BUSY ARRANGING FINAL DETAILS

Conference Will Be Held in Hall of House of Representatives—Over 1,800 Accredited Representatives of Manufacturers Expected to Attend

With more than 80 per cent. of the space in both Chestnut street halls subscribed, the manufacturers' exhibit in connection with the second annual welfare and efficiency conference, to be held here during the week of November 16, promises to be better than last year.

Paul Gendell, director of exhibits, is busy arranging details for different exhibits, which will have for their purpose promotion of the safety first movement in factories throughout the State.

The program for this meeting is being arranged by Dr. John Price Jackson, Commissioner of Labor and Industry. Sessions will be held November 17, 18 and 19.

Diseased Cattle From New York

Pennsylvania is remarkably free at present from diseases among animals, but some trouble is being experienced now along the New York border. Men from the Department of Agriculture are stationed along the border to prevent the entrance of any cattle that have not passed a thorough examination. Many tubercular cattle have been turned back. Formerly there was trouble along the Ohio border, but the Ohio laws are now quite strict, also, and no more annoyance is experienced there. Much cholera has prevailed this year, but the State has spent less money for animals seized and killed during the first ten months of 1914 than during the first ten months of most other years.

HINT COURT WILL SET FUSION ASIDE

State committee until this last spring when the party rules were revised. The Republican party would not undertake to do this. It recognizes the law. I imagine your honor knows what the trouble is with this Democratic party.

"No, I don't," quickly responded Judge McCarrell.

Refers to Democratic Factions

"Well, you read it in the papers, just the same as I did. They have organized themselves into two factions. There is trouble between them and now they want to come and arrogate the rights of others—rights that don't belong to them.

"Two Democrats were nominated for the Legislature in the Seventeenth district and two have withdrawn, for purposes known to themselves, and members of the executive committee of the State committee now undertake to fill the vacancy, a right which we claim they do not have, but which we further contend is vested only,—in the primaries have passed,—in the hands of the city committee.

"But like all other good party men they are taking orders. They substituted nominations and they acted for the people who had previously acted for themselves. Up until April, 1914—

—the Democratic State committee recognized that it was without authority to make substitutions—why it even cannot fill vacancies in its own committee.

"Until then it recognized Home Rule and was a really Democratic committee. It was brutal. What is the use of holding a primary or giving to the city or county committees the powers of filling vacancies in the city if those powers are to be taken away from them by the State Committee? There is no law, or if there is, I would like to know where the law is, that would give the Democratic party or any other party the right, through its State Committee, to fill vacancies such as this and assume control of the rights to the city or county committee."

On cross examination Mrs. Albright said: "I saw all of the 'force bags' that my sister wore. You saw them. You ought to be convinced of that pretty soon."

In the House the filibuster continued before a quorumless body when adjournment was taken until noon to-morrow.

Shipments from this source should be consigned from chairman of the Belgian Relief Committee in charge of the work, to Pierce Mail, Belgian Consul, 25 Madison avenue, New York, and billed to Pier 28.
