AMERICANS ORGANIZE FOR THE RELIEF OF BELGIUM IN FOOD CRISIS NOW PENDING

London, Oct. 22, 11.25 P. M. (Delayed in Transmission).—The organization of the American commission for the relief of Belgium was completed at the American embassy to-night. Captain T. F. Lucey and Millard K. Shaler will leave to-morrow for Brussels, where they will take a census of those in need.

The Spanish Ambassador at London and the Spanish Minister to Brussels have been added to the commission and their nationals will assist in the work. The operations of the committee in the food market have disclosed that, owing to the desire of the British government that the stock of food in these islands should not be depleted by export and to the restrictions placed upon such exports, it is extremely difficult to find even emergency provisions in England, and the receipt of such supplies from across the Atlantic becomes more imperative, it is said, than was originally anticipated.

In Charleroi the food supply is exhausted and the population is subsisting on potato soup. A representative of the local relief committee of Liege who reached London to-day reported that the people are becoming restive over the non-arrival of supplies. He said it was practically impossible to obtain any food supplies in Holland and that, unless supplies from America were sent quickly, conditions in Belgium would become desperate.

The commission learns that all foodstuffs from America must come in neutral bottoms. The commission already has purchased a quarter of a million dollars' worth of foodstuffs in the name of the American Ambassador at London and the American Ambassador at Brussels and the distribution will begin among the local branches of the Belgian relief committee.

FEATS WITH THE CAMERA

Difficult to Snap Fast Moving Objects at a Given Point

Only an expert, and he only after much practice, can take a photograph of a rapidly moving object at a predetermined point—for example, an express train with the cowcatcher just at a baseball at the instant the bat strikes it.

The reason for this is two-fold: First, there is a certain appreciable time between the mental decision to do a thing and the actual doing of it; second, it takes a certain appreciable time for the impulse given by pressing the button or squeezing the bulb of a camera to travel to the shutter and open it. The latter may in a very fine camera be only one-fiftieth of a second, but even the fiftieth of a second in a train going 100 feet to do a would mean a difference of two feet.

C. H. Claudy in an article in the "Camera" says that not more than once in four attempts will even an expert catch the precise instant he is seeking. The average man snaps his camera at the moment the ball is striking the club or racket, and by the time his shutter has worked the ball has gone. A ten-foot ball traverses nearly a mile a minute when struck by the bat. In ninety-six feet a second, so in a lag of one-tenth of a second between the pressing of the button and the opening of the shutter the ball will move nearly ten feet, and ordinary cameras work no faster than this. So one need not wonder if the expert fails.

BIRDS AND BRAINS

The Canary Well Supplied, While the Poor Hen is Sadly Lacking

Naturalists have arrived at the conclusion that the brain in birds is large in proportion to the body. If it is admitted that intelligence depends upon the weight of the brain then the goldfinch must be placed at the top of the list of birds. The brain weighs one-fourteenth of its whole body.

It must be remembered, however, that attempts to draw conclusions as to the intelligence of certain birds from a comparison of the weight of the brain with that of the body have been considered futile.

In man the brain forms from one-twenty-second to one-thirty-third of the whole body; in the canary, one-fourteenth; the sparrow, one-twenty-fifth; the chaffinch, one-twenty-seventh; the redstart, one-thirty-second; the blackbird, one-sixty-eighth; the duck, one-hundred-and-fifty-seventh; the eagle, one-two-hundred-and-sixtieth; the goose, one-three-hundred-and-sixtieth; the domestic hen, one-four-hundred-and-twelfth.

By some the preternaturally cunning raven is supposed to be the most highly developed of birds. His courage is so great that the eagle respects it, and his intelligence prevents him from getting into unseen though suspected dangers.—London Spectator.

How the fly would welcome a chance to mediate this swatting business.
