SISTERS OF MERCY of 603 North Second Street HAVE OPENED A MUSIC CLASS To Which We Solicit the Patronage of Our Friends

AMUSEMENTS

MAJESTIC To-night, "My Best Girl." Monday, matinee and night, October 12, "Everywoman." Tuesday and Wednesday With Wednesday matinee, October 13-14, "The Traffic." Thursday, afternoon and evening, "Help Wanted." Friday, afternoon and evening, October 16, Burlesque. Saturday, afternoon and evening, October 17, "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

ORPHEUM Every afternoon and evening, high class vaudeville. COLONIAL Daily continuous vaudeville and pictures. "My Best Girl" There is probably no show on the road this season that has so completely justified the predictions of the New York and Boston critics' declarations of success as has "My Best Girl," which comes to the Majestic theatre to-day for matinee and evening performances with Victor Morley in the stellar role. Glowing praises were showered on this lively, merry musical comedy when it opened at the Park theatre, in New York, and during its extended run there it became one of the striking successes of Broadway.

Scarcely less marked was its triumphs in Boston when later it went to that city for a run. Since then it has left a chain of merry whistling of its bright melodies, and chuckles over its bright, witty fun through all the cities it has played.

"Everywoman" Much interest has been aroused during the past three years by the production of a play in New York bearing the strange title, "Everywoman." The newspapers and magazines have devoted columns of discussion to this dramatic novelty which is labeled "a dramatic spectacle." Added attention was attracted to "Everywoman" at the time of its first production by the fact that its author, Walter Browne, a New York newspaper man, who had labored upon it for years, died on the morning of the day of the first performance of his play which have realized for him the ambition of a lifetime. "Everywoman" made an instantaneous hit. It ran continuously in New York for nearly two years, has since been translated into other languages, and only last season made a sensational success at the Drury Lane theatre, London. During the time that it was running at the Herald Square theatre, New York, a version of the play in Yiddish was being performed at an Eastside theatre in New York, where it achieved a run of over one hundred and fifty performances. Browne's widow and children, who were left penniless, have been made affluent by the success of "Everywoman." Over three million people have already witnessed the performance. Henry W. Savage is sending here his only production, containing several originators of the various roles and it will be disclosed at the Majestic theatre, Monday afternoon and evening.

"The Traffic" The new four act drama by Rachel Marshall, "The Traffic," which is coming to the Majestic next Tuesday and Wednesday, with Wednesday matinee, with Bess Sankey in the leading role, is by all dramatic measurements and all stage precedents an astonishing production. To begin with, "box office policies" which require a conventionally happy ending, have been boldly ignored by both author and producer. The piece itself is well knit, properly balanced and gripping, its dialogue bristles with wit and humor, it surges with passion, storms with anger and gloom with a pathos as tender as heartache.

"Help Wanted" Dorothy Walter, who plays the leading character role in "Help Wanted," Jack Lait's comedy drama of the business world, which comes to the Majestic theatre, Thursday evening, has had a varied experience in delineating "types." In "The Great Name," "The Lottery Man," "The Parisian Model" and "That's Wrong," she was cast in roles which gave her every opportunity to display her remarkable powers of characterization.

At the Orpheum Irene Franklin, the girl who caused the jubilee in Harrisburg this week, and all the splendid Keith acts grouped with her, will leave the Orpheum after to-day's performance. For next week the management is announcing the second appearance of Frederick Bowers, who, with his great variety act of song, dance and beauty, will head a bill of rare interest and much clever talent. Most everybody will remember that Mr. Bowers and his company opened the season at the Orpheum two years ago, and even a better reminder is that song hit, "There's a Girl in the Heart of Maryland," that Mr. Bowers introduced to Harrisburg. Others came to the Orpheum and sang the song after him, but nobody ever succeeded in scoring the hit that Mr. Bowers did. He has a voice of remarkable volume and sweetness and can sing a ballad like few others can.

With him will be one of the prettiest girls on the vaudeville stage and he will also have some expert dancers. Of heading importance also will be "The Mystic Band," just a pretty yellow canary of the every day type, and he will imitate the songs and calls of other birds to harmonize with his master who plays the violin. He will also sing and warble obligatos to selections that the orchestra plays, such as "Mendelssohn's Spring Song," "The Glow Worm," etc. "The Mystic Bird" is interesting and the only act of the kind ever presented in vaudeville. The act is a positive sensation. Also the Bison City Four, at last! This time they are coming for sure, for they are positively in America, funnier than ever 'cause they were so glad to get back, and they will undoubtedly give a splendid account of themselves next week with their new comedy songs as well as their usual seven Keith bits on next week's bill and all of them are varied and entertaining.

At the Colonial An entire change of program in the latest releases of licensed films are being shown at the Colonial daily in connection with a mighty clever vaudeville bill, that as usual, is changed but twice a week. The vaudeville novelties appearing there for the last half of the week are really unusual in merit and are clever and diverting throughout. The roster includes Leonard and Arnold, young man and woman, in a pretty staged song, dance and patter skit; Dorothy Curtis, dainty comedienne, and Burke and Wald, two comedians, in songs and patter.

W.C.T.U. GREET'S DR. SWALLOW Sends God's Blessing to Which He Makes Appropriate Reply The Oil City papers of this week have this item concerning a Harrisburger: "The W. C. T. U. State convention, numbering over 500 delegates now in session here, sent this afternoon the following telegram to Dr. S. C. Swallow: "The Women's Christian Temperance Union of Pennsylvania assembled in State convention, send greetings, praying God to bless your work." In reply to this Dr. Swallow wired the convention: "Mine eyes have seen the coming of the glory of the Lord. He is fitting up his mansion where the wrath of wine was poured. His truth is marching on. Glory! Hallelujah!"
