HUMAN SYSTEM INJURED BY ONE CUP OF COFFEE

Its Constant Use Tends to Increase Fatigue Products Says Kansas City Physician

The constant use of coffee and tea tends to increase fatigue products in the human system, says Dr. G. Wiley Robinson, of the University Medical College, Kansas City, Mo.

"Caffeine is used in coffee and tea as a beverage for its stimulating effects. Even in small doses, one cup of coffee or tea per day, the general results of the action of caffeine upon the nervous system are to increase the irritability of the brain.

"In order to respond to the stimulation of regular doses of caffeine, nerve and muscle tissue must draw upon their reserve energy, and they must do their work in the presence of an excessive quantity of toxic fatigue products, and both of these conditions tend to exhaustion and perversion of function.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

When Constipated or Bilious Give "California Syrup of Figs"

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without gripping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here to sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Gilish Complexion Now Easily Acquired

"A skin of blended snow, cream and rose is the way an Ohio correspondent describes her newly acquired complexion. She is one who has adopted mercerized wax in place of cosmetics, massage, steaming and other methods. Many who have tried this marvelous wax report that its effects are quite different from those of any other treatment. It produces a complexion of exquisite girlish naturalness, rather than one bearing evidence of having been artificially 'made over.' One that is indeed 'Nature's own,' the result of gradually absorbing dead particles of surface skin, permitting the younger, healthier skin beneath to show itself and giving its pores a chance to breathe. Mercerized wax, procurable at any drug store in original one ounce package, is put on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

"I have also had many favorable letters from those who have tried the mercerized wax face bath which I recommended recently. Here it is: 1 oz. mercerized wax, dissolved in 1 pt. witch hazel."—Natalie in the Woman Militant.

GIANT U. S. STEEL CONCERN IN COURT

Courts asked to divide under wholly independent ownerships the following companies controlled by the steel corporation:

Companies Affected by Suit The Carnegie Steel Company, of New Jersey, National Steel Company, American Steel Company, American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, American Steel Plate Company, American Sheet Steel Company, Federal Steel Company, American Steel and Wire Company, National Tube Company, Shelby Steel Tube Company and the American Bridge Company.

The court is also asked to make independent the Duluth and Iron Range Railroad Company, the Duluth, Missabe and Northern Railroad Company, the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, Union Steel Company and that the ore and coal properties of the United Steel Corporation other than those of the Tennessee Company be divided among the Clairton, Union and new concerns to be created in proportions to their capacity for the production of steel.

Carnegie Party to Unlawful Deal The court is further asked to decree that "Andrew Carnegie was a party to the unlawful combination of properties among the United States Steel Corporation and took the bonds of the corporation with all the infirmities attaching to such participation."

Finally the court is asked to appoint a receiver to take over all of the properties owned or controlled by the United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries for the purpose of making effective the decree of the court; that the receiver recover from the syndicate subscribers and promoters and others who were parties to the alleged unlawful combination the difference between the par value of the stock received by them and the cash value of the properties or the services given therefor, so that restitution, so far as possible, may be made to the other stockholders.

Fifty-five Volumes of Testimony The testimony taken in the case is contained in fifty-five printed volumes, each an inch thick. The government has a formidable paper of more than 900 printed pages, and the receiver reviews the evidence in the case and argues the law points involved. Much of the space of the brief is given up to the Steel Corporation's acquisition of the majority of the stock of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

The government alleges that E. H. Gary and Henry C. Frick, directors in the steel corporation who went to President Roosevelt to see whether the government would object to the corporation taking over the Tennessee Company, misrepresented to the President the amount of stock held by Moore and Schley, the New York firm, which the corporation sought to participate during the panic of 1907.

The government's brief declares that the real object of the steel corporation in purchasing the Tennessee stock was to help Moore and Schley out of financial difficulties, but to obtain absolute control of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company property.

