$2,813.10 FOR EACH BRAVE; MACKMAN GETS $2,031.68

Because of the Short World's Series the Club Owners and National Commission Divide a Smaller Sum Than in Any Year Since 1910

A check for $2,813.10 will be made out to every member of the new world's champion, George Stallings' Boston Braves, as his share of the prize money. A total of $121,900.94 was given to the players, and Boston, as the winner, receives sixty per cent. of this, or $73,140.56, which will be equally divided between the twenty-six eligible Braves. The Macks, on the other hand, are entitled to forty per cent. of the players' share, or $48,750.38. This will be equally divided among twenty-four men, which gives every Mackman $2,031.68. The players receive less money than has fallen to their lot since 1910.

Because of the shortness of the series, the club owners and the National Commission divide a smaller sum than in any world's series since 1910. The club owners receive fifteen per cent. of $225,739, the total receipts of the first four games, which amounts to $40,632.58. The National Commission is entitled to ten per cent. of the total, or $22,573.

No matter how many games are played before the championship is decided, the players share only in the first four games, and the receipts in the remaining games go to the club owners and the National Commission. Last year the attendance at the baseball blue ribbon was 151,000 for five games, against 111,009 for the quartet of battles this fall. At the deciding struggle in 1913, 36,682 persons attended, which leaves a total of 114,318 for the first four games, 3,309 more than the number that witnesses this year's series. This accounts for the fact that the players' share for last year exceeded this year's total by $13,363.25. The prize was divided between twenty-five Mackmen in 1913, and each received $3,246.36. Each member of the Giants, the losers, was given $2,164.22. In 1912 the players' share was high and each Red Sox player was awarded $4,022, while every New York Giant was given $2,560.

Each of the four umpires received $1,000, the money coming from the National Commission's share of the receipts.

CHICAGO SERIES NOW EVEN

White Sox Defeat Cubs, 5 to 3, in Sixth Interleague Game. Chicago, Oct. 14.—The White Sox tied the Cubs for the city championship yesterday by winning 5 to 3. The Americans won in the fifth inning, when the Nationals went to pieces. The standing of the clubs is now three and three. In fielding a short boundary from Good's bat in the ninth, Benz and the batter collided. The pitcher tried to continue the game, but was unsteady and was replaced by Cicotte. The paid attendance was 6,961 and the gross receipts $4,834.50. Of this amount the National Commission's share was $483.45 and each club received $2,175.52.

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 14.—The New York Nationals yesterday defeated the New York Americans by a score of 4 to 1, taking the city series four games to one. The Giants scored in the fourth on Doyle's double, a sacrifice by Burns and an error by Peckinpaugh. Singles by Demaree and Burns, Bescher's sacrifice hit, Doyle's sacrifice fly, a pass to Snodgrass, a double steal by Snodgrass and Burns and two errors by Nunamaker gave the Giants three runs in the sixth. The Yankees scored their lone run in the second when Cree doubled and came all the way home on a wild throw by Meyers. The game was played in an hour and eight minutes.

GETTYSBURG-DICKINSON

Teams Getting Into Shape for Biggest Game of Season in Battle-field Town

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—Yesterday afternoon was cold and dreary, but the men put plenty of ginger into their play and made things look lively. Shorty O'Brien is using this week to put the finishing touch on the team for the big game of the season—Dickinson. He is paying equal attention to each department of the game. For a considerable length of time Schaeffer practiced placements and later Harriet tried his luck at drop-kicking. New formations were given a trial for Saturday's contest. After a snappy signal drill, a hard scrimmage was indulged in, which ended the day's work.

WEARY DAYS FOR BETTORS

Much Money Wagered on Athletics at 2 to 1 to Take Championship

New York, Oct. 14.—The so-called smart men along Broadway—those who hop on apparently sure things and mollify the opposition by giving odds—suffered heavily by the defeat of the Athletics. Before the series started backers for the Boston Braves were hard to locate, but considerable money was wagered in large individual bets at 2 to 1.

When Boston won the first game supporters of the Athletics did not lose heart and still were willing to give odds of 6 to 5, and found more ready response from those who dock along with a winner. The second game in Boston's knapsack, the Athletics' backers had no way to get out other than to bet on individual games. They argued that Boston could not win four straight games, and here again they fell with a thud.

Probably the largest freak bet that went astray was $2,000 to $100, laid by Arnold Rothstein, that Boston would not win four straight.

Hard Workout for Dickinson

Carlisle, Pa., Oct. 14.—Yesterday afternoon witnessed much hard work on Bidde Field by the Dickinson College football squad under Coach Harrington, who is endeavoring to get the 'varsity' in good shape for Saturday's game against Gettysburg. Dalton and Palm, in the backfield, are both progressing at punting, as well as in handling the ball. Dalton seemingly having overcome his tendency to fumble. Myers and Simmons, at guards, although extremely light, seemed to have overcome this handicap by their aggressiveness. After a long drill in rudiments, in which special attention was paid to tackling, Harrington gave the team some new formations.

PREPARING FOR HARVARD

Coach Hollenback's Crew Being Conditioned for Big Game

State College, Pa., Oct. 14.—Two hours' scrimmage and a mile run around the track was given Penn State's football squad yesterday afternoon in preparation for the Ursinus game on Saturday.

