Just Apply This Paste and the Hairs Will Vanish

(Boudoir Secrets)
The judicious use of delatone paste insures any woman a clear, hairless skin. To prepare the paste, mix a little of the powdered delatone with some water, then apply to the objectionable hairs for 2 or 3 minutes. When the paste is removed, and the skin washed, every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain attends the use of the delatone and it will not mar the most sensitive skin, but to insure results, see that you get real delatone.

MIDDLETOWN

Refused to Take Passengers on Overcrowded Penny Trains

Special Correspondence.
Middletown, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Anna Carr, of Chambersburg, is visiting her son, George Carr, and family on South Wood street.

Two of the noon trains on the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday were so crowded that the employes would not take any passengers on at this point. The trains only stopped to let some off. This never occurred at the local station before.

The employes of the Pennsylvania railroad here received their pay yesterday.

Frederick Dale, of Chambersburg, spent yesterday in town as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Carr, South Wood street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beachler and daughter, of Baltimore, are visiting relatives and friends in town for several days.

A stranger who arrived in town yesterday afternoon, walking on crutches and minus a leg, made quite an excitement at Ann and Union streets. He wanted to enter the Washington House and was barred, which made him angry.

He pulled out of his pocket what was supposed to be a revolver and those standing near became frightened. He was taken to the lockup, when it was found the supposed revolver was only an imitation. The man was then sent out of town.

The first entertainment of the Star Course, "The Strollers," was held in the Reedy theatre last evening.

Mrs. J. M. Ackerman will leave tomorrow morning for Lancaster, where she will spend several days attending the Eldership of the Church of God.

Work on removing the county bridge between Royaltown and this place has been started.

The shale brick plant received a large crusher to be installed at their brick plant in Royaltown. It weighs several tons.

E. M. Saavely will be given a hearing before Squire J. K. Henry, of Royaltown, this evening, charged by Burgess Granger with running an automobile through part of Royaltown and blowing his horn. Burgess Granger had suit brought one before against Saavely for the same offense and a fine was imposed, but this time the defendant will take the case to court.

Burgess Granger also claims that since the first suit Saavely would blow his horn long before he came to the point where the sign says, "Blow your horn," and claims that the same became monotonous, hence the suit.

Tomorrow will be pay day at the car works.

WORLD'S SERIES REPRODUCED

Fans Can Follow Games Accurately in Chestnut Street Hall

If you are a regular dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan you are going to take a few hours off this afternoon, go down to the Chestnut street auditorium and see the first game of the series between Boston and the Athletics reproduced on the big "Wizard" player-board.

About every ball fan in town knows this board and also knows that it is the next thing to sitting on the bleachers in Philadelphia to see game reproduced by the "Wizard." Every play is recorded in less than a minute after it is made and the workings of the board are so complete that once a person becomes interested in the game it is hard to remember one is not looking at the real thing. In fact the spectators become as enthusiastic as they do in the grandstand or bleachers at the ball park.

Veola and Martha Horton and a chorus of twenty girls will appear in the two rollicking burlesques of the Fay Foster company. This is a real big show and the management has displayed unusual tact in the selection of his company, carefully choosing those whose peculiar abilities to portray the characters assigned. Scores of the world's series opening game will be read between the acts. Adv.

"My Best Girl"

If "My Best Girl" is one thing more than another it is distinctive. The hitting musical comedy contains all of the ingredients that go to make up a superlative musical play, but these are put together in a fashion that makes the play different, as well as better, than most of its ilk. In the first place "My Best Girl" has a plot. Not the mere thread of a story but a consistent, well-constructed, entertaining plot. The musical numbers of which there are twenty are refreshingly new and include many haunting melodies. A few of the gems are "I Do Like Your Eyes," "There's a Cottage in the Country," "My Fairy Prince" and "One Little Girl," while the comedy songs which are supreme are "If the Morning After Were the Night Before" and "C. O. D." Besides these there are military marches, ensembles, quartets and trios galore. "My Best Girl" comes to the Majestic to-morrow afternoon and evening. Victor Morley will be seen in the principal role. Adv.