Brief Filed by Corporation The brief filed by the United States Steel Corporation reviewing the law which the government applies to the case and also reviewing the evidence, declares that what competition existed among the companies acquired by the big corporation was greatly limited.

It is declared that the steel corporation's proportion of the country's total production of finished products in 1901, when the corporation was formed, was only 50.1 per cent; that it has since been reduced to 45.7 per cent of the country's production for all the markets of the world and to 49.9 per cent of the total production for the domestic market.

The steel corporation's supply of ore in the Lake Superior district constituted only 43 per cent of the total amount of ore in the ranges of that district known in 1911, the brief states; that the corporation's present supply there constitutes only 36 per cent, and that of the total ore available for American iron and steel manufacturers the ores of Lake Superior district constitute a small fraction.

Deny Suppressing Competition In denying that the steel corporation suppressed competition, the brief states that the organization of the company was but a natural and normal development from existing trade and manufacturing conditions.

The brief calls attention to the corporation's successful efforts in building up a large foreign trade for American iron and steel products, and states that the records do not show a single instance of freight rebates having been asked or given by the steel corporation or its subsidiaries since the organization of the big concern.

With respect to its employees, the brief says that the corporation has reduced wages only once during the whole period of its existence; that this was occasioned by a severe business depression in 1904, and that since its formation the wages of the corporation's employees have been increased on the average of 28.5 per cent.

Price of Products Decreased The price of its products, the brief continues, is shown to have decreased on an average about $8 a ton since it was formed. It was also shown that the price of steel products as compared with other commodities, the brief adds, has diminished 16.5 per cent, since the corporation was formed, and since 1903 has been less in the United States than in either England or Germany.

The brief denies the allegations that the steel corporation took advantage of the 1907 panic to acquire control of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company. The brief declares that the Tennessee was not a substantial competitor of the Steel Corporation because it had never been a success; that the steel corporation had declined repeated offers of the Tennessee property and reiterated the former statements of the corporation that the stock was taken over only when it became apparent that nothing else would save Moore and Schley, the New York firm, from failure and prevent the spread of the panic.

Evidence shows, the brief sums up, "that no real competitors exist in the steel trade; that for nearly ten years competitive conditions have been ideal, and that under these conditions new competitors have grown up and expanded, products have improved, prices have declined and trade has flourished as never before."

ROOSEVELT HERE OCT. 29

Colonel Will Speak in Chestnut Street Hall at 10.15 A. M.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will close his three-day tour of Pennsylvania in Harrisburg on the morning of Thursday, October 29, speaking at Chestnut street hall at 10.15 o'clock.

Ira T. Mosey, Washington party county chairman, last night received definite information of the coming of Colonel Roosevelt and at once began the perfecting of arrangements for his reception.

The meeting at Chestnut street hall will be called to order at 10 o'clock, and fifteen minutes later the train bearing Colonel Roosevelt will arrive from the West. A reception committee of the Dauphin County Progressive League will meet the Roosevelt party at the station and form an escort to the hall. There will be about fifty people with Colonel Roosevelt, including Gifford Pinchot, the candidate for United States Senator.

INFINITUDE OF SUNS

Those We Know Are Nothing to Those Beyond Our Ken

The photographs of 25,876 standard plates show the points, or images, of 100,000,000 suns. These have not been actually counted but plates secured by exposure in telescopes to typical regions of the sky have, and the entire number has been subjected to the calculation of probabilities, resulting in the general number of 100,000,000 colossal suns.

These have been weighed—that is, their combined force of gravitational attraction has been computed. This led to one of the most overwhelming discoveries—namely, this entire pull of attractions of the quantity of matter in 100,000,000 suns as massive as our own sun could not even begin to impede the high specific speeds of several well known "runaway" suns. These are dashing through what has been named space with velocities so much greater than all other suns that they are a class by themselves.