Coach Hollenback said his charges need more work to enable them to stand the gaff of full time quarters against Harvard in the daily practice. The regulars were pitted against the pick of substitutes yesterday afternoon. The scrubs used Harvard formations successfully, gaining freely through the line between tackles and guards. To stiffen the defense for the struggle with the Crimson, Coaches Hollenback and Harlow are designing special defensive formation for the next two weeks. Close attention will be given to this feature. State's clean slate has proved a powerful incentive to the players to be primed for the Harvard contest.

Zarney and Kratt, the tackles, were drilled yesterday afternoon to break up close end plays.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Bordie attempted to commit suicide by drowning herself in Wissahickon Creek but was rescued by Park guards. She retired early Monday night, saying that she was ill. When she failed to appear yesterday Mrs. Mary Stungnell, with whom she resided, made an investigation. The police say Mrs. Bordie was despondent over a love affair. She is survived by an 8-year-old daughter.

During the four months ending with June, 40,000,000 pounds of domestic lead were shipped, 13,000,000 pounds to England, 10,000,000 to Scotland, and smaller amounts to Russia and other countries.

MAJESTIC

This afternoon and evening, 'The Traffic.' Tomorrow evening, 'Help Wanted.' Friday afternoon and evening, 'Bar-leque,' 'The Girls From Joyland.' Saturday afternoon and evening, 'Seven Keys to Baldpate.' Monday, matinee and night, October 19, 'The Dingbat Family.'

ORPHEUM

Every afternoon and evening, high class vaudeville.

COLONIAL

Daily continuous vaudeville and pictures.

'The Traffic'

'The Traffic,' which plays at the Majestic to-night, is said to be the most audacious play of serious purpose ever presented to an American public. It deals with the projects and unvarnished truth about the white slave trade. The author of this defiant adventure into dramatic realism is Rashed Marshall, whose great-grandfather was the famous Chief Justice Marshall. Conviction fidelity to facts is the startling feature of 'The Traffic.' Startling as the effect of 'The Traffic' upon the audience, yet it is a play of essential cleanliness. Adv.

'Help Wanted'

Local theatregoers will have their first opportunity of seeing one of the most widely-talked-of plays written for the American stage in recent years at the Majestic to-morrow evening when 'Help Wanted' will be presented. Jack Lait, the author—and noted Chicago journalist, has written a story throbbing with the interests of big business and deals with a subject of universal appeal. The big message Mr. Lait had to deliver was the difficulties which some young stenographers encounter when they leave business college and go forth to make their living in the busy scrapers of most large cities of America. Aside from its message of warning, 'Help Wanted' is full of genuine drama and the ingredients of heart interest, along with an ample supply of good, clean, wholesome comedy. Adv.

'Girls From Joyland'

'The Girls From Joyland' will be the attraction at the Majestic Friday afternoon and evening. The combination is rated as one of the best on the road. Frank L. Wakfield heads the capable cast of forty talented performers, which includes the following well-known entertainers: Joe Phillips, Fred Balla, Schuler, Hill and Martin, the highest salaried singing trio in burlesque; Dolly Sweet, Maudie L'Estrange, Lillian Raymond and a chorus of musical comedy girls handsomely gowned throughout the two act comedy. Wakfield in his characterization of a dope fiend, is accredited with stirring his audience to gales of laughter and waves of merriment. Adv.

'Seven Keys to Baldpate'

When George M. Cohan wrote the dramatic version of George Randolph Chester's popular 'Get-Rich-Quick-Walldingford' stories, it was thought he had reached the apex of his career as a playwright, and that his genius could carry him no further, but in his new play, 'Seven Keys to Baldpate,' which the talented young author styles a mystery farce, and which he adapted from the novel of the same name by Earl Derr Biggers, he has gone even 'Wallingford' a lap further, and has evolved absolutely the most whimsical dramatic offering of the century. 'Seven Keys to Baldpate' cannot be described. Its plot and treatment is so far removed from the conventionally accepted idea of playwrighting that the mind fails to grasp its peculiar oddity without seeing it. 'Seven Keys to Baldpate' will be presented at the Majestic Saturday matinee and night. Adv.

'The Dingbat Family'

Tango, maxixe, hesitation and all the latest dance crazes now being done in all the big New York theatres and hotels, will be one of the many features of the musical comedy, 'The Dingbat Family,' adapted from the famous cartoons of George Herriman, which is to appear in this city at the Majestic next Monday matinee and night. Few people would think it credible that a wonderful violinist would spend unlimited time and patience in an effort to train a canary bird. Fewer still would think it would be possible to educate a canary bird, no matter how much time and patience would be exerted. About the best comedy playlet that has been shown at the Busy Corner in many a long day is the one presented by Bicknell and Gibney, in fact it is just good enough to play any of the 'big time' houses. They are offering a 'rube' comedy, the male portion of the team being a comedian of some consequence, and the young woman, who plays the part of an actress, is just as pretty and attractive as she is pleasing. Every line of the sketch is good for a laugh and the sketch is handled in capital fashion. A duo of clever entertainers are the Smillette sisters, while a way Star Feature. It will be the attraction at the Photoplay to-day. Adv.
