The day was very fine, and the building was rowned a number coming from neighboring towns. The Bishop presched an able discovers from Pasius xx. :5. able discovrse from Psalms xx.:5. "In the name of our God we will set up our banners."

The Bishop, in the course of the sermon, which we will not attempt to report; stated that we to-day here unfurled our hanner, displayed because of the truth; which bore the inscription "Christ and the Church, Evangelic Truth, and Apostolic Order;" Christ and the Church—not the Church—not Orlist without the Church—not the Church without Christ; not the Head without the Body, not the Body without the Mead: one shove the other, it is true, but both together, a complete whole. He elaborated these ideas, asserting the Divine organization of our Church, its spostolic-descent, the Scriptural authority of its three-fold ministry on the testimony of those, who, descent, the Scriptural authority of its threefold ministry on the testimony of those, who, yielding to the force of circumstances, as they thought, reluctantly and regretfully gave up its Apostolic origin;—and concluding with a very cloquent and fervid description of the growth of the Church since the American Revolution, when it was crushed to the dust; and with congratulation to the Rector, vestry, and congregation on the completion of the beautiful edifice.

It is not oriented, but in this descriptionly shall speak as if it were. The roof is equilateral, on the collar and hammer beam principle, and open to the top, displaying, with fine effect, the bold hammer beams, rafters, and erges heams, and the tracery with rafters, and cross beams, and the tracery with which the openings are filled. The buttresses, five on each side and two in the west front, are bold and break up the exterior into deep -ehad-ows. The tower is 43 feet high and surmounted with a pyramidal roof, crowned by a cross. The guble of the nave roof is surmounted by a wood cross—that of the chancel by a floriated cross.
There are three aisles, the centre one five feet wide. The side windows are double, incets; and there are in the west front two single lanin the apex a small circular window. The nave is separated from the chancel by a handsome moulded archway. The seats are movable and face to all. The entire interior is finished in ash oiled. The choir of the chancel is three steps above the nave (the front step being rather a plutform seven feet wide) and is furnished with a lectern, standing just outside the arch, with the wall for a background to the voice), two sedilia and desks rich and elaborate, the latter presented by Mrs. M.
