Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The Boston Braves, National League pennant winners, victorious in the opening engagement of the world's series campaign of 1914, gave battle upon Shibe field again today with the Philadelphia Athletics. Twenty thousand persons viewed the fray and cheered the American League champions in their efforts to turn the fortunes of battle in their favor and thereby place the two contenders for the season's baseball honors on even terms.

To-day's game was almost crucial for the Athletics. A defeat meant that Boston would open their two-day home stay in Fenway Park on Monday with only two more victories needed to clinch the big title in baseball, while the Athletics would be forced to struggle desperately to take four full games to win the world's series. Betting was even late to-day on the outcome of the series.

"We have looked the Athletics over; taken their measure in the first game and beaten up their big gun, Bender," said Manager Stallings, of the Boston club before the game. "We will win the series. It's Tyler or James to-day. Either can make the Athletics throw their bats away."

The Athletics looked to Eddie Plank's cross-bow to crumple up the Boston onslaught to-day. The veteran southpaw slogger was Manager Mack's early choice for the firing line.

"We'll be out there to-day fighting all the way," said Jack Barry, shortstop of the Athletics. "Our club comes back quickly after defeat and we won't look like the same team when we get to hitting."

The day was built for baseball. The sun dried up the moist clouds during the morning and shone brilliantly upon the soft greens of the in and outfield. The two teams went about their batting and fielding practice with zest and a degree of speed and artistry that promised a smart and grimly fought contest.

Plank and Schlang were announced as the batteries for the Athletics; James and Gowdy were announced as the batteries for Boston.

Maranville sacrificed, Baker to McInnis. Plank took Deal's smash and tossed to Baker, who threw to Collins, who touched Gowdy as he tried to slide back to second. Deal stole second. Deal was almost caught between the bases, but Schang's throw was a little wide, so that McInnis was not in position to throw to second before Deal made the bag. Schang threw wild to catch Deal off second, but Barry saved him an error with a high jumping catch. James fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—With one victory safely tucked away the Boston Braves met the Philadelphia Athletics in the second game of the world's series to-day with added confidence and a grim determination to make it two straight. The Athletics, although defeated in the initial struggle, were equally determined to even the series and they were not a whit discouraged.

The ticket speculating fraternity won a legal victory when habeas corpus proceedings forced the release of those arrested for vending admission tickets yesterday. Few tickets for to-day's game, however, were in the hands of the speculators when the hour for the staging of the contest arrived. Many purchasers secured bargains in tickets yesterday when at the last moment the holders found that they would be unable to use the high priced pasteboards. Every one who had a ticket to-day seemed determined to use it to see the game or had friends who would.

The builders of miniature grandstands on housetops overlooking the grounds also scored in a legal tilt with the police and building inspectors when it was discovered that they could not be forced to tear down their stands.

ANTWERP FALLS; GERMANS NOW OCCUPYING THE CITY

HARRISBURG NOW BACK TO NORMAL

Four Visiting Fire Companies Remaining in the City Will Depart To-day

COST $50,000 FOR ENTERTAINMENT

Finance Committee of the Firemen's Union to Meet on Monday Evening to Settle Up Convention Affairs —To-night Last for Street Lights

Four fire companies out of the one hundred or more that were in the city for the State firemen's convention remained in the city this morning. Pakers closed up street stands and decorations began to come down from individual buildings. To-night will be the last night for the decorative lighting of the street.

Members of the Harrisburg Firemen's Union began closing up the business affairs of the convention this morning. Howard O. Holstein, chairman of the finance committee of the Union, has called a meeting of his committee for Monday evening at the headquarters, 420 Market street.

Mr. Holstein this morning estimated the total expenditure for every purpose for entertaining the convention at the round figure of $50,000. The greatest expenditure was that of the firemen's union, which will reach something over $9,000. The two biggest items in this were for the badges and prizes for the parade and contests. Checks were the prize money were mailed out this morning.

How the Money Was Spent
The money spent by the fourteen individual fire companies in the city will average $1,000. Four of the companies spent considerably more than that amount in entertainment, in the hiring of bands for two days and in decorations. In several instances bands alone cost nearly $500. Street decorations cost the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce something over $2,000. Figured also in that estimate of $50,000 is the money spent by local merchants and business men in decorating their places of business.

Chairman Holstein announced that all outstanding bills against the firemen's union must be presented before Monday noon, in order that the business of the convention be closed.

50 CENTS NETS HIM $1,200

York Fireman Who Won Chanced-Off Apparatus and Horses Assured of Profitable Sales

Samuel Sloat, of York, who won the chemical fire apparatus and the two well-bred horses that were chanced off by the Union Fire Company, of York, during the firemen's convention here, is surely a lucky man which was proved not only by the fact that he won the outfit but that he has found ready buyers for it at his own price. The Union Company got rid of the apparatus because it now owns an auto engine.

Almost as soon as the winner of the team and horse cart was announced, the York Transfer Company gave Mr. Sloat a bid for the horses and soon afterward an out-of-town fire company purchased the apparatus, which is in very good condition.

Thus by running a chance of losing fifty cents, Mr. Sloat won the outfit which he is assured of selling for $1,200. He is to get $500 for the horses and $700 for the apparatus. Mr. Sloat said that this was the easiest money that he ever made. He left Harrisburg to-day with his prize, going to York, where he will deliver them to their new owners.

He reported for duty to-day with his head in bandages. The deputy said he was injured in an auto accident at a sharp turn of the Chamber Hill road, while returning from a trip to Hummelstown last night.

Over Quarter Million People Flock Through Roads Into Open Country In Efforts to Escape From Terrible Effects of German Guns

London, Oct. 10, 3.50 A. M.—A dispatch to the "Daily Express" from Antwerp says:
"The bombardment of Antwerp continued throughout Thursday, increasing tremendously in fury towards 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Enormous damage was done in the southern quarter of the city, the German shells spreading fire and death over a large area. The cathedral, (the church of Notre Dame), was only slightly damaged Thursday. The shells set fire to more than fifty oil stands along the river and the far-reaching glare from this great fire added to the panic among the people remaining in the city."

Populace Flees to Country
"There are over a quarter of a million persons flocking through the roads into the open country in an effort to escape. At 8 o'clock Thursday evening a rain of lyddite and naphtha shells fell and at midnight the whole town seemed to be burning.

At 3 o'clock Friday morning all the back part of the city was a mass of flame. The cannonade was incessant until 5 o'clock Friday morning when there was a short lull.

"The loss of life in the city is appalling. The aristocratic suburb of Berchem has been ruined. The southern part of the city is a mass of flames."