Our sun contains 333,426 times more matter than is in the earth, and this multiplied by 100,000,000 reveals the quantity of matter known to exist, beyond all human imagination. But this immense mass may almost be ignored as a mere fraction in comparison with the gigantic quantity necessary to impart a velocity of from 150 to 200 miles per second to these suns flying about the sidereal universe.

Let the number of these suns or dark bodies run up to trillions or octillions, then the entire quantity of matter in all of them would be less than the weight of one grain of sand if compared to an infinite quantity of matter.

—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

THE REAL RUSSIA

It Is Confined to a Very Small Section of the Vast Empire, To-day and Yesterday," Nevin O. Winter says:

In a strict sense, real Russia covers only a portion of the more than 2,000,000 square miles that lie within the borders of the continent. This narrower definition would certainly eliminate Finland, Poland, the Baltic provinces, Bessarabia and the Caucasus and probably a part of the land of the Don Cossacks, the Crimea and the sections bordering on the Arctic ocean and the lower Volga. In other words, the real Russia has developed within this narrower section, and whatever of Russian characteristics appear in the eliminated sections have simply been imposed by the conquerors upon a people alien by birth and language.

"The actual visible influence of Tolstoy on Russia seems not to have been great. He was beloved and revered by many, but no party claims or has ever claimed him as a leader. The higher classes rejected him because of his opposition to all established government; the peasantry were repelled by his diatribes against religion; the revolutionists and anarchists repudiated his teaching because he had no definite plan to offer. His influence on thought and opinion in Russia will not compare with his influence in non-Russian nations."

Misplaced Sympathy

Sitting near the door in a subway car was a middle-aged man reading a newspaper. At one station there got aboard this car a mother and her son, a small boy maybe 4 years old.

As these two came through the doorway and into the car, the little boy, quite by accident, of course, hit the middle-aged gentleman reading the newspaper a good, smart kick on the shin, causing the man to wince, while the boy's progress was checked for a moment by his thus kicking up against something.

The mother looked down, but she said nothing to the man. It was to the boy she spoke: "Did you hurt yourself, dear?"

Which seemed a case of misplaced sympathy.—New York Sun.

County Bonds Are Redeemed

Through bids received and opened at 4 o'clock last evening, the Commonwealth Trust Company, trust officer for Dauphin county, will redeem $14,000 worth of county improvement bonds. This redemption is due to the fact that the county's sinking fund contains $17,271.76, which is available for investment. The bids warranted the purchase only of $14,000 worth of the bonds.

AMATEUR DETECTIVE ARRESTED

Came Here to "Shadow" Man and Falls Himself

Frank Skinner came from Chambersburg yesterday, in the guise of an amateur detective to trace a man who is charged with defrauding his mother out of a board bill amounting to $15. Skinner recognized Wayne Desivey as the person and traced him to police headquarters yesterday where the latter reported to Chief of Police Hutchison of his good behavior.

Desivey was detained by C. O. Backenstoss, secretary to the Mayor, to await a warrant from Chambersburg. In the meantime Skinner proceeded to get under the influence of liquor and at 11 o'clock last night was arrested by Policeman Cope at Fourth and Market streets. Both were taken back to Chambersburg to-day.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

"It is not generally known perhaps that the coast line of the Philippine Islands is longer than that of the United States," said a man who has spent more than fifteen years in that country.

"The Philippines are numerous islands," he continued. "It would take one many months to tour all of the islands. Of course, the climate varies, but in most parts it is delightful. The average temperature is lower than in many parts of the United States, and the humidity is not nearly so great. Records of temperature in the Philippines have been kept since 1865, and in that time the maximum record was 103 degrees. The mean temperature is from 70 to 80 degrees.

"If the humidity were great, there are times when it would be almost unbearable, but ordinarily I would rather live in the Philippines than in most sections of this country. It is fortunate that in the month of greatest humidity, September, the temperature falls lower than at any other time of the year, which makes it possible to endure the conditions.