"Everywoman"

"If I were to name the play which has most impressed me during my theatrical days in many cities and countries," says a writer in the "National Magazine," "I should say 'Everywoman.'" Walter Browne, the author, who died on the very day of the first performance of the play, was a journalist in the true sense of the word, and his incisive intuition, his keen humor and subtle analyses are revealed in every line of "Everywoman." Many confirmed theatregoers may not realize how much a little previous reading at the public library may add to their enjoyment of "Everywoman" when it is presented at the Majestic theatre Monday afternoon and evening. An example of the library's resource upon the subject of "Everywoman" is given in the following appended list which will be especially valuable to students and teachers who intend to see the remarkable play: "Scenes from 'Everywoman,'" Canadian Magazine, July and September, 1911; "Moral Consciousness of 'Everywoman,'" Current Literature, May, 1911; "Everywoman," Criticism, Bookman, April, 1911; "Everywoman" by Walter Browne, Hampton's Magazine, May, 1911; "Evolution of 'Everywoman,'" by William Winter, Harper's Weekly, March 25, 1911; "New Plays and the New Theatre," Independent, March 30, 1911; "The Great White Way Moralized," Literary Digest, March 11, 1911; "The Stage Lashes Its Own Sins," Junsey's, May, 1911; "A Modern Morality Play," National Magazine, March, 1911; "Comment on 'Everywoman,'" Outlook, March, 1911; "Everywoman" Criticism," 20th Century Magazine, September, 1911; "Everywoman" Read, by R. F. Pierce, World To-day, May, 1911; "Production of 'Everywoman' at Herald Square theatre, New York," Theatre Magazine, September, 1911; "Play Entitled Both Author and Producer to Neighborhood in the American Order of Merit," National Magazine, March, 1911. Adv.

"The Traffic"

"The Traffic," which has scored nothing less than a sensation in Chicago, will be presented at the Majestic theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday with Wednesday matinee. At first the critics of Chicago, admitting the power and truth of "The Traffic," doubted its sincerity of purpose and of its author, Miss Marshall, a young woman who has spent the greater portion of her life heading reform movements, and whose investigation of the terrible conditions attendant upon the white slave traffic were responsible for her writing "The Traffic" in an effort to open the eyes of the general public to the conditions that exist and flourish in many of the largest American cities. It has succeeded in arousing the people of Chicago and has been highly endorsed by Lieutenant Governor O'Hara, of Illinois, and a number of earnest reformers, who, while admitting that it is rather frank and severe, nevertheless endorse it as a powerful lesson and warning to all young women. At the Orpheum

Notwithstanding the fact that Irene Franklin and Milton and the DeLong Sisters occupy probably the most important places on this week's bill at the Orpheum, there is also a team known as Toney and Norman in a mighty clever comedy of special mention also. Toney and Norman are the names of an attractive young woman and very slim comedian, who is as funny as he is slim. The male portion of the team appears in a dress suit, so tight that it would seem he slipped into it via the shoe horn route, and he lands many an original laugh over his own expense. However, he plays a little ditty over his pity for the fat man, cause "nobody loves a fat man" and he seems otherwise perfectly satisfied

POLICE CHASE WILD BULL
Thirty Shots Fired and New York East 3:de Terrorized
New York, Oct. 9.—A big black bull broke out of a pen in a Sulzberger packing house yesterday and ran like mad from Forty-fifth street and First avenue to Seventy-fifth street and Avenue A before one of the thirty shots fired by policemen laid him low. There were eight automobiles in the chase after the bull, ten policemen and a dozen cattle herders, while hundreds of persons scurried out of the animal's way and two were bowled over in the street.

Patrolman Thomas Kelly, who was helping school children to cross First avenue, commanded an automobile and started in pursuit as the bull went past him. Other patrolmen joined the chase in commandeered cars. Patrolman Warren F. Keating, at Fifty-sixth street and First avenue, took up the chase in a car belonging to a well dressed woman, who took great delight in the adventure.
