Is Coal All Alike?

We have heard many persons say, "I don't think there is any difference in coal, it's all alike."

All coal is not alike. Just because it looks alike is no evidence that it is all alike.

We have a list in our office of more than 300 coal mines and collieries in Pennsylvania producing coal of varying degrees of hardness.

The coal from some mines is very inferior in quality while that from others is excellent.

Anthracite mines produce Soft Coal, Medium Coal, Hard Coal, Extremely Hard Coal, etc. All these kind give different results.

We have made a careful study of the coal business and know which kind is best.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS GERM

Dr. Simon Flexner Isolates It and Sees It Under a Powerful Lens

Baltimore, Oct. 9.—An important new report by Dr. Simon Flexner, head of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, on infantile paralysis was the feature on the closing day of the Johns Hopkins silver jubilee celebration.

Dr. Flexner's addition to what he has already said publicly about his work on infantile paralysis was the statement that he had definitely succeeded in transmitting the disease to monkeys with the microorganism which he had previously said he thought was the cause of the disease.

The fact that he had at last succeeded in transmitting the disease by means of this microorganism which he had cultivated beyond doubt that he had isolated the germ.

Dr. Flexner also said that he had found it possible to see the cell clearly under a microscope of high power. Formerly this had been considered impossible. It is at least five times smaller than any other known bacteria, said Dr. Flexner.

The doctor said he believed that the disease was transmitted through the respiratory channels rather than by insects, as some have held, and he advanced the theory that perfectly healthy persons often carried the germ in their bodies and infected children; that there were "carriers" of infantile paralysis, just as it is known that there are "carriers" of typhoid and diphtheria, who, while transmitting these diseases to others, do not suffer from them themselves.

Physicians who heard Dr. Flexner's lecture said that it was an extremely important one to medical science in that it broke ground in an entirely new field of medicine—the field of diseases whose germs would pass through filters and had in the past been thought invisible even under microscopes. Scarlet fever and measles are in this class.

To Celebrate With Dinner

Perseverance Lodge of Masons will celebrate its 135th anniversary November 10 with a dinner in the Masonic Temple. The lodge will be the hosts of the Elizabethtown Home on October 26 at a special meeting to be held in the local Temple.

A Cross Bull

The late Lord Cross never added greatly to the humor of the nation. On one occasion, however, while he was still in the House of Commons, he tried to be sarcastic during a speech.

"I think," he said, fixing a certain Minister with a ferocious eye, "I think I hear the right honorable gentleman smile."

After that remark, if it were any satisfaction to him, he heard the whole house laugh.—London Globe.

A Gloomy Bedroom

A sight which attracted a great deal of curious attention in London recently was a furniture show window on Oxford street, which had been set out by a futurist decorator as a sample of the bedroom of the future. The sheets and pillows on the bed were coal black, and the wall paper was of black and white stripes. There were orange and green cushions on a purple sofa and a vivid green china bird to put the finishing touch to the gloom of the surroundings.

BENEFITS OF VIVISECTION

Dr. R. M. Pearce Says Experiments Aid Physicians

Atlantic City, Oct. 9.—Dr. R. M. Pearce, member of the medical faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, yesterday told delegates to the convention of the American Humane Society what vivisection has done to advance medical science. It was the first time in the history of the organization that the subject has been debated and the vivisectionists given an opportunity to present their side of the case.

Dr. Pearce told the gathering that he was under indictment at the present time for cruelty to animals, due to his experiments in the university laboratory, but declared that he was innocent of the charges. Through blood tests and cultures, made through inoculation of animals, Dr. Pearce said it was possible to save children from tuberculosis in some forms and to cure certain classes of idiocy in children.

Without recourse to vivisection where inoculation is employed, cures could not be effected with the certainty that its use gives to physicians, he said. No claim of cruelty, he asserted, had ever been proven in court against research institutions.

HERE'S A RARE SPECIES!

Representative Nelson a "Bloodhound on Trail of the Octopus" Washington, Oct. 9.—Representative Nelson, of Wisconsin, in a speech opposing the Clayton anti-trust bill yesterday told the House that ever since he had been in public life he had been a "bloodhound on the trail of the octopus."

Washington has been interested in Mr. Nelson ever since he arrived, but it never was suspected that he was a submarine bloodhound.

