In regard to renewing the bonds, it is true that he Treasurer gets a small commission on each renewal; but it is also true that the Commissioners, instead of renewing, have in most cases the option of continuing the bonds, which cuts off the I reasurer's per centage-and this they have done. As to outside pressure from agents and attorneys of the large landowners, we are free to say, and any demonstrate, that the present board have any any any strength of backbone which might be copies to adjuntage by some officeholders who work for the public at much better pay. And, in conclusion, we have only to suggest that the taxpayers of the county will, be forta-, nate if the higher and better paid offices in the gift of the people are always as ably and faith. fully filled as the Commissioners' office is at the present time; and further, that those who are lisposed to cavil and mistrust, shall take a look

CHEESE.-We are indebted to Mr. C. lose for a liberal specimen of cheese from the Round Top cheese factory. The article was of · best quality, and goes far to prove what we ve often assorted, i. e., that the superior quality our natural grasses enables the cheese and eatter makers of Tioga county to compete sucestully with any county in the United States .-is a known fact, that on our hills and in our lleys, the spontaneous and rapid growth of veras grass and white clover makes' the profit able "ulture of the strawberry almost impossible ; and as indicates clearly our resources as a dairying untry for we suppose every one knows that e superior flavor of butter and cheese-other ings being equal-is due to the prevalence and culence of these gasses.

We have many cheese factories in this county, doing well, but none, so far as we have seen, making a letter article than the "Round Top."

BURLINGTON.

A DAY IN THE WOODS .- On Thursday last, the wedding anniversary of one of the typos of this office, a small party repaired to the roods to celebrate the day, and find a little rest from the excitment of the political world. The day was lovely, and everything bid fair for a pleasant time. We encamped on the bank of Marsh Creek, a place frequently visited by parties to enjoy fishing, hunting, romantic pleasures, and the pure air of the forest. In due time the Indies prepared a sumptuous dinner for the weary. hungry, and tired party, including the "phunny fellar." No politics there, said we, as this is a day of recreation. These words were hardly utered, when an old crow passing above us screamthered, when an old orow passing above us screamed out-"caw-ous, caw-ous." We rushed for the gun, that we might put an end to this political bird, as he sailed on into the distance, repeating his miserable cry. When this excitement abated, we again took our place at the table to finish our disturbed ment. No sconer had we resumed our seat, than a miserable specimen of the feathery tribe, with a large water-fall on the back of his head, perched himsolf on a limb above us and begun to exult lustily in singing out-

us, and began to exult lustily in singing out-President Judge, President-Judge, President-Judge." He was soon frightened away, when, hought wo, it is possible our head is so crazed hat the music of the birds sounds like politic in our ears. We listened intently for a time, nd the masic of all the different birds seemed to ing out distinctly the different offices to which so many candidates are aspiring. Satisfied the "way of the transgressor is hard," and that everything secured to add to the care worn mind of a business man's life, we concluded to roturn home, and not again enter the woods during the political season, or until each successful candidate guts properly installed in his respective office. The party enjoyed the woods much better than drsell, as the extreme beat and a delicate constiution made us anything but comfortable.