$20,000 Award for Husband's Death in New York. Oct. 9.—A jury before Supreme Court Justice Benedict in Brooklyn yesterday awarded Mrs. Alice M. Lorenzen a verdict of $20,000 in her suit against the Edison Electric Illuminating Company for the death of her husband, Peter Lorenzen, 29 years old, who was killed over a year ago through the collapse of a ladder.

Celebration Ends at Brownsville

Brownsville, Pa., Oct. 9.—Brownsville's centenary anniversary closed yesterday. The principal features were the opening of the new bridge across the Monongahela river by Governor John K. ## NEWS OF THE SPORTING WORLD

RECORD OF THE BRAVES UNPRECEDENTED IN GAME

Chicago White Sox Made a Remarkable Deal Through American League in 1906 But Was Not So Spectacular As Boston Nationals

New York, Oct. 9.—While Philadelphia has enjoyed a big slice of the honors which accompanied the right to be a contender for the world's baseball championship, Boston has not been wanting in her share in the glories of the annual championship series. When the clubs representing these two cities met in the opening game for this year's world's pennant, it will mark the fifth time that Philadelphia has entered such a struggle and it will be the third for Boston. Had the New York Nationals not refused to play with the "Hub" players in 1904, the Boston Americans would have had an additional opportunity of fighting for the championship. However Boston claimed the world's honors for that year by default.

Since the American and National League pennant winners first played against each other in 1903, the Athletics of Philadelphia have played four times and won three post season series. The Boston won the two that they fought to a finish first beating the Pittsburgh Nationals in 1903. After waiting eight years from the time of the disappointing refusal of the Giants in 1904, the "Red Sox" had the satisfaction of taking Manager McGraw's men into camp, scoring their second victory in the banner series of 1912.

Hitherto the American League was solely responsible for Boston's world's baseball honors, but this year the Nationals, or "Braves," which they are aptly called, after a rush, which astonished all followers of the national game are in the forefront of the battle. The flight of the Braves is without parallel in the annals of baseball. From last place to first was their accomplishment, and this within a period of five weeks.

The Braves were lowest of the eight teams in the National League on July 18. On August 23, they had mounted to first place, beating the Giants. It was ten days later, September 2, before the Bostonians went into the lead with a clear title for the time being, and it was September 8 before they finally entrenched themselves at the top. But the historians of baseball will mark their performance as "Last place to first in 36 days. A record."

Only one team within the memory of present day fans has nearly approached the extent of the Braves' remarkable progress. That was the Chicago White Sox of 1906 in their dash through the American League teams from seventh place to first. The White Sox were a team of generally appreciated high rank, bowed low with bad breaks during the first of the season. The Bostonians on the other hand, were dubbed the "lowly Braves," with little to indicate or warrant a better name.

TECH'S FIRST HOME GAME WITH SUNBURY TO-MORROW

Fans Get a Chance to See Younger School's Football Machine—Central Goes Against L. V. College Scrubs at Annuville This Afternoon

Much interest is being shown in tomorrow's game of the Technical High school eleven with the Sunbury High school team on the H. A. C. grounds because it is Tech's first local game of the present campaign. The first pair of games on the local school's schedule have been out-of-town games.

Cochran Dunkie is giving the team daily workouts in preparation for the struggle and will announce the line-up after to-day's game. Sunbury's team is reported strong and will give a close run, but after the showing against the Bucknell scrubs last Saturday Tech is confident of running up a fairly big score.

One big shift has been made on the Tech squad. Phillipelli, the big guard, has been shifted to the backfield in practice where his great strength can be used to better advantage. Four candidates are trying for the squad positions, both of which are vacant after the shift.

While to-morrow's game has attracted the attention of the local school's students, the football fans of the city are awaiting the contest to get the first glimpse of Tech's game this season. The two local exhibitions of the Central High team have been very interesting because of the easy time Central had in running away with the invaders. Tomorrow's game may prove to be a better game from the spectator's point of view. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

Central High's weekly opponent is the Lebanon Valley scrubs at Annuville to-day. The game has been switched from Saturday because the scrubs will accompany the visiting team to Lancaster for the Franklin and Marshall game. Central players will likely witness the Tech game to-morrow.
